NEW DEAL NEAR FIGHT TO FINISH ON 'INQUISITION'

Black Is Challenged by Liberty League.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Events are moving toward an early showdown on the charges that the Roosevelt administration is employing the methods of the soviet cheka to crack down on all participants in organized opposition to the New Deal.

The issue has been joined between the Black committee and the American Liberty league, which has advised its members that they are under no compulsion of law to answer the inquisitorial body's questionnaires.

The Black committee, created by the senate to investigate lobbying, has sent questionnaires to several hundred members of the Liberty league and half a dozen other anti-New Deal organizations demanding of these individuals information on their relations with all organizations and even on their corporation and other investments.

Hurl Challenge at Black.

Scores of citizens who received the questionnaires are reported to have refused to give the information demanded on the ground that the proceeding is without warant of law and is intended to intimidate and punish critics of the Roosevelt administration.

The Liberty league's public statement denying the authority of the Black committee is in effect a challange to Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.], chairman of the inquisition, to cite for contempt of the senate all who refuse to answer the questionnaire.

The United States Court of Appeals at Philadelphia last week put a crimp in one attempt by the administration to crack down on its foes by employment of the powers of income tax inquisition.

On the ground of the constitutional immunity of the citizen from unreasonable searches, the court balked an effort of the internal revenue bureau to pry into the 6 year old income tax records of John E. Zimmermann, president of the United Gas Improvement company, and his wife, Sarah A. F. Zimmermann.

Reprisals Are Charged.

In a decision which reversed a previous ruling by Judge William H. Kirkpatrick in the United States District court, the circuit court denied the right of the internal revenue agents to examine the accounts of the Zimmermanns in the offices of banks and brokerage houses.

No fraud had ever been alleged against Mr. and Mrs. Zimmermann. The U. G. I. president charged, at the hearing before Judge Kirkpatrick last May, that the government was taking punitive measures against him because of his opposition to New Deal anti-utility legislation.

Cases Go Far Back.

A host of prominent persons, including five members of the Republican national committee, seven persons prominent in the American Liberty league, and one Democratic senator are having trouble with the government over tax assessment, a recapitulation of internal revenue bureau records today showed.

Of the five Republican national committeemen two cases go back to the previous administration. There are no Democratic national committee members arguing with the bureau, but treasury officials explain that there are wealthier men in the Republican ranks. In any event, they say there is no politics in the tax controversies.

The government also is seeking $9,678 from Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted Lindbergh kidnap-slayer, and his wife, Anna, the records show, alleged to be due on income for 1932 and 1933.

Seek $206 from Copeland.

Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] has a tax assessment charge of $206 for 1931. William Randolph Hearst, puolisher, has a bill against him of $540,962 in assessments on his 1929 and 1930 incomes.

Among Republican national committee members with tax troubles are Mrs. Alvin T. Hert of Kentucky, vice chairman of the committee. She is contesting an additional levy of

ITALIAN ARMY ROUTS ENEMY IN SIX DAY BATTLE

80,000 Ethiopians Flee in North.

WITH THE NORTHERN ITALIAN ARMY AT THE FRONT, Feb. 15—[Delayed].—(AP)—Italy's northern army captured the Ethiopian mountain stronghold of Amba Aradam today and forced a defending army estimated at 80,000 to flee southward.

The Italians conquered 300 square miles of new territory and subjugated the major towns of Scelicot, Antalo, Belesat, and Dans, and 35 smaller villages, concluding a six day major offensive.

The defeated army was led by Ras Mulugheta, Ethiopian minister of war.

Victory Cheers Italians.

Italy's high command saw far-reaching possibilities as a result of the victory. Mulugheta's army was the chief northern barrier to an advance and was in its strongest northern position.

Ethiopia had numerous defensive advantages because of the terrain, but Italy had superior armament and equipment.

The movement involved seven Italian divisions and two army corps, a total of 65,000 men, all white. They precipitated terrific fighting with the casualties still uncertain.

Italian estimates of their own dead, all white troops, are under 500, with about 1,000 badly wounded. An estimate of Ethiopian casualties was 4,000 or 5,000 dead and 15,000 wounded.

Fight in Heavy Rain.

The movement was carried out despite a heavy rain during all of the six days. This added greatly to the difficulties of the tortuous mountain terrain.

The victory not only opened vast territories here but probably will force Ras Seyoum, Ethiopian leader in the north, to evacuate the Tembien area immediately before the Italians bottle up his forces by closing the rear along the Zalcaba plateau, south of the Gabat river.

The threat of both Ethiopian armies in the north appears lifted, and in view of the coming rainy season the action of the past six days may be the last serious fighting before September.

Huge Valley Cleared.

The Italian front line now stretches from Adi Serghem, the eastern extremity, through Adi Acheita to the west, across the Afgol plain to Belesat, Antlo and to the southwest to Enda Micael.

The huge Gabat river valley and the Zalcaba plateau have been cleared. The great fertile plains of Afgol and Buie lie apparently defenseless toward Amba Alaji.

"The enemy is beaten and is flying southward," said Marshal Pietro Badoglio, in command of Italy's African armies, at his headquarters, an observatory less than a mile from Amba Aradam.

The action started at dawn Feb. 10 and was culminated today at dusk when the Black Shirts' famous "23d of March" division and the Alpini, from Italy's own mountains, stormed the western face of Amba Aradam and planted the Italian flag on its highest peak as the Ethiopian defense finally broke.

The conquest of Aradam, a huge

THE SPIRIT OF THE NEW DEAL

'NUDIST' SCHOONER SAILS THIRD TIME FROM FLORIDA PORT

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The "nudist" schooner Fleetwood again pointed her weather beaten prow seaward today, leaving behind conjecture whether it was another "trial" run or its final departure in search of an utopian haven on Caribbean shores.

Twice before Maurice Allard and his little band—not nudists, necessarily, he said, but tolerant—sailed down Tampa bay ostensibly for the Virgin islands but turned back before getting out of sight of dry land.

Although doubt was expressed along the waterfront that the creaking schooner actually had started its voyage, a coast guard plane reported hours later it had spotted the little craft heading into the sea.

Red sails in the sunset, the Fleetwood was sighted two miles off Sarasota, apparently chugging along with its power unit helping a none too strong breeze.

SPRINGS A NEW EXCUSE IN FALSE FIRE ALARM CASE

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The bailiff groaned when William Buckley arose in Bronx magistrate's court, and announced he was guilty of turning in a false fire alarm "with explanation."

"It's going to be that old one about thinking it was a mail box," said he, but it wasn't.

"I was assisting a friend who had taken a few drinks," said Buckley. "He fell down. In assisting him up I grabbed for a post and my hand accidentally grabbed the handle to the fire alarm."

Magistrate Michael A. Ford fined Buckley $15 or five days in jail.

FATHER AT 94, NOW 96, EXPECTS ANOTHER HEIR

New Bern, N. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—George Hughes, 96, who became a father at the age of 94, is expecting a new addition to his family.

Hughes was said today by J. Gaskill McDaniel, associate editor of the Kinston Morning Herald, to have told him he expected the new arrival in May.

Nursing Home Burns; Invalid Dies; 2 Injured

An aged invalid was burned to death and two rescuers who braved flames to save a bedridden woman were injured in the near zero cold yesterday when fire destroyed a three story nursing home at 7409 Sheridan road. Trafic on the busy thoroughfare was tied up for more than two hours before firemen subdued the flames.

The victim of the fire was Charles Dorrance, 89 years old, an inventor. He died last night in the Rogers Park hospital.

Used as Invalids' Home.

Since 1930 Yonkers, his wife, Christiana, 51 years old, and Miss Sena Seeman, a nurse, have operated the house as a home for invalids, according to Dr. Harry E. Mock, 1616 Forest place, Evanston, owner of the building.

Miss Seeman was preparing breakfast in the kitchen when the fire and smoke were discovered pouring from Dorrance's bedroom on the second floor. He was smoking a cigar when she left him, the nurse said. Yonkers and Miss Seeman hurried upstairs and found the room a mass of flames.

They managed to carry Dorrance to the window and Miss Seeman pushed it open and screamed for help.

Invalid Carried to Roof.

Dan Deddo, 26 years old, 7223 Rogers avenue, was passing in his automobile, and heard her cries. He ran into the home of Mrs. Hetty Hughes, 7401 Sheridan road, and phoned the fire department. Then, with Mrs. Hughes son John, 17 years old, Deddo raised a stepladder to the roof over a sun porch of the burning house. Miss Seeman helped him lift Dorrance through the window, and firemen who arrived at the moment completed the rescue.

Yonkers then wrapped his wife, who had been an invalid for some time, in a coat, and carried her to a neighbor's home. Mrs. Hopkins, Miss Seeman, and the Yonkers' son, Frend Henry, 11 years old, then made their way through the smoke to the sidewalk. They were the only other occupants of the house.

Both Yonkers and Mrs. Hopkins incurred burns attempting to beat out the flames.

Rescue in Another Fire.

Trapped by fire in his home at 1948 North California avenue, Fred Larsen, 69 years old, was rescued yesterday by Capt. James Young of insurance patrol unit 7. His hands blistered, he still was clinging to a second floor porch when the patrol arrived. Three other members of the family escaped without injury.

An investigation will be opened today by Fire Attorney Thomas J. Sheehan into the origin of the fires which destroyed the Arrow Match company plant, 4527-35 West Lake street, and the offices of Odman Corporation of Illinois, manufacturers of paper products, at 228-30 West Kinzie street, last Saturday. Seventeen persons were injured in the match company fire, which was accompanied by two explosions. The Odman fire caused damage of $150,000.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.—An experimental swarm of stingless bees from Rhodesia arrived in London by air mail tonight.

The bees traveled in their own nest, which is a section of a tree trunk. According to Maj. F. M. C. Stokes, who imported them from Africa, they frightened almost every customs official who encountered them.

Originally the bees were found in the open veldt in Matabeleland and were kept four months by the southern Rhodesia department of agriculture before being given to the London Zoological society.

Some of the bees will be released in London to see if they will return to their hive.

King Edward Orders Half Length Picture on Stamps

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.—For the first time British postage stamps will carry a half length portrait of the sovereign instead of the customary profile when King Edward VIII. stamps are issued toward the end of the year. At the new king's request, his portrait will appear on all stamps in naval uniform, and he will be bareheaded. Ever since the first British adhesive stamp was issued in 1840 the sovereign has been represented by a head-and-neck portrait only.

3,000 Delegates to Study How "to Beautify Toes"

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The style decree, "beautify your toes" was heralded today by early arrivals of the 3,000 delegates expected for the National Beauty Congress opening tomorrow. They said some of the 65 beauty stylists invited to address the congress will show new methods of decorating little pink "piggies."

Trains Kill 5 as Autos Skid at Crossings

Two automobiles, death traps for their occupants, skidded last night in the icebound streets of western suburbs onto the tracks of the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad, where swiftly moving trains struck and demolished them. Three men and two women were killed and a man and a woman were critically injured in the two crashes. The dead:

STANLEY CIELAKIE, 38 years old, 709 Garfield avenue, Oak Park.

MRS. HELEN HILBORN, 32 years old, wife of Arthur.

The injured are Mrs. Frances Cielakie, 30 years old, wife of Stanley, and his brother, Edward Cielakie, 33 years old, both of whom were taken to the Oak Park hospital. Cream was a brother of Mrs. Cielakie, whose two sons, Stanley and William, 11 and 12 years old, were at home alone at the time of the tragedy.

The car in which the Cielakies and Cream were riding crashed through lowered gates at the Ridgeland avenue crossing of the railroad in Oak Park. The train that struck them was westbound, an Elgin flyer. It hurled the car more than twenty-five feet. The three men were tossed out, but firemen had to be called before Mrs. Cielakie, imprisoned in the vehicle when it fell across the third rail of the eastbound tracks and caught fire, could be extricated.

Car Plunges Through Gates.

Joseph Pekarek, 4324 Cullerton street, flagman at the crossing, told the Oak Park police that he was waving a red lantern when the automobile skidded on the pavement, broke the wooden gates and plunged into the path of the train.

"I had to jump to keep from being hit by the car," he asserted.

Edward Cielakie, an auditor for the Travellers' Life Insurance company, was the driver of the machine. The motorman of the train, John Bollwe, said that he had no opportunity to stop, adding that he was proceeding at normal speed.

Second Crash in Wheaton.

The second tragedy occurred when Hilborn's car was struck by an east bound train at Lincoln avenue, near Western avenue, in the west end of Wheaton.

The train, bound for Chicago from Elgin, was moving at high speed on tracks which at the point curve to the southeast. The car was carried more than 300 feet before the train was brought to a stop. Hilborn was tossed out, but his wife and Miss Heidenreich were still in the car when found.

Lieut. J. Y. Downey of the Wheaton police said that the crossing has electric flash warnings for motorists. Tests made after the crash indicated that these were working when the automobile ran onto the tracks. There were, however, no witnesses except the motorman, Thomas Hardy.

One theory advanced was that the falling snow prevented the auto driver from seeing the approach of

ATTORNEY AND PASTOR PRESS FOR NEW STORY

Warden Speculates on Confession.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Samuel S. Leibowitz, noted New York criminal lawyer, held another conference with Bruno Richard Hauptmann in the death house of the state prison here this afternoon, and at its conclusion announced that he was "making progress"—supposedly in his efforts to shed new light on the mystery.

REV. JOHN MATHIESON.

Leibowitz came out looking grave.

"Did he confess?" Leibowitz was asked.

"No comment," said the attorney. "All I'll say is that I'm now going to see the governor at South Amboy. Lieut. Robert H. Hicks is coming with me."

As Leibowitz was getting into the car he indicated that the Rev. John Mathieson, Hauptmann's spiritual adviser, was an important link in the effort to get the "true story."

In Case "to Crack It."

"Are you now actually Hauptmann's attorney?" he was asked.

"He wants me in the case. I'm in this thing now and I'm going to stay until I crack it. I think I can."

Today's interview lasted about three and one-half hours. Apparently the lawyer had a lot of pointed questions to fire at his prospective client, for upon emerging from the death house he quoted Hauptmann as having said to him during the course of the talk:

"You are worse as Wilentz" [David Wilentz, state's attorney general who prosecuted Hauptmann in the trial at Flemington a year ago].

Leibowitz refused to amplify this remark or to give any hint as to the questions he might have put to the condemned man.

Warden Ready for Confession.

Col. Mark Kimberling, principal keeper of the state prison, tersely remarked that this was the longest interview Hauptmann has engaged in since he was convicted and incarcerated here to await his execution.

"If Hauptmann has confessed or makes any admissions," Kimberling stated, "I'll hear about it from a guard who was present at the conference. But I shall communicate with Gov. Harold G. Hoffman before making any announcement. Should accomplices be named, it might be necessary to withhold all information pending further arrests."

Leibowitz was accompanied to the death house by the Rev. Mr. Mathieson, a Lutheran pastor of Trenton. The clergyman was present throughout the interview.

Lawyer Goes to Governor.

Upon leaving the prison Leibowitz took an automobile for South Amboy to report the result of his visit to Gov. Hoffman.

The New York lawyer arrived here from Washington where he had conferred at some length earlier in the day with Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, wealthy society woman who spent $100,000 some two years ago in an unsuccessful effort to solve the kidnap-murder mystery. Leibowitz was accompanied on the trip from the capital by Lieutenant Hicks, an investigator for the Hauptmann defense.

Carries Transcript of Evidence.

Leibowitz carried with him two volumes of the bound transcript of the trial at Flemington a year ago, in which Hauptmann was convicted. They included the summing up by Attorney General David T. Wilentz, a list of the errors claimed by the defense, a list of the witnesses and exhibits, and many photographs of exhibits, including pictures of the nursery from which Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. was stolen, the wood in the kidnap ladder, and the ransom notes.

Mrs. Hauptmann was precluded from today's interview by prison rules which forbids visits to condemned prisoners by relatives or friends on Sundays.

Meanwhile, it was reported that Assistant State's Attorney General Joseph A. Lanigan was preparing to go before Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard at Flemington next Tuesday to move for the fixing of a new date for the electrocution of Hauptmann.

Expect New Reprieve.

The carpenter's thirty day reprieve granted by Gov. Hoffman to permit "further investigation" of the case expired yesterday. The general belief here is that the governor, in view of the reopened inquiry, is prepared to grant at least one further reprieve in order to permit the state police and other authorities concerned in the investigation to develop whatever new leads they may have upon which to work.

Under the state law the governor is empowered to grant reprieves totaling no more than ninety days from the time of the original sentence. Any relief Hauptmann may hope to obtain after the expiration of this three months period would have to come either from the state board of pardons—of which the governor is a member—or through the courts in the form of a new trial. If a pardon or commutation of sentence were to come about it would have to be authorized by a majority of the board including the governor.

Gov. Hoffman Is "Pleased."

Perth Amboy, N. J., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—After a three hour talk with Samuel Leibowitz, new attorney in the Bruno Hauptmann case, Gov. Harold G. Hoffman tonight said he was "pleased" with the efforts being made by the New York criminal lawyer.

"In my talk with Mr. Leibowitz," the governor said, "I was impressed with the fact that in his two conferences with Hauptmann he placed the prisoner under perhaps the hardest questioning he has been subjected to at any time in his efforts to determine whether he was a participant in the crime."

The other grandchildren of the President are Anna Eleanor and Curtis Dall, children of Mrs. John Boettiger, and the two children of Elliott Roosevelt.

PRINCETON EDUCATOR ASSAILS GUARANTEES OFFERED BY COLLEGES

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Dean Christian Gauss of Princeton university today criticized colleges and universities for "virtually guaranteeing greater incomes to college-trained men as compared with those who do not attend universities."

He charged they have contributed to the "present increasing tendency to measure human welfare in terms of material wealth."

Addressing a communion breakfast of the Newman clubs, the Princeton educator said:

"I do not believe this country ever has been so permeated with the notion of material wealth as it is today.

"We of the universities have brought this curse upon ourselves because we said that if you came to our colleges you would earn more money than those who didn't come. We quoted statistics to prove those statements."

GERMAN AIR MAIL PLANE IS MISSING ON ATLANTIC HOP

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—(AP)—A ten ton mail plane operated by the German Lufthansa organization has been missing since early Saturday after leaving Natal, Brazil, Friday night on a flight across the South Atlantic, it was disclosed tonight. The plane ran into a thunderstorm soon after leaving Natal. Officials said it was sturdy enough to ride heavy waves for several days.

The plane, making its 146th hop across the ocean, carried Pilot Bielenstein, an assistant pilot, a mechanic, and a radio operator. It was due at Bathurst, Gambia, usually a 15 to 18 hour trip, at noon Saturday. No reports of it had been received since early Saturday morning. Authorities were hoping it had landed safely on the sea, or that it had reached Africa but had been unable to communicate with the outside world because of radio trouble.

One land plane was searching the African coastline, while a seaplane left Natal to fly over the route of the missing plane, a Dornier Wal. A Lufthansa emergency ship, the Schwabenland, which lies off Bathurst, began a search.

CHILD, UNAWARE HER BROTHER, 4, SHOT HER, DIES

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Six year old Lois Jerden died today, apparently unaware she had been shot by her 4 year old brother.

Saturday night when Lois' baby brother found his father's pistol underneath a mattress, pointed it at her and pulled the trigger, she was only frightened. She ran a block to the grocery where her mother was buying food, and complained "Dorsey pointed that gun at me."

The mother, Mrs. D. B. Jerden, completed her shopping. She and Lois then walked home, neither suspecting what had happened.

At home the little girl sank in a chair, saying "My side hurts."

4 PERSONS DIE AS BLAST LEVELS TWO RESIDENCES

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Four persons were killed today in an explosion which wrecked two homes in suburban River Rouge and shattered windows over a wide area. Police said they believed the blast was caused by gas which escaped from frozen mains.

The victims were Fred Corns, 32; his wife, Etha, 32, who were recently married, and William Beeching, 53, and his 80 year old mother whose name was not learned immediately.

Two children in a home nearby were imperiled by the explosion. They were Beverly Weaver, 4, and Nancy, 2, children of Frank [Buck] Weaver, athletic director in the River Rouge High school. Glass and plaster was showered over the bed in which they were sleeping, but they were not injured.

AUTO OF M'GURN, SOUGHT SINCE KILLING, IS FOUND

Left in Street by Gang Which Flees in Car.

The automobile of Machine Gun Jack McGurn, which had been sought by the police since the notorious gangster was slain early Saturday in a bowling alley at 805 Milwaukee avenue, was found early today in front of 315 North Ada street. It had been left there only a few minutes earlier.

Persons living in the neighborhood reported to the police that a man who stepped out of the car, a Ford, joined several others who were in a second automobile and rode away with them.

It was the belief of the police that the two men who entered the bowling alley with McGurn shortly before he was slain fled in this car. The identity of these men has not been made known. William Aloisi, owner of the alleys, and two of his employés—the only ones of 20 witnesses who saw McGurn slain available for questioning—have consistently maintained that they did not know them; nor McGurn, for that matter.

The car was clean and apparently had been kept in a garage. The police were of the opinion that whoever had it had decided to get rid of it as a measure of safety.

Orders Bowlers Questioned.

Capt. Martin E. Mullen Jr. ordered yesterday that all persons known as regular patrons of Aloisio's be questioned, and detectives of the Racine avenue station were busy searching for these bowlers.

There was no change in the police theory that McGurn was slain probably by a man whom he regarded as a friend. Only such a person, according to investigators, could have come up behind him when he was at play. Possibly, it was said, several men, including two who entered the bowling place with him, were in the murder plot. It was viewed as a "gang purge" to rid the Caponeites of a man who, at 32 years, had outlived his underworld usefulness.

Funeral Pomp to Be Missing.

The pomp and circumstance that marked the funerals of gangsters in the days when Al Capone was great will be missing tomorrow when McGurn's body is buried.

Indications were that only a fair sized cortège would follow it from the Rago undertaking rooms at 624 North Western avenue, to the place of interment in Mount Carmel cemetery.

About 150 visitors called yesterday to view the body. Many of these were friends of the Gebardi family [McGurn was born Vincent Gebardi]. There was a sprinkling of his one time friends in gangland, but it was reported that many others were conspicuously absent. There was no massing of floral tributes and no sheaf of telegrams from other cities.

Instead of a $15,000 silver coffin such as the one in which Dean O'Banion was laid to his final rest eleven years ago, McGurn will have a modest one that cost something less than $1,000. Police officials held that the lessened glory represented the fall in the status of gangsters.

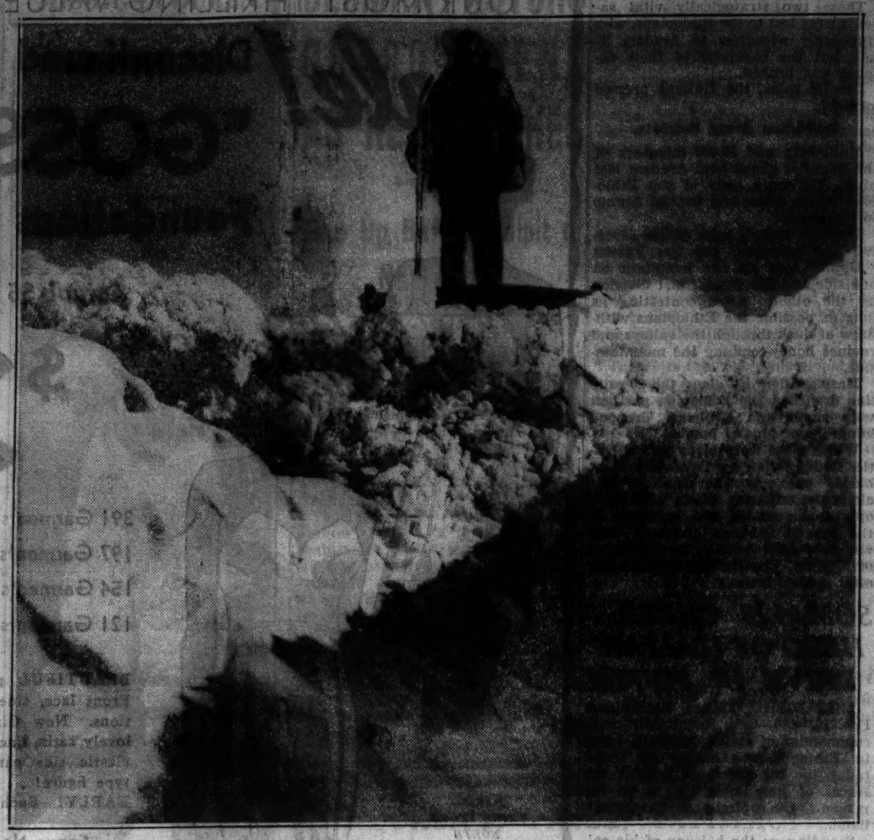
WHY ROADS ARE BLOCKED IN CENTRAL STATES



The prospect this Minnesota highway worker is surveying from the top of the cab of a truck near Faribault, Minn., shows why traffic has been stopped. Strong winds have piled the snow on roads.

WINTER PRANKS GIVE WEATHER MAN NIGHTMARE

Maybe Snow, or Zero, or Neither, He Says.

Within the next two or three days, Chicago may experience as wide a range of pranks nature ever unleashed during a bitter winter. Even the weather man is uncertain about the forecasts.

Warmer wind from Lake Michigan should continue today to protect the city from severe cold as it did yesterday, according to C. A. Donnel, government meteorologist. And the 2.6 inches of snow which fell yesterday probably will be augmented today.

"But I am qualifying even my twenty-four hour forecast," Mr. Donnel stated. "It is all because of a widespread low pressure area, moving up from the southwest and bringing general snow.

Possibilities of Arctic Chill.

"Everything depends on the rapidity and direction of this storm. It may come upon us swiftly, or it may not arrive until Tuesday or Wednesday. Should the storm center pass to the south or north, the snow will be light. But if we meet the center of the storm, it will snow heavily and may even be a blizzard. In the wake of this low pressure may come more subzero cold. Until then, however, the lake should protect us."

The snow yesterday failed to clog main highways, which were kept open by plow crews, but country lanes were again drifted over. Snowbound for three weeks, 100 resident students and 50 teachers of the Allendale school, near Lake Villa, have dug roads and dragged in food and fuel by sled.

Batavia Schools to Close.

Lack of fuel caused an announcement that Batavia schools will close today for a week. After being shut down for nearly a week, schools at Towanda now have sufficient fuel, and will reopen today.

Many farm communities in South Dakota were still without transportation yesterday as shovel and plow crews worked their way through towering snowdrifts to bring in supplies. Throughout all the northwest subzero temperatures ranging upward from 50 below at Williston, N. D., were the rule. The 30th consecutive day of below zero weather broke the record at Sioux City, Ia.

OL' MAN WINTER TURNS OUT TO BE EFFECTIVE AS CRIME DETERRENT

Winter's bitter three week siege of zero weather brought one boon to Chicago. Fearful of getting their ears frozen or being unable to escape on slippery streets, robbers, burglars, purse snatchers, and other hoodlums have remained at home by the fire. "The year around average for 'stick-ups' is about thirty a day with fifty on a Saturday night," explained Deputy Chief of Detectives Walter Storms. "But since Jan. 22, when the zero weather started, such crimes have ranged only from six to twenty-eight a day."

CAPITAL AWAITS SUPREME COURT DECISION ON TVA

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Fast flying rumors of a deadlock in the Supreme court over the TVA case tonight recalled pointed questions asked from the bench during oral arguments 60 days ago.

The high tribunal will have another opportunity tomorrow to rule on the controversy. The justices then will recess for two weeks, or until March 2.

Of important New Deal significance, the TVA case presents the issue of whether the constitution permits the federal government to sell electricity in competition with private utilities. Stockholders of the Alabama Power company contend that the Tennessee Valley authority has damaged them by purchasing transmission lines from the concern to carry power to southern towns.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

NICE, Feb. 16.—King Carol of Rumania arrived here this morning on the Blue train from Paris. Accompanied by two aids, the king was officially welcomed by the prefect and other officials and then was driven to his villa at Fabron, in the hills overlooking Nice, where he intends to remain two days before proceeding to Bucharest. Magda Lupescu, the king's friend, was on his train, but she avoided the official reception by leaving the station at the rear and taking a taxi to Château Fabron.

Car Skids; Driver Killed.

Emmett Parkhill, 24 years old, 5436 Winthrop avenue, an awning salesman, died yesterday in the Edgewater hospital of injuries he received Saturday night when the car he was driving skidded and crashed headon into a street car in the 5800 block on North Clark street. Two persons who were riding with Parkhill were injured.

An unidentified man about 50 years old was seriously injured yesterday when he was struck by a hit and run driver as he crossed South Clark street in the 700 block. The automobile, headed south, increased speed after the accident. The man was taken to St. Luke's hospital by another motorist.

August Feddersen, 53 years old, 7024 South Winchester avenue, died in St. Luke's hospital early today of injuries suffered Feb. 2, when he was struck by an automobile at 8th street and Wabash avenue. The driver failed to stop after the accident.

The Death Toll Goes Up.

At 4 p. m. yesterday 127 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to the coroner's office. During the same period 109 were killed and 1,865 were injured within the city limits of Chicago.

A heavy west bound truck skidded and sideswiped an east bound street car at Harrison and South Rockwell streets yesterday, breaking four windows in the street car. The truck did not stop.

Figures in Second Accident.

A few minutes later the same truck struck Ernest Gaston, 38 years old, 2523 West Harrison street, as he walked across Harrison street and South Campbell avenue. Again the truck failed to stop.

A police squad from the Warren avenue station trailed the truck by the tracks its tires left in the snow and slush to 2143 Lexington street, where they arrested Lloyd W. Traise, 29 years old, 5446 West Jackson boulevard, and placed against him two charges of reckless driving, a charge of driving without a chauffeur's license, and a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

ROBBED OF $535 IN HOME.

Two gunmen held up Walter Wishnow, 1208 Winnemac avenue, yesterday in the vestibule of his home and took $535, the week-end receipts from his fruit store at 4955 Broadway.

GIRL IS STRUCK BY STOLEN TAXI; RAPED BY THIEF

Carl Radzki, 23 years old, 2014 Iowa street, was arrested late last night by a squad of the Warren avenue police station as he was holding prisoner a young woman he had first injured by striking her with a stolen cab, and then robbed and raped.

His victim, who is 25 years old, was struck down when Radzki drove the cab out of an alley near her home. She accepted his offer to take her to a hospital for treatment. Halting the cab in front of 2043 Carroll avenue, he got into the rear seat with the girl and after taking her purse raped her.

A few minutes later Policemen Thorsten Doll, Harold Dwyer, and Urman Kuester, passing the car, halted to investigate and heard the young woman's screams. Radzki, who was unarmed, submitted to arrest without a fight.

"I was drunk," he said, "and I stole the cab in front of 1332 West Madison street. It was an accident that I hit the girl and the idea of robbing and attacking her came to me after she was in the back seat."

The girl was taken to the County hospital and kept there for treatment.

LEAGUE MOVES INTO 10 MILLION PALACE TODAY

Assembly Hall Will Not Be Ready for Six Months.

GENEVA, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The league of nations will move tomorrow into its new $10,000,000 palace, a gleaming mass of white stone which stands impressively on the slopes of Lake Leman [Lake Geneva].

This palace, which represents the greatest architectural effort perhaps since the world war, rivals the historic chateau of Versailles in size.

The "international white house" occupies a magnificent site. It dominates the lake and looks upon the glittering, snow-capped Alps, including Monte Blanc on the opposite shore, and on the other side faces the long range of the French Jura mountains.

Moving involves the transportation of 600 tons of records at a cost of $25,000.

Outside City of Geneva.

One criticism already voiced of the league's new home is that it stands too far outside the city of Geneva. Disputes between architects of various nations caused lengthy delays in the building's completion.

It is not completed and the assembly chamber will not be ready for the assembly meeting in September. The library, to which John D. Rockefeller Jr. donated $2,000,000, cannot be opened for six weeks.

The palace is really composed of several buildings. One long wing contains the secretariat, another the council hall, a third the library, and a fourth the great assembly hall.

For Use of Many Groups.

The large central assembly hall is the most imposing section of the edifice. It will be used not only for league assemblies but also for other international conferences of the league of nations and of the international labor organization.

The central portion of the hall has room for 300 delegates, for 200 experts and secretaries of delegations, and for 100 league officials. There are galleries to accommodate some 200 official guests and for the public and others with room for 500 newspaper men.

Some idea of the immense size of the palace is had by a few figures. There are about 900 offices and other rooms, 1,700 doors, and the same number of windows. There are 21 elevators either for passengers or for goods.

Started Five Years Ago.

An international competition was held to select plans for the construction of the palace. Three hundred seventy-seven architects competed.

The plan eventually accepted was that drawn, by a French architect, M. Nenot, and a Swiss, M. Flegenheimen. They were assisted by other architects and made certain modifications in their original drawings at the request of the league committee.

The building was started on March 1, 1931, and the workmen have included those of ten different nationalities.

ITALY CAPTURES MOUNTAIN STRONGHOLD

Arrow on map points to mountain stronghold of Amba Aradam which 65,000 Italians, all white, captured in northern Ethiopia after six days of fierce fighting. The invaders claim to have conquered 300 square miles of new territory as well as the capture of four major towns, including Scelicot and Antalo, and 35 smaller villages. The Italians declare the victory gives them a clear thoroughfare to Mount Alaji. The map's shaded area shows the northern Ethiopian territory now in Italy's hands.

DEMANDS BRITAIN RECALL FLEET; FEARS AIR RAID

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 17 [Monday].—Lord Rothermere, newspaper owner, in an open letter published in his Daily Mail this morning demanded the recall of the British fleet from the Mediterranean. He insisted the vessels concentrated at Haifa, Alexandria, and Aden lie at the mercy of the Italian air force.

Admitting that the British press was permitted to publish practically nothing about naval concentrations, Rothermere nevertheless said that 50 British warships and numerous smaller craft are stationed at Alexandria. In the eastern Mediterranean and at Aden there are at present no less than 600,000 tons of war vessels—more than half of Great Britain's tonnage, he declared.

Rothermere drew a vivid picture of the defenseless British fleet being wiped out by powerful Italian bombers. He asserted that the latest Italian planes possess a range of 2,000 miles, carry two tons of bombs, and fly 250 miles an hour.

ITALIAN ARMY ROUTS ENEMY IN SIX DAY BATTLE

stone, flat-topped rectangle, 9,000 feet high, cleared the path to the rich plain stretching for many miles down to Amba Alaji. It also gives the Fascist fighters a direct thoroughfare across the high plateau of Zalcaba to the rear of Ras Seyoum's 40,000 men, who have been a menace in the Tembien region.

Amba Aradam has lain like a great stone block from the east to the west, five to eight miles long and half a mile wide, across Italy's path to the Ethiopian interior ever since the taking of Makale in November.

The greatest single battle of the offensive came on the third day when two army corps which started an encircling movement of almost 15 miles reached the shadows of Aradam itself.

In a sudden assault the Black Shirts occupied a small mountain known as "The Priest's Hat," in the rear of Aradam.

Ethiopians Counter Attack.

The Ethiopians immediately counter attacked. A bitter battle raged throughout the day. Some 15,000 warriors stormed "The Priest's Hat" again and again, but were beaten back.

The Italians reported they lost 129 dead and 275 wounded that day. The slopes were littered with bodies of khaki clad Ethiopian regulars mowed down by Italian machine gun crossfire.

Those two strategically vital salients were lost to the Ethiopians, who stubbornly withdrew to Aradam itself, but the backbone of their defense was broken.

Despite rains, the Italians pressed forward.

Defending Army Retreats.

Mulugheta and 10,000 members of the imperial guard held Aradam last night, the main body of the Ethiopian forces retreating toward Antalo to the south.

Through today's mist clouds covering the mountain top the Fascist "Alpini" tore up the mountain on one side and the Black Shirt division on the other. After contesting as long as possible the Ethiopians withdrew at dusk through the valleys and ravines honey-combing the mountainside.

Mass artillery all along the 20 mile line drenched the Ethiopian position with shells and airplanes dropped hundreds of tons of bombs.

While there were many minor battles during the six days, the most bloody one was Thursday, far out along the left wing where 2,500 Ethiopians surrounded one battalion of the Fascist Sabauda division. This was near Addi Acheiti, far southwest of Makale. The Italians fought clear after several hours.

SOMALIS CHEER HERO OF ITALIAN DRIVE IN SOUTH

MOGADISHU, Italian Somaliland, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Gen. Rodolfo Graziani, commander of Italy's southern army in Ethiopia, was wildly acclaimed today for his successes against the forces of Ras Desta Demtu on his return to the capital of Italian Somaliland.

"We have been fighting for the last three months and have been victorious all the time. We shall go on to pull the feet of clay out from under this colossal giant who is fed by the sanctionists. We shall face great battles in the next three months, but we shall continue to victory."

BETTER LIGHT—BETTER SIGHT

Lamps that aid the Eyes of the world

A lighting development of importance to every man, woman and child

● Recent lighting studies disclosed a serious problem. Inadequate and improper use of illumination were causing widespread eye strain that led in turn to fatigue, nervousness, and a host of kindred ailments.

Realizing that bad lighting had to be corrected, the Illuminating Engineering Society determined the kind of lamp necessary to provide abundant, soft, even light for every seeing need. Specifications for such a lamp were drawn up and given to lamp manufacturers.

To carry the I. E. S. tag of approval, a lamp must adhere to the rigid standards of the Illuminating Engineering Society. Among other things the shade must be wide enough to cast light over the entire working area, and be lined with light-reflecting material for greatest efficiency. The glass reflector must soften the light cast downward and also throw light upward for general illumination. That is why reading, sewing, or fine, close work under an I. E. S. Better Sight lamp causes no eye strain or fatigue.

It is of utmost importance that you know the truth about your present lighting. Upon request, we will measure your present lighting. This service is free. Telephone RANdolph 1200, Local 197, and ask for a free Sight Meter test of your light.

FEDERAL COUPONS GIVEN

GIRL MOTHERS SONNY BOY FOR A FEW HOURS

For six hours yesterday, Miss Margaret Mann, 24 years old, of Evanston, had possession of Sonny Boy, 6 years old, who she says is her son, disputing the claim of Dr. Gordon Mordoff, Wilmette physician, that the boy is his.

Sonny, who Miss Mann insists is Reginald Arthur Mann, was turned over to her at 1 p. m. by Mrs. Ina Meyer, 1121 Highland avenue, Wilmette, at whose home Dr. Mordoff is living temporarily. The physician remained in the rear of the house. The child was returned shortly before 7 p. m., the time set by Superior Judge Hudouin Desort in the court hearing last Friday in the suit involving the child's custody.

Insist Child Is Their Brother.

Dr. Mordoff's son, Gordon Jr., 21 years old, and his adopted daughter, Mary Margaret, 17 years old, returned from Minneapolis yesterday and added their claims that Sonny Boy is Gordon Mordoff III., their brother.

Their trip to Minneapolis was to attend the funeral of their mother, Mrs. Madge Mordoff, who died last Monday. It was after her death that Miss Mann demanded the baby's custody, asserting the child was born to her here on May 19, 1932, and was boarded at the Mordoff home. The doctor, who is 49 years old, declares Sonny was born to his wife on Sept. 2, 1932, in Minneapolis.

When Dr. Mordoff refused to surrender the boy, Miss Mann got possession of him for a day Wednesday by charging the doctor with kidnaping. Judge Desort returned him to the physician for the time.

"My mother would never try to deceive," said Mary Margaret, a vivacious, dark haired girl. "I'm sure if there had been any dark secret she would have told me before her death because she was preparing me to take her place in caring for Sonny."

"I know he is my brother," added Gordon Jr. "I went to Minneapolis with my mother before the baby was born and I remember she was ill at the time."

Dr. Mordoff produced a photograph of himself at the age of 3 and asserted it bore a striking resemblance to Sonny Boy.

Miss Mann, who lives at 1102 Church street, Evanston, was accompanied by her brother, Raymond J. Mann, 960 Division street, Highland Park, when she called for and returned with Sonny Boy. The child departed and returned in good spirits. He started to kiss his sister on his return, then said, "I can't kiss you; I have a cold." He spoke vaguely of "the lady" and "Margaret," with whom he had his afternoon visit.

Shows Fondness for Physician.

"I had milk, carrots, meat," he remarked, sitting on Dr. Mordoff's lap and kissing him.

"Did you have ice cream?" Dr. Mordoff asked, and the boy shook his head.

"I'll buy you a pail of ice cream," said Dr. Mordoff.

Dr. Mordoff and his son and daughter conferred yesterday with his attorney, Harry X. Cole, and Benjamin B. Davis, friend of the court in the custody contest.

Davis represented Mrs. Mordoff in a suit for separate maintenance which was pending at her death. It was this litigation which made the boy a ward of the court. To gain full custody Miss Mann entered an intervening petition in the dead woman's support suit. Attorney Cole said the son and daughter gave a "straightforward story" and may be used as witnesses when the hearing before Judge Desort is resumed next Thursday.

GERMAN PASTORS GUARD FRIEND AS HE PREACHES

Line Up Before Pulpit of Nazi Critic.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—Fifty Protestant pastors wearing black robes appeared in a demonstration of loyalty in Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial church this afternoon for their colleague, the Rev. Gerhard Jacobi, one of the outstanding leaders of the Confessional (opposition) synod.

The newspaper Volkischer Beobachter started a new campaign against the pastor several days ago. He was beaten up by adversaries a year ago and was arrested several times in the fight for the freedom of creed.

At Christmas time the committee of Hans Kerrl, church minister, and the GSP (secret police) forbade the Rev. Mr. Jacobi to preach. Several times they imposed a "house arrest" on him, preventing him from leaving his residence.

On Feb. 8 the church committee permitted Jacobi to resume services. After he preached last Sunday the Volkischer Beobachter launched a bitter attack against the pastor who has a Jewish grandfather. Friends of Jacobi pointed out that the pastor's great-grandfather was christened in childhood.

The Volkischer Beobachter declared that "any sermon preached by this descendant of a Jew will be considered as a demonstration against National Socialism."

Jacobi received a warning from the national church ministry and the head of the church committee this morning while the German Christians—most of them Nazi Protestants—of his own parish sent him threatening letters. They branded his desire to preach as "an impudent political demonstration and not a church affair."

Therefore the fifty Confessional pastors solemnly marched into the church at their colleague and surrounded the altar. The church was packed. Silently the congregation listened to Jacobi's sermon on the text "If God be for us, who can be against us?" There was no hostile demonstration. Police reinforcements surrounded the church during the sermon.

In the morning services all Confessional pastors read a protest against the attack of the Volkischer Beobachter on Jacobi and especially against the tone of the attack.

BRITAIN REVEALS WARSHIP IN PORT IS SABOTAGED

LONDON, Feb. 17 [Monday].—(AP)—The admiralty announced today that saboteurs had damaged the 9,750 ton British cruiser Cumberland, stationed at Chatham. The warship had been placed in the dockyard there March 12, 1935, to undergo some alterations.

"The matter is under investigation," the announcement said, "and it would not be in the public interest to make any statement."

This was the first instance of sabotage on British warships while in commission within home waters. The other vessels said to have been tampered with were the battleship Royal Oak and the submarine Oberon. Minor damage to these vessels was discovered in December. The Royal Oak and the Oberon were at the Devonport yards.

Mrs. O'Neil is charged with murder in connection with the girl's death.

RING OF STEEL AROUND GERMANY ALARMS HITLER

Nazis Fear 'Franco-Russian Parade' Over Berlin

BERLIN, Feb. 16. — (AP) — Worry mounted in official German circles today over a recent flutter of diplomatic activity in London and Paris which Nazis claimed amounts to a "dagger pointed straight at Germany's heart."

Columns of attack in the controled press against "foreign maneuvering" have been let loose since the crowned heads and foreign ministers held their surprise talks in London and Paris after the funeral of King George.

All comment frankly charges that the old "pre-war ring" is being formed about Germany and that a "Franco-Russian parade" over Berlin is planned.

Why Germany Is Uneasy.

But no inkling of what Reichsfuehrer Hitler intends to do about it is given by the newspapers. The Franco-Russian defensive pact, which officials here expect will be ratified this week by the chamber of deputies, is a center of Nazi uneasiness. Coupled with it are three other factors:

1. Great Britain's huge rearmament program.

2. The fact that Czechoslovakia has planned to strengthen Austria against possible German domination.

3. An increase in the size of the soviet Baltic fleet.

Contradicting Pierre-Etienne Flandin, foreign minister of France, who said the Franco-Russian treaty was not aimed at Germany, a spokesman for the foreign office here asserted:

"Not only the French and German press say it is only against Germany but even in the chamber of deputies Henri Torres, the reporter, said so. The pact is a new element in political uncertainty and seldom in post-war history has a treaty caused such agitation and apprehension.

"Might Makes Right."

"If this coalition ever begins to march then it will once more be confirmed that 'might makes right.'"

German officials assert that the league of nations could not justly name an aggressor in case of war as the two powers "will bring pressure to bear."

Premier Milan Hodza of Czechoslovakia was the butt of the sharpest attacks Nazis have leveled against foreign statesmen for some time.

Baffled at what appeared to be a Czech attempt to get Austria into the little entente through trade pacts, foreign office spokesmen accused Hodza of "mixing in affairs that do not concern him."

Denying that Austrian independence is endangered by Germany, these spokesmen say Hodza is "dealing in Austria's inner political development, which is not foreigners' business."

Great Britain's rearmament plans have had lengthy accounts in newspapers, which called it part of an iron ring being forged around the Rhine.

"A monstrous defense machinery against rising Germany is being thought out," said Paul Scheffer, a leading diplomatic writer.

POLES MAY MODIFY ANTI-KOSHER BILL; AIM TO SOOTHE JEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WARSAW, Poland, Feb. 16.—Jewish opposition to the anti kosher bill, recently introduced in parliament, had its first success today. Government officials reported it was not likely that the measure proposed by Mrs. Janina Prystor, wife of a former premier, to abolish the ritual killing of animals would be passed at the present session of parliament in its original form. Government committees are studying the bill as well as a proposal to introduced another measure more satisfactory to the Jews.

However, the Jewish monopoly of the meat industry will be canceled even though the Jews will be permitted to continue the use of ritual methods to obtain meat for their own consumption, according to the new project.

Gen. Roman Gorecki, minister of industry and commerce, said the government is interested in the meat industry as a source of additional revenue. The turn-over of the meat trade, he said, amounts to more than 100 million dollars a year, and until now it has been operated as a racket, delivering an enormous graft connected with ritual killing to Jewish interests.

FRANCO-RUSSIAN ALLIANCE PUTS POLAND IN HOLE

Forced to Choose Between Paris and Berlin.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WARSAW, Poland, Feb. 16.—Indications from Paris that the French parliament will ratify the Franco-Russian pact have resulted in much diplomatic activity in Warsaw, Poland, however, according to an official spokesman, is being placed on the spot. Her policy of maintaining strict neutrality between the soviet government and Germany is being made untenable by this agreement.

Moscow accuses Poland of being involved in a plot with Germany to seize the Ukraine. Polish protestations that she only has nonaggression pacts with both Berlin and Moscow and wants nothing better than to keep these agreements are being ignored. Replying to Moscow's charges Poland accuses Maxim Litvinov, soviet foreign commissar, of undermining the Poles in an effort to form a united front against Germany.

Poland Has Two Choices.

Poland is now wavering, continued the spokesman, between lining up with the Franco-soviet team, which Warsaw believes is plotting a German program in which Poland would count as the major victim, and signing an alliance with Germany.

Last week Josef Lipski, Polish ambassador to Berlin, made a hurried secret visit to Warsaw for a conference with Josef Beck, the foreign minister. The censor did not permit this visit to be mentioned in the Warsaw press.

Hans Frank, German minister of justice, also paid a visit to Warsaw ostensibly to lecture, but he also conferred with Beck. Arthur Greiser, president of the Danzig senate, who is now hunting with President Ignace Moscicki of Poland in the Bialowiecz forest, will meet Beck tomorrow.

Goering to See Leaders.

Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, German minister of air, is expected in Warsaw for still another conference this week. Early in March, perhaps sooner, Foreign Minister Beck will visit Brussels, and the foreign office has not denied a report that he will continue his journey to London which has extended him an urgent invitation.

Together with Germany, Italy, Hungary and Japan, Poland is anxious to acquire additional territory. Blaming her present economic distress chiefly on over-population, and with her population growing at the rate of 500,000 a year, Poland openly declares she would like some colonies.

The declaration of Sir Samuel Hoare, former British foreign secretary, at Geneva, that the world's resources of raw material and labor should be more equitably distributed awoke warm affirmation in Warsaw. Poland produces labor. At the last

FRANCE TO COMPEL CZARIST EXILES TO SERVE IN HER ARMY

PARIS, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Russian royalists who fled from communism may be forced to fight for France's new ally, soviet Russia, under a decision of the general staff to incorporate refugees into the French army.

The government plans to enforce a 1928 law conscripting all refugees "without nationality" living in France. Most of the 600,000 Russians in this country failed to seek naturalization after communists canceled their citizenship, hoping some day to return to their native land.

Officials estimated that 200,000 men would be added to the army's trained reserves by the step.

Geneva session Foreign Minister Beck recalled Hoare's statement promising to revive this question at an early Points to Tragic History.

Poland has a more intimate knowledge of bolshevistic Russia than the western powers, the government's spokesman said.

"In her past tragic history this nation faced the east and was stabbed in the back," she continued. "Today France wants us to face the west and submit to the same fate, but Poland is going to continue to face both the east and west."

Polish leaders express the hope that London and Paris will awaken to the fact that no war between Germany and Russia is practical so long as Poland is able to maintain her present policy.

Gen. Goering's forthcoming visit is viewed by official circles with suspicion, for he is regarded as a Greek bringing tempting gifts. Poland reduced Germany's railroad trafic across the Polish corridor more than half on Feb. 7, and her negotiators in Berlin have failed to obtain the $15,000,000 for transit costs due Poland. The negotiations petered out quietly.

Poland's foreign credits in Germany are estimated at approximately $90,000,000 and although the Poles know the Germans have a fat reserve of gold hidden, they cannot obtain cash. Warsaw is afraid Goering might bring an offer in return for an alliance which would be difficult to reject.

Whether or not Poland will line up with the "have-nots" against the "haves" is a question which is being closely watched by the embassies of Russia, France and England in this capital.

RIGHTISTS CLAIM SPAIN ELECTION; 6 PERSONS KILLED

Restoration of Church Is Expected Soon.

BULLETIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Feb. 17 (Monday).—Leftists early today disputed rightists' claim to victory in yesterday's parliamentary elections. Leftists declared a majority of their candidates were returned winners in Catalonia, Asturias and the agricultural districts of southern Spain. Leftists assert the contest is even in Madrid.

MADRID, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The ministry of interior announced late tonight that the Rightists, headed by Jose Maria Gil Robles, apparently had won an "overwhelming victory" today in Spain's first general elections since 1933.

Six persons were killed in scattered acts of violence throughout the country, but the election was much more orderly than the last. The government had taken strong precautions.

Restoration of privileges of the Catholic church is expected to be one of the first steps if the rightists won.

Political observers predicted on the basis of the incomplete returns that the right would take about 250 of the 473 seats in the cortes. They believed the left would not secure more than 187 seats.

Lerroux Defeated.

The rightists' victory, it was indicated, was not as sweeping as they had confidently expected. The left piled up formidable majorities in a number of provinces, and in several others ran the right coalition such a close race that no candidate polled the 40 per cent required by the electoral code.

The winners in these sections will not be known until after the runoff elections March 1. Poor communications will delay for several days an accurate estimate of today's results.

"This gives rise to a number of serious problems, because the region is autonomous. The government, however, will meet these problems as they arise."

The premier said Felix Escalas, governor general of Catalonia, resigned as soon as the leftist victory there was confirmed.

Six Persons Killed.

Despite alarming rumors that leftists planned serious disorders only a few desultory acts of violence were reported. The killing of six persons and the injuring of a number of others was a new low record for casualties and less than one-third of the total recorded in 1933.

A clash between rightists and leftists at Carballino, Orense province, resulted in the death of one leftist. A janitor was shot to death at a political headquarters in the village of Quinto, province of Saragossa, and another man was killed in the village of Orro, province of Corunna, when civil guards were fired upon by a group in a truck described as leftists.

A leftist election official was killed in the town of Velascain, in Pamplona province. At the town of Toen, in Orense province, a carload of plain clothes police were mistaken for communists. The occupants were pursued and beaten before the mistake was discovered.

CAPTURE INTRUDER IN CHURCH.

Lights early yesterday in the First Christian Church of the Redeemer, 1319 South Ashland avenue, brought police, who found a lock broken and caught Raymond Wojick, 19 years old, hiding in the vestibule.

STRICT EMBARGO ON BELLIGERENTS URGED BY BUTLER

Adoption by congress of a neutrality law that would forbid trade with any nation whenever there was a war and give no discretionary power to any official was advocated yesterday by Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U. S. M. C., retired, in a speech in Medinah temple.

"Complete isolation of the United States when any other countries are at war is the only way to be neutral and keep us out of war," said Gen. Butler. "If we want to keep democracy in this country stay out of war. We must be neutral even if it hurts."

Gen. Butler spoke under the auspices of the National Independent Business Social Civic organization, 100 East Ohio street, to an audience of 500. The proceeds of the ticket sale are to be turned over to the Shriners' hospital for crippled children. A musical program preceded the lecture.

Swiss Town Demands Nazi Headquarters Be Removed

DAVOS, Switzerland, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Because of the notoriety attending the assassination here of Wilhelm Gustloff the town council today demanded that the federal government remove the Swiss Nazi headquarters. Gustloff, leader of German Nazis in Switzerland, was shot to death by a Jewish student.

CURRENT EVENTS BASIS OF THE NEW HISTORY COURSES

Newspaper Becomes Text Preface to Past.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

As an offshoot of the awakened interest in American history in colleges and high schools, William H. Johnson, assistant superintendent of Chicago schools, yesterday directed attention to an experiment in social science instruction at the Crane Technical High school. It has for motivation current history as portrayed in the newspapers. It works from foreground to background instead of vice versa as under traditional methods.

W. H. JOHNSON.

An announcement from Mr. Johnson to high school principals sets forth that a social studies laboratory—in history, civics, and economics—has been set up at the Crane school by Evan B. Clogston and Walter H. Werre, social science instructors. It followed a suggestion made two years ago by Henry H. Hagen, principal of the school, for new teaching methods and techniques.

New Teaching Technique.

"This departure," said Mr. Johnson, "is an experiment aimed at vitalizing the history of America and its institutions for the students. It is a current events approach to the social studies. Teaching technique is undergoing a renaissance. The present tendency is to teach with live material from today's newspapers and periodicals.

"We start history in the grades. In the fourth grade American leaders and heroes are topics; in the fifth grade the colonization period. In the sixth grade a background comes from ancient history. In the seventh and eighth grades, American history is taught five hours a week.

"In Chicago high schools a full year of United States history and half a year of community civics are required subjects in all four year curricula. They are in the common core of required subjects to provide for the essentials of citizenship.

Stress American Viewpoint.

"History should be taught from the American point of view. Children are impressionable. Give them the facts up through high school from the American point of view. Under the old chronological system we learned a lot of dates and facts that to the youthful mind appear dry as dust. The new technique is to make this material alive.

At the Crane school the experiment in the current events approach is conducted in two connected rooms. Instead of desks there are tables and chairs grouped in units of 16 students and there are filing cabinets. There are textbooks at the tables.

"But the point of departure and center of interest for information is the local daily newspapers," says the description by Messrs. Clogston and Werre.

The Common Denominator.

"The customary approach to the teaching of economics, civics, and history has been through a crystalized mass of textbook material dealing with the subjects as separate static entities. The really vital social movements and affairs know no such lack of flow. The approach to the teaching of these subjects can be made through current movements and affairs common to all of them. This approach was adopted in the experiment.

"Newspapers and magazines were recognized as the chief common sources of knowledge concerning these happenings. To begin with the present, in order to make vivid the past, oriented our efforts.

"The main objective aimed at developing thinking citizens who have acquired abilities and understandings sufficient to critically evaluate discussions of social problems to the end that they may participate intelligently in the formation of public policies."

Wide Field of Studies.

The following fields of study are set up in the laboratory: Executive, legislative and judicial functions; finance, taxation, protection, education, commerce, labor, agriculture, political parties, international relations, political and social reform, and development of democracy.

Each of these fields is outlined by topics.

"In the newspaper," says the Clogston-Werre syllabus, "the student is confronted with practically the entire field of human endeavor, practices and policies, which may appall him with their sheer complexity. Therefore, he needs guidance.

"Let the student note all terms in his field that carry significance or are strangers to him. Here is his tieup. Reading an article in the news of today impels him to make an immediate reference to his text for clarification, thus giving books a new meaning.

"They now appear not merely as ponderous masses of abstract task material to be mastered so a teacher will be satisfied, but as friends that offer aid in the understanding and solving of problems. At least, he will be taught to withhold judgment and reserve opinions until a more complete understanding of situations has come about."

Comprehensive Topical Study.

As samples of the topics, a few of the 71 terms to be studied in the field of "Development of Democracy" are collectivism, right to own property, inalienable rights, due process of law, Magna Charta, bill of rights, sovereignty of states, paternalism, judicial review, checks and balances, the constitution as a flexible document, constitutional guarantees.

Some schoolmen have been critical of the current events approach to the social studies, and stress the need of safeguards against propaganda.

"During the two years of experimenting," says the syllabus, "increasing popularity of the courses indicates at least an aroused interest on the part of students. Questions raised by them indicate that the instruction has been vitalized. These questions do not center on isolated facts, but about big social issues and movements, issues that must be settled eventually."

GEN. WM. MITCHELL'S PROSECUTOR FACES A COURT MARTIAL TODAY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—An army officer who assisted in the prosecution at the celebrated court martial of Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, former chief of air corps, will go to trial himself tomorrow before a court martial.

He is Col. Joseph I. McMullen, of the judge advocate general's staf, charged with accepting two round trip railroad tickets from Washington to San Francisco as a "reward" for legal advice to a civilian interested in war department contracts.

COL. JOS. McMULLEN.

More than ten years ago, McMullen, then a lieutenant colonel, helped prosecute Gen. Mitchell for his sharp public attack on the administration of national defense by the army and navy.

CATCH 2 WITH BURGLAR TOOLS.

Burglars' tools were found on Peter Schlitz, 33 years old, 939 Winona avenue, and Delfred Clark Drero, 33 years old, 1219 East 65th street, an ex-convict, when they were seized by Summerdale police yesterday in an apartment building at 5632 Winthrop avenue.

ARMY AND NAVY OFFER REWARDS FOR FLYING AIDS

Improvements to Reduce Hazards Sought.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—A wide field for inventors in promoting aviation efficiency and safety was outlined today by military and naval officials who cited a standing offer of rewards up to $75,000 for approved devices.

The government's patent and design board is authorized to pay that much for developments advancing aeronautical science. The board consists of the assistant secretaries of war, navy, and commerce.

To qualify for the payments, inventors must produce devices which are capable of use in government aviation, and which receive the approval of the national advisory committee for aeronautics.

Seek High Lift Device.

Dr. George W. Lewis, the committee's director of aeronautical research, said one development now sought was a high lift device which would enable planes to land at a lower speed without slowing their air speed.

High landing speeds, Dr. Lewis said, are now the cause of a large number of aviation's accidents. He added that any device or design reducing hazards would be of tremendous benefit to the entire industry.

Air corps officers said one of the vital improvements needed is a new bombing sight for faster modern planes.

Needs Are Listed.

They also cited these other needs:

Improved superchargers to add to engine power.

Improved methods for braking planes in landing.

Lighter and more efficient propellers.

Improved gunsights for airplane machine guns.

Devices for de-icing propellers and wing and tail surfaces to prevent many cold weather accidents.

Improved cowling to increase the safety factor and assist in increasing speed.

An altimeter, especially for low flying.

"Other nations are spending millions on research," Dr. Lewis said, "and while we are leading the world now, we may not a year or two hence unless we make every effort to not only keep abreast, but a year or so ahead of every one else."

PRISON INQUIRY TO START TODAY AT STATEVILLE

Gov. Horner's commission which will investigate prison conditions in Illinois and especially at Stateville will meet at that penitentiary at 10:30 o'clock this morning. At the same time State's Attorney William R. McCabe of Will county will impanel a grand jury to investigate recent specific crimes there. Mr. McCabe stated yesterday that the first business of the new grand jury would be to summon witnesses of the razor slaying on Jan. 28 of Richard Loeb, murderer of Bobbie Franks. James Day, a fellow prisoner, who asserted that he killed Loeb in self-defence during a fight in the shower room, will be brought before the grand jury.

WHISKY-TORCH KILLING IN OKLAHOMA BLAMED ON MOONSHINE FEUD

Idabel, Okla., Feb. 16.—(AP)—A hill country "moonshine" liquor feud was advanced by officers tonight as the probable motive behind a slaying in which the victim's shot torn body was soaked in whisky and set on fire.

County Attorney C. D. Wilkinson said Virgil Crowder, a Kiamichi mountain farmer, confessed he slew Robert Warren, 22, of near Wright City, being paid $25 to do so by Albert Swann, 52, and Swann's son-in-law, Cecil Wallace, 25, both of Glover.

AMERICANS PUSH HUNT FOR BURIED GOLD IN ECUADOR

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The last big push by an American expedition in Ecuador toward a legendary treasure lake in the Sierra Hermosa range was believed under way today.

Radioed advices to friends here from Capt. E. Erskine Loch set the day for an attempt to cut through trackless jungles of Oriente province, past hostile Ssabela Indian tribes, toward the Andean lake where Incas were reputed to have hidden their gold from Spanish invaders 400 years ago. The party seeks data on the Ssabelas for the Heye Museum of the American Indian.

Capt. Loch is accompanied by two other white men and a half dozen Indians of a friendly tribe. He said he would leave behind him his last link with civilization, a short wave wireless set, because the hum of its generator might warn the Ssabelas, whose trails are filled with ingenious man traps. The Loch party will head for the Chiripuno and Napo rivers. With Loch are John Ohman, a Glenhead, N. Y., radio operator, and George Brun, a French aviator, who is the cook for the expedition. Three other members of the expedition have returned recently, two of them stricken with jungle fever.

Vandals Smash Windows in Five Stores in Loop

BIG BOULDER DAM COMPLETED; U. S. TO TAKE IT OVER

Project Is Finished Far Ahead of Schedule.

Boulder City, Nev., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The United States government on March 1 will take over the big chunk of concrete that tamed the big bad river of the wild west—the canyon-digging Colorado.

Boulder dam with its power house is finished by its contractors, the Six Companies, more than two years ahead of schedule.

The bid on it was $48,890,995, but the contractors will receive approximately $51,950,000 because of contract changes. A penalty clause of $3,000 a day for failure to complete the work within seven years spurred immediate action after signing of the contract April 20, 1931.

Hydraulic engineers pointed to the job as the biggest one since Gen. Goethals dug the big ditch across the Isthmus of Panama.

The dam, which tames the Colorado, creates the largest lake man ever made—a reservoir of 30,500,000 acre feet capacity. It will provide for reclamation of 2,000,000 acres. Its cost is expected to be met by the electrical energy generated by the power houses.

Flames Destroy Church, a Landmark at Tuscola

Tuscola, Ill., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Flames dstroyed the Hugo Community church, an old landmark and active community center, twelve miles southeast of Tuscola, today when a spark on a shingled roof ignited the building. Three weeks ago the Dry Point schoolhouse in the same neighborhood burned.

OFFICER TO TELL OF CANN'S PART IN GUN BATTLE

Policeman Will Testify in Liggett Case.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 16.—[Special.] — A rebuttal witness for the state will take the stand tomorrow in Isadore [Kid Cann] Blumenfeld's trial for the murder of Walter W. Liggett and contradict Cann's testimony that he is unfamiliar with firearms or their use. The witness will be Bernard Wynne, a Minneapolis policeman.

He will testify that he saw Cann with a smoking gun in his hand during a gun fight in a north side resort eight years ago. Another policeman, James Trepanier, was crippled in the battle that occurred when the two officers were sent to the place to quell a fight.

Cann Wounded in Fight.

A bullet from Wynne's gun struck Cann in the leg during the fight in which the patrolmen were lined up against a gang of hoodlums which included Verne Miller, South Dakota desperado, who later was slain by gangsters. Cann was indicted for assault, but the case later was nolled on motion of Gov. Floyd Olson, then county attorney.

The prosecutors said Wynne's testimony would be only the first of a number of surprises in store as the state concludes its rebuttal. They indicated that all the "surprises" would deal with Cann's alleged rôles in shootings.

Just what the state hoped to prove by a contradiction of Cann's denial of familiarity with firearms was not clear. Its only effect, apparently would be further to impeach his credibility in the eyes of the jury.

26 Witnesses Back Alibi.

Observers who have watched the five weeks of the trial could not see today what effect the contradiction could have on Cann's principal defense, the alibi which placed him in a loop barber shop at the moment Liggett was killed, 5:41 p. m., Dec. 9.

His attorney, Thomas McMeekin, called 26 witnesses to support the alibi, taking the jury around the clock from 9:30 a. m. to 6:15 p. m. and placing Cann at a specified spot at each moment.

Against the alibi the state's two eye-witnesses, Mrs. Edith Liggett, widow of the slain newspaper publisher, and Wesley Andersch identified Cann as the man they had seen leaning from the window of a slowly moving car to fire five machine gun slugs into Liggett's back in the alley behind the publisher's apartment.

TWO FLYERS DIE IN PLANE CRASH ON TEXAS STREET

Dallas, Tex., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Two men were killed today in a private airplane crash in a street in Highland Park, adjoining Dallas.

The two were identified as George L. Culver, president of the Culver Oil company of Gladewater, Tex., and of the Dallas Culver Aircraft, Inc., and Paul Snick of Troy, O.

The airplane was destroyed by fire.

SOFT TAILORING

IS THE THEME OF THESE NEW SUITS!

Do you know what we mean by soft tailoring? Take any man's suit coat, rumple the lapel in your hand, it's stiff, harsh! In a woman's suit it would be uncomfortable and boardy looking! Soft tailoring does away with that mannish stiffness! It imitates the masculine, yet emphasizes the feminine . . . the nipped in waistline, soft shoulders, the curves that make a suit becoming to a woman! Of course, it takes good, expensive tailoring to make soft tailoring successful, and we've seen to it that every suit in Stevens suit section is softly tailored.

As to your type, these sketches give a pretty good idea of our wide variety of styles. Any woman can wear a suit this Spring if she lets us help her choose the softly tailored suit to fit her type. Misses' and women's sizes.

AMERICANS WITH A PRICE ON THEIR HEADS.

Senator Black's Gestapo [Hitler secret police] is by no means the only Washington organization of espionage and inquisition prowling in the private affairs of American citizens, but it is at present the most active one engaged in bulldozing American citizens in the hope that it can make them afraid to exercise their political rights.

In one hand the New Deal carries the money bag and in the other a club. The voter may take his choice. If he is found busy in the works of the New Deal he will be rewarded. If he is found busy opposing them he will be clubbed and dragged before the inquisitors. Mr. Black has been made the head of this Gestapo of terrorist agents as chairman of the senate lobby committee, and he, fortunately for the citizens threatened, has put his intentions down on paper in such specific terms that nobody in the country can misunderstand what he is trying to do. He was so sure of himself that he didn't endeavor to cover up. He could have used a smoke screen but didn't think it was worth the trouble. Things already have gone so far in the tracks of Hitler that Black could take the direct instead of the oblique method of attack on the citizens he intends to coerce.

In the resolution by which he obtained investigating authority he named particular organizations whose activities were to be examined. He named the Crusaders, the Sentinels of the Republic, the American Federation of Investors, the New York State Economic council, the Liberty league, the National Association of Manufacturers, and the American Taxpayers' league. He did not name the Federation of Labor, the American Legion, the Union for Social Justice, the Old Age Revolving Pensions Ltd. [Townsend], or other organizations which have maintained lobbies in Washington. He selected the societies of American citizens who are making political sentiment against the New Deal, arousing the people to an understanding that if they permit the revolution to carry out its program for an additional four years they will all be ruined. Dictatorship smashes opposition before the voting begins and does not scruple as to method. In Italy it is castor oil, exile to barren islands, or a beating up. Under Hitler it's the blood purge, the secret arrest, and the concentration camp. In Russia it's Siberia or the firing squad.

Black, having publicly proscribed and published the men and women he was after, sent out an impertinent questionnaire, followed by his agents. The victim is told to stand and give information regarding his private affairs which government has no right to demand. He is led to understand that it will be better for him if he makes his statements under oath, and then he receives a visit from the agents who themselves have been told to be tough. The agents demand the citizen's private papers, his accounts, and his files. Resistance based upon unquestionable privileges and immunities is met by the threat that if full satisfaction is not given the citizen will be taken to Washington and subjected to the inquisition by senators who have extended their prerogatives to cover the most outrageous abuses.

America is again back to the tyranny of the sedition act, and the people may not be able to comprehend that government would dare do such a thing to them. It is the boldest defiance of American principles the country ever experienced. Government has never dared threaten thousands of American people with punishment for their normal political activities before in the republic's history. It may be a good thing to have this matter well understood in time to put an end to it in the next election. Deliver the American people from what would happen if this Hitlerized government got four more years of life.

FURTHER* OBSERVATIONS ON FOOTNOTES.

There is much internal evidence to suggest that publishers of books do not read them. For one thing, the maps are frequently inadequate. They leave out some or many of the places referred to in the text and very seldom, even when all the places are shown, is the reader given any help in locating on the published map the particular spot referred to in the text. That could be done easily, as any automobile road map demonstrates, but it isn't.

Then there is the matter of footnotes. These are of two kinds. Most of them are devoted to citations of authority. They say Ibid and loc. cit. They are of enormous value to the scholar but of only occasional interest to the average reader.

The other kind of footnote is calculated by the author to throw added light on the subject under discussion. It offers a minor exception to the generality in the text or explains away what looks like a major exception. It gives the author an opportunity for a wisecrack which he thinks would be unseemly in the body of the book. It permits an illuminating quotation. It enables him to promise a fuller treatment of a point later on or to remind the reader of a discussion in an earlier chapter. The ordinary reader wishes that more of this material were incorporated directly in the text because of the time lost in finding his place again, but most readers would not complain if this kind of note were used in moderation, say not oftener than once every four or five pages.

It is the citation footnote which is the real troublemaker. It breaks the continuity just as effectively as the other kind, but yields no slightest return.

Publishers ought to take account of the two kinds of readers and the two kinds of notes. The citations of authority should be indicated in the text by numbers. The explanatory notes should be indicated by asterisks and kindred symbols. Then when the ordinary reader came to a numbered note he could pass it by; only an asterisk would arrest him.

If this scheme were adopted the time required to read the ordinary book would be reduced fully 10 per cent and the enjoyment would be heightened. Accordingly, more books would be sold.

*We say "further" because we must have discussed this subject before—everybody has at one time or another—but we don't remember when and it doesn't make much difference anyway. Whatever may have been said on the subject which runs counter to the ideas now expressed is hereby revoked.

MARKED CARDS AT SPRINGFIELD.

Gov. Horner included the permanent registration bill in his call because he thought his party enemy, Mr. Nash, would not like it. Mr. Nash had defeated it once, and the governor, who personally may be for such a bill, thought that the men who will try to defeat him for renomination would appear in the public eye as bad bosses if they had again to take a stand against honest elections. Permanent registration has been endorsed by the experience of political units which have tried it and is recommended as a protection against fraudulent voting.

One politician does not catch another so easily as the governor tried to catch Mr. Nash. The Cook county Democratic boss looked over a handful of political trick cards and played the one he thought would trump Mr. Horner's ace. He had a permanent registration bill introduced in the legislature, thus, he hoped, disposing of the charge that he could possibly be opposed to anything promoting honesty of elections. How could a responsible party leader ever be suspected of wanting a little leeway in the casting and counting of fraudulent votes?

There are several ways of killing a bill when a boss politician doesn't want it turned into law. If arguments can be made about it you can get some slick fellows to put up a plausible show of reason against it. If the slick fellows can't find the plausible reasons you can just say it shall not pass and take the consequences of defeating it. This second method brings bosses out in the open, an undesirable obtrusion of the strong arm. These are soft spoken days. A third way of beating a good bill is to introduce a substitute which superficially may seem to be better. There will be no honesty in the appearance, only tricky plausibility, and it will be contrived so that its provisions develop new opposition and throw the responsibility for its defeat on the shoulders of other men who would not have opposed the bill at all if it had not gone unnecessarily out of its way to drag them in on unrelated issues. This method of defeating a bill is a squirmy one which often is completely successful.

For instance, in the present instance the need of permanent registration is in communities such as Chicago which have boards of election commissioners. They are large and populous areas in which the identity of voters can be obscured and where it is always a problem to be sure that the voter is qualified and voting in his proper person. The smaller communities of the state do not need so many precautions and in many of them there's no registration at all. The people who come to polling places know each other, the election officials know them, and the right to vote is a self-evident fact.

Mr. Nash, to avoid getting a tighter registration law in Chicago, had his bill drawn to bring all the political units of the state under its provisions, and of course the people who haven't had registration don't want to bother with it, or stand its expense. So legislators who would vote for increasing the protection of the ballot box where the protection is needed will be inclined to reject a bill for state-wide registration. Mr. Nash knew they would. Thus he uses a bill they don't want to kill one he doesn't want. If he can do so he will trump the governor's ace, but it ought to be known that he is playing with marked cards.

Editorial of the Day

"FOR USE ON LAND."

[Detroit Free Press.]

Unless the wind blows sharp and strong, as it has lately, the average person is seldom conscious of it. But every day throughout the United States meteorologists measure the wind in terms of the Beaufort scale of wind force.

In that name is immortalized a British admiral, Sir Francis Beaufort, who was born in 1774 and died in 1857. Since his interest was in the navy, he set up a chart of numbers from zero to 12, to indicate the strength of the wind. His standard was a full rigged man-of-war, but he added sailing directions for other ships. When the wind corresponded to No. 5 on the scale, for example, the directions were "smacks, shorten sails" for coast purposes and "royals, etc., full and by," for the open sea.

The Beaufort scale card issued by the United States department of agriculture, weather bureau, gives the Beaufort numbers, the corresponding velocity in miles per hour and the terms used in weather bureau forecasts. In addition are descriptive specifications "for use on land," taking the place of sailing directions in this motor-powered age. In their language is a certain poetic imagery that pictures our less rugged existence: for No. 5 in the modern scale reads: "Small trees in leaf begin to sway; crested wavelets form on inland waters." Winds that once whistled in halyards now whistle in telegraph wires.

WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO with that extra day, Feb. 29, that's going to be presented to us this year? We only receive this gracious boon once every four years. We ought to do something about it. It's a present from Father Time and we ought to appreciate it. We needn't save it for the leap year girls who are grabbing husbands; they started grabbing just as the clock struck 12, when the new year came in, and they're all through now. We might make it the day for returning borrowed books, but the book borrowers would get the idea they didn't have to return books until they kept 'em four years. They've got the idea, anyhow, but it's no use putting official sanction on it. No, we've got to do something about this extra day that's been tossed right into our hands this year. Will some one make a motion?

Marvelous, simply marvelous!

THE KNIFE in the guillotine that snipped off the head of Louis XVI. in France and "brought Democracy to France" was sold at auction in Paris the other day for the very disappointing price of $167. Well, $167 was a pretty good price for the guillotine knife at that. There's so few kings left that it wouldn't be much use that way and if they use it for chopping chickens' heads off it's a bit slow and cumbersome. The man who bought it will probably put it out in his kitchen for a can opener. To what base uses do we come to at last!

"Imperious Caesar, dead and turned to clay,
Might stop a hole to keep the wind away;
O, that that earth, which kept the world in awe,

ISN'T IT ABOUT TIME that somebody sees the first robin again? No matter how cold it gets they are always seeing that darned bird. I'll bet that even up at the North Pole the Daily Esquimo Icicle prints now and then that "Miss Etta Tallowcandle, who lives just three blocks from the pole, saw the first robin reported here this year fighting with a polar bear over a choice piece of blubber on an ice floe in her back yard." He's a tough baby, that first robin.

THE CROW.

Carrion-black, unearthly wise,
Bird with an ageless eye,
He has survived a perished land,
And a far, undreamt of sky.

There was a time he sat with kings
And picked a stately dish.
Were he less wise, he would not forgo
The folly of a wish.

Had he not seen rich kingdoms fall,
And dust corrode their towers,
He would not disdain, as he does now,
The treasure of these hours.

But with stately tread and scornful eye
He lifts a weary wing,
And watching him, I learn how slight
It was to be a king.

PAIN FROM THE TEETH.

THE human race would not have survived many generations, even under ideal conditions, were it not for the system of telegraph wires [nerves] which convey messages [sensations] from all parts of the body to the brain. Without the sense of pain we would be unaware of danger, injury, or disease. Whenever pain occurs we know that something is wrong; it is nature's sign of trouble. If we fail to heed the warning disaster may follow. Pain of dental origin is a signal that must not go unobserved if we would keep well and one of its commonest manifestations—toothache—is no respecter of persons.

The simplest form of tooth pain is characterized by short periods of distress provoked by the taking of cold drinks or the eating of highly concentrated sweets. This usually means that a cavity is present and that a tooth needs repair. When decay spreads into a deeper portion of a tooth the painful periods are of longer duration. Many teeth in this situation can still be saved by appropriate treatment.

Contrary to general opinion, the most persistent type of toothache is that which is experienced after the death of the pulp [nerve]. In such cases cold no longer increases the pain but—on the other hand—relieves it. Many teeth in this condition are infected beyond their roots and must be extracted.

One form of apparent toothache does not involve the teeth at all. The teeth in which the pain seems to be located are perfectly healthy and great care must be taken not to blame teeth for a neuralgia which may involve one entire side of the face. A goodly number of normal teeth have probably been extracted in the hope that such removal would relieve the distressing symptoms of nerve pain. We understand this disease—trigeminal neuralgia—far better today than we did a generation ago.

One of the most frequent causes of dental pain may be due to recession of the gums, exposing the roots of the teeth. Symptoms of pain will appear on taking a breath of cold air through the mouth or after eating sour or sweet substances. There is no cavity in a tooth itself and careful search must be made for the sensitive spot. Whenever sweets cause pain we may be certain that the dentine [the bony structure beneath the enamel] is exposed somewhere.

Food may lodge between two teeth because of a cavity that is almost imperceptible. These retained food particles decompose and the result is inflammation. Furthermore, a hard tooth brush may irritate the gums unduly. The extent of the pain following the extraction of a tooth will depend on how much injury has been inflicted on the surrounding bone and soft tissue.

When wisdom teeth attempt to erupt, pain is a usual symptom. In the lower jaw particularly, as the tooth is pushing upward, the gum is likely to leave a deep pocket under the gum flap. This may harbor decomposing food and hence become the site of inflammation. If a wisdom tooth is crowded against the tooth next in front or is lying horizontally in the bone, it may cause pressure pain. In fact, many general systemic symptoms may be due to unerupted or badly situated wisdom teeth.

Toothache and disease originating in the mouth can be prevented by proper care of cavities before they reach the pulp. But we must find the cavities before we can have them filled and the most careful inspection by a competent dentist is required to locate these insidious foci of disease. In many cases the X-ray will prove to be a valuable aid.

It is much smarter not to have toothache than to endure it. Most of us who are interested in good health will seek advice about heart disease, kidney disease, rheumatism, arthritis, etc. So why not prevent these very conditions by making certain that the teeth receive proper attention periodically at the hands of a skilled dentist?

PNEUMONIA SEASON.

R. C. writes:

I know that this is the pneumonia season. Are there any special precautions that one can take against this killing disease?

REPLY.

A large number of cases of pneumonia will develop within the next thirty to sixty days. Pneumonia can attack one suddenly. It is more likely, however, to follow a neglected cold. By neglected I mean failure to go to bed and keep warm.

Infection from the nose and throat travels readily to the trachea, the bronchial tubes, and the lungs. If every cold were handled with the seriousness that it deserves we could reduce the number of cases of pneumonia by three-fourths.

The governor of the state of New York has recently issued a proclamation advising the citizens of that state of the danger that lurks in this disease.

Should pneumonia appear, skilled help must be secured as promptly as possible. If the infection is caused by certain strains of the pneumococcus serum should be used.

WARNED, ANYWAY.

M. W. writes: While visiting I caught cold and took two pills from the medicine cabinet that I supposed contained quinine. Later I found out they were worm tablets for the dog, which had been put in a quinine box. I have felt no ill effects and want to know if I should expect any?

REPLY.

Vermicides may become toxic to the patient as well as to the worms. However, as you have felt no ill effects you were probably safe. Many such preparations contain santonin, which is not particularly poisonous in small doses. In taking medicine, it is well to know what the box or bottle contains. Many cases of serious poisoning have occurred because of mislabeled containers.

SHRINKING GUMS.

R. McL. writes:

What causes the gums to shrink from the teeth?

Can this condition be cured, and what is the treatment?

REPLY.

Chronic recession of the gum tissues may be due to an extreme thinness of the gums, to overbrushing, to infection, or to some food deficiency. The tooth brush should not be too hard, and the tooth powder or tooth paste should not be gritty or contain caustic chemicals. The gums may be painted twice a week with iodoglycerol solution. Occasionally an underlying diabetes or arthritis will be found to be a contributing cause. But home treatment is seldom effective, hence a skilled dentist should be consulted.

From Across the Sea

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN.—The government of President Eamon de Valera spent more than two years in getting rid of the second chamber of the parliament—the senate.

The bill to kill the senate was passed in the dail in July, 1934. The senate naturally refused to accept it, and exercised its powers to hold it up for eighteen months. This period expired in December. The stipulated procedure was that the senate should get another opportunity to accept the measure—that is, to agree to its own extinction. But the senate refused to agree.

That, however, was merely a gesture of going down fighting, for the constitution provides that when a bill reaches this stage, no matter what attitude the senate may take up, it must be regarded as having passed both houses after the expiration of a further period of sixty days. This occurred early in February.

While bicameral legislatures are the common characteristic of all the great democratically governed countries in the world today, it is of interest to examine the reasons which have been advanced for the abolition of the second chamber in a small country like the Irish Free State, whose people have always claimed to be the most democratic on earth.

De Valera complained that the senate, which was in existence when he came into office, obstructed and maltreated his legislation. On behalf of the senate it is held that it did no more to De Valera's legislation than to his predecessors', that it merely discharged its duty of examining the bills sent to it, of amending them as it was entitled to do, and of holding them up for a period if it considered them unsuitable.

The senate had no power to kill legislation, but merely to alter and delay. There was no compulsion on the dail to accept the alterations made by the senate, except that if it did not accept them there was a danger that the bill in question might be delayed.

The senate did hold up the bill which De Valera proposed for the purpose of removing from the constitution the provision that all deputies should take an oath of allegiance to the king of England. That was the senate's mortal offense, for De Valera, who had himself remained out of the dail for several years because he would not take that oath, was determined that it should go at the earliest moment. Its removal, the senate believed, would be a breach of the treaty.

De Valera, however, opposed the treaty at the beginning, and to all appearances he is opposed to it still. Indeed, it seems as if his policy is to nullify every provision of it, irrespective of what the other party to the treaty, the British government, may think.

Other claims in favor of a second chamber are that it protects the people from the certain tyranny of a single chamber with a complaisant majority, and, most important of all, that it offers an effective barrier to the advance of a dictatorship. During the debates it was frequently alleged that this latter was De Valera's objective notwithstanding protestations by him that there was nothing which he so thoroughly detested.

President De Valera's view is that he has been put in office by the votes of the people and that when the people indicate to him that they are dissatisfied with his administration he will not stand between them and another government.

This is true democracy, but apparently what his opponents fear is that his obvious hold upon the majority of the people will enable him to hold office for a long time to come. It is true that during his term of power he has altered much of the policy of his predecessors, has upset many of their schemes, has especially played havoc with their theories as to what the relations of this country should be with Great Britain, and shown how it is possible to have an internal economy which shall not be dependent upon any outside country. Upon these achievements he must in the next year or so go to the electors and ask for their approval.

ILLEGAL ENTRY.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—If a party from Europe entered this country via Canada about twenty years ago illegally and has resided here ever since, making a living in a legitimate way, will the party in question encounter trouble in acquiring citizenship papers or by revealing the situation, to the authorities? The party concerned is of unquestionable character and has no police record whatsoever. F. W. J.

Under existing legislation an alien who entered the United States illegally prior to June 3, 1921, and who has resided continuously in the United States since before that date may apply for registration of his entry. It is suggested that the subject of the inquiry call at this office for further information and appropriate application blanks.

NOT BARRED BY FALSE TEETH.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—Can you tell me if a man having false teeth can take the examination for patrolman in Chicago? The reason I ask is because I was rejected by the Chicago park district and now I want to take the city examination which comes up soon. R. G.

In answer to query contained as to whether a man having false teeth is eligible to take the examination you are informed that, presuming other physical qualifications measure up to the standards as set by the examining board, the fact of your having false teeth will not militate against acceptance.

MUST BE A RESIDENT.

Harvey, Ill., Feb. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please let me know when the police examinations will be held and where they will take place and what the requirements are? K. C. H.

The writer would not be eligible to participate in the examination for patrolman, as the rules provide that applicants must be residents of Chicago for at least one year immediately preceding date of same.

Secretary, Civil Service Commission.

THE MULE WAS RIGHT.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—After reading the front page editorial, "The Mule Was Right," I wonder still more how you can sleep at night, knowing full well that you are not doing your job as it should be done.

You say that 64 per cent of the increased farm income came from products which the government did not try to control. This includes cattle, sheep, poultry and fruit. [I note that in order to make this list longer you add wool and eggs; every fool knows that when there is a shortage of sheep wool is also short and the same applies to poultry and eggs.]

I wonder if you heard of the drouth during 1934. It was rumored during that year that there was a shortage of rain; in fact 1934 was the driest year we ever had. I read in THE TRIBUNE of western farmers shooting thousands of cattle, and of how thousands more died because there was no water and of course no feed. I also read of thousands of cattle being shipped from one state to another in hopes of saving them. If there was no water for cattle, of course it is agreed that there was not any for sheep and poultry.

Why not print another editorial and give us your ideas as to what effect the drouth had on farm products not controled by the government?

W. A. KUEHL.

Hines, Ill., Feb. 12.—In today's issue of THE TRIBUNE you have placed an editorial on the front page. You should have done that long ago. You have printed some great editorials in the last six months, but I think quite a few have been lost to the people, as they would not look for them. Now they cannot miss them. Today's is a classic. And the best part of it is that every line is the truth. GEORGE B. ELLIS.

North Judson, Ind., Feb. 13.—This is in response to your editorial, "The Mule Was Right." I will dismiss your criticism of NRA with the remark that it served a useful purpose. It coördinated business and started it on its upward spiral. Every fair minded person knows this.

In regard to the AAA it is another story. The President said, "If we abandon crop control, wheat will immediately drop to 36 cents per bushel, etc." Even the farmers, who apparently know more about the laws of economics than THE TRIBUNE correspondents, knew that Roosevelt meant that wheat, etc., would drop as soon as a new crop came on the market. The price of farm products, unfortunately, is determined by the law of supply and demand. For your information, since the court's decision, no new crop has come on the market—the demand is the same as previous to the decision; therefore the price has remained steady. The same logic applies to all farm products.

THE TRIBUNE'S attempt to prove that prices of farm products controled by the government advanced less than those that remained uncontroled falls by the same logic. The government controled corn, cotton, wheat, hogs, sugar, and tobacco. On the other hand, cattle, sheep, wool, poultry, poultry products, dairy products, fruits, and nuts were not controled. The first pitfall of THE TRIBUNE'S logic is the fact that cattle were, in effect, controled. The government bought and slaughtered eight million cattle, or 13 per cent of the entire cattle population, during the drouth, thereby removing the surplus, which was estimated to be 10 per cent.

The second pitfall is that by controling corn the government indirectly controled sheep, wool, poultry, poultry products and dairy products. Because cattle, sheep, dairy cows and poultry require corn as their chief feed, all products were actually, or in effect, controled.

Therefore, the logical conclusion is that all farm products advanced in price because the supply was reduced directly or indirectly by the AAA as well as the drouth. ELMER O. GUMZ.

Princeton, Ill., Feb. 13.—I wish to express my hearty approval of your editorial on the front page of your paper on the AAA debauch. Surely it is high time the farmers should be told facts, rather than listen to the bedtime stories related by "the greatest politician of the age" in such sweet, lulling dulcet tones. FRIEND.

THE DANGER OF FLOODS.

Huntington, Ind., Feb. 13.—The terrific accumulation of ice and snow during the past few weeks has caused many people residing in low lands and river areas to wonder what will take place when the spring thaws come on. Those who should know say that unparalleled floods may occur unless something is done to clear our frozen drainage basins.

Why not let the unbridled spending maniacs take a hand here and do something useful for a change?

Of course more mature reflection would dictate that this cannot be done, for it would by the very nature of things probably necessitate the turning to such practical capitalists and rugged individualists as the du Ponts for dynamite. Then we would have the strange paradox of the rich helping the poor, and that, says the New Deal, must never be, lest our castle carefully built on the sands of class hatred might perish. No, dear people, it must not be done.

JOSEPH H. LESH.

FOR THE HARD OF HEARING.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—There has been quite a bit of publicity about a church that has just installed ear phones so the deaf may hear the sermon. I belong to a club of girls called "Fidelis" that presented our church with eight sets of these ear phones and all necessary equipment more than six years ago, so you see this is not a new idea. The church is the Grand Avenue Congregational church at Hamlin and Potomac avenues, and we are very progressive.

MRS. IRENE ASKA.

EXTENDING MR. NORRIS' IDEA.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Inasmuch as Senator Norris is urging congress to pass a law requiring unanimous decisions of the Supreme court, why not at the same time require unanimous decisions of both house and senate on some of the schoolboy bills passed by both houses of congress since March, 1933?

BROOKS BACKERS RUSH COMPLETION OF COUNTY SLATE

Hope to Have List Filled Out by Nightfall.

BY PARKE BROWN.

An effort to complete their county slate before nightfall is to be made today by the Cook county Republican forces backing Wayland Brooks for governor.

They have until next Monday to file their petitions, and some of the candidates expected to be on their ticket have already filed for themselves, but the Brooks leaders say they want to fix up the county slat at once so they can get down to work on a ward basis, a thing impossible so long as some of the places for local office are left open.

Not until these matters have been disposed of and probably not until after the petitions are all in, it is said, will there be any attempt to determine what alliances, if any, Brooks will have with candidates for other state offices. The state decisions, it is understood, will rest with him more than do the selection of county candidates on the Brooks slate.

Ponder Agreement with Deneen.

As matters stood over the weekend, the big question was whether there will be an agreement on a county ticket between the Brooks forces and the Deneen group. A decision on this point does not involve either the state ticket or the United States senatorship, upon which Charles S. Deneen still has an eye.

Negotiations up to this time have led to a tentative agreement that two of the four Deneen candidates who have filed—County Commissioner William Busse for county auditor, and James A. Kearns for county treasurer—are acceptable to the Brooks representatives. There are two other candidates fairly well agreed upon. They are George F. Nixon for the board of tax appeals and Maxwell M. Nowak for sanitary trustee.

It is said that the negotiations have not yet neared a decision relative to the top of the county ticket, the state's attorneyship. The Deneen camp feels there is a likelihood of the indorsement of their candidate, Leonard C. Reid, but no echo of this thought can be found in the Brooks headquarters.

No Dearth of Material.

The Brooks leaders say there is an abundance of material for the other places left open, which include the office of coroner, the clerkships of the Circuit and Superior court, and two more places for sanitary trustees. Wednesday is the first day to file petitions for bailiff and chief clerk of the Municipal court. The Brooks people have agreed to slate William H. Feigenbutz, a former alderman, for the former of these.

Orville J. Taylor, who announced his candidacy for the United States senate some time ago, said that his petition will be filed at Springfield tomorrow. The formation of a committee to promote his candidacy was announced.

7 DAYS' PAY FOR 6 OF WORK, PLAN OF MEXICO'S HEAD

Cardenas Acts as Own Labor Conciliator.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 16.—(AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas prepared today for a special session of congress tomorrow a measure "reforming" Mexico's labor laws by extending further the privileges of workers.

The reform, which congress is certain to adopt, will require payment of seven days' wages for six days' work. An attempt to require that an extra day's pay be paid whether or not an employe worked six days recently was voted down by congress.

Dispatches from Jalapa, in the state of Vera Cruz, said tonight that six "White Guards" and two soldiers were killed and many were wounded in a clash near Misantla.

En Route to Arm Reds.

The White Guards, an organization sponsored by the owners of haciendas, were said to have fought federal troops who were en route to arm the so-called "Red" peasant workers' groups in the region. The White Guards set fire to a hacienda at Villa Rica before they fled, the dispatches said.

Cardenas, who is doing his own "trouble shooting" in an effort to end labor troubles which have plunged the country into uncertainty, prepared today to go personally to the scene of several important conflicts.

He spent last night in Monterey, where he decided two strikes in favor of workers and laid down a far-reaching pro-labor policy and planned to go next to El Mante, state of Tamaulipas, to attempt to avert a threatened strike. From there he was to go to Tampico to investigate conditions.

To Visit Calles' Property.

El Mante, an important sugar hacienda owned by former President Plutarco Elias Calles, who has been at odds with Cardenas over economic policies since last June, is threatened with a strike as a result of Calles' refusal to meet the demands of his employes.

Teachers in Tampico and in Mexico's other important gulf port, Vera Cruz, are on strike in protest against failure to pay their salaries and because of various other differences with local and state authorities. A threatened hunger march of teachers from Toluca, capital of the state of Mexico, to this city, scheduled for tomorrow, was called off, but the possibility of a strike existed.

Negotiations still were in progress to avert a strike of several thousand employes of the Southern Pacific railroad of Mexico scheduled to start Thursday.

In six days last week at the Grand opera house 34,215 persons saw the films.

"The interest and enthusiasm shown by the people of Chicago is very gratifying," said Mr. Pitcairn. "The Chicago attendance is remarkable in the face of such cold weather."

GAMBLING LEADS SALESMAN INTO HOLDUP AND JAIL

Robert Wolfe, 20 years old, a New York salesman, was captured yesterday by Policeman William Whalen, a few minutes after he had held up John Bull, clerk in a drug store at 44 East Cermak road. Bull fired several shots as Wolfe fled down the street. Seized by the policeman half a block away, Wolfe said he was desperate, having lost $80 in gambling, which should have been sent to his home office.

Colladay, committeeman from the District of Columbia, has an assessment of $1,708 against him for his 1930 return, and James E. Davidson, Michigan committeeman, has a case pending involving $447,601.

3 Joy Grants Named.

John J. Raskob and Pierre S. du Pont are the more prominent American Liberty leaguers fighting the government on tax assessments. Besides these well publicized cases, based on 1929 returns, there is an additional assessment against Lammot du Pont of $128,524, filed in 1935, on 1930, and 1931 incomes, and Henry B. Lamont, an assessment of $53,359 on his 1932 return. Last August the bureau added $3,029 against the return of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Joy of Detroit. Mrs. Joy is a member of the league's executive committee.

James M. Beck, an active member, has pending an additional charge of $2,465 against his 1932 return. Frank C. Rand, also a member of the league's executive committee, is contesting a gift tax levy, in association with others.

Still on the internal revenue bureau books is a bill against the late Ivar Kreuger, Swedish promoter who killed himself in 1932 when his pyramid of companies toppled. The government would like $3,054,627 from his estate.

Duke Trust Assessed.

The Duke trust estate has an assessment against it for alleged taxes of $110,287, due on 1931 income. Miss Duke since has married James H. R. Cromwell, Philadelphia socialite.

The estate of Junius Spencer Morgan has a levy against it of $17,327, while E. T. Weir, Pittsburgh manufacturer, is said to owe $58,963. Earl Carroll, Broadway producer, is down for $7,077, while Irving Fisher, professor of economics at Yale university, has an assessment of $4,044.

Marion Douras, known as Marion Davies, motion picture actress, is billed for $33,044, while Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war in the Hoover administration, has a reassessment of $34,078 in his name. The charge is in his capacity as transferee of the Skelly Oil Trading group of New York.

Samuel Insull Jr. of Chicago is alleged to owe the government $13,253. The estate of Thomas A. Edison is down for $198,600. Charles Edison, son of the late inventor, is chairman of the administration's emergency council in New Jersey.

NERVOUS TROUBLE

Don't risk a nervous breakdown or insanity by neglecting a venereal disease, but see your physician or visit the Public Health Institute!

ONE of the most pitiful consequences of neglected syphilis is its ruinous effect on the brain and the entire nervous system.

It may result, for example, in a nervous breakdown that will force the sufferer to give up his job. It may end in locomotor ataxia, often causing the victim to flounder helplessly when attempting to walk. Or it may lead to paresis (softening of the brain), in which the patient finally becomes insane and frequently is paralyzed as well!

Unfortunately, a large proportion of neglected syphilis is likely to terminate in conditions such as these. Authorities estimate that the nerves are involved in almost half of all neglected and improperly-treated cases!

You can see, therefore, how reckless it is to put off getting proper treatment for syphilis. For, if it does not lead to insanity and paralysis, it may result in heart disease, apoplexy, deafness or blindness! Gonorrhea, too, should never be neglected, for it may be the cause of a disastrous eye infection, sterility, crippling rheumatism, or serious prostate, bladder and other troubles.

Prompt action is essential

While it is true that modern medical service can usually prevent or arrest nervous disorders and other tragic complications of venereal infections, every day you lose in getting under proper treatment reduces your chances of being benefited. So don't delay, but go today to your family physician—or come to the Public Health Institute!

The Public Health Institute offers you the superior facilities of the world's largest venereal disease clinic. Its sympathetic men and women physicians are licensed by the State Board of Medical Examiners, and are thoroughly experienced in the very latest methods of treating venereal diseases and their various complications.

To date, the Public Health Institute has helped almost a quarter of a million Chicagoans to escape the disability and premature death so often caused by neglected venereal infections! Its Trustees sincerely believe that it is impossible to obtain better treatment. Each patient is promptly treated in a private room, and for the sake of even greater privacy is known by a number instead of by name.

Treatments as low as $1.00

Organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, the Public Health Institute offers low cost treatment to those unable to pay higher fees. A complete examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including urinalysis and Wassermann blood test, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less!

Hence there is no longer any need for a venereal disease sufferer to fear nervous trouble and other serious consequences. For not only can almost all such complications be prevented or benefited, but dependable treatment is now available at moderate cost. Even persons temporarily pressed for funds can arrange to be treated.

NOTE: The Public Health Institute has no connection with any other Chicago health or medical institute, and should not be confused with those operated for personal gain!

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Juice Thaws Pipes.

February 16, 1936.

ELECTRICITY has been successfully used during the last few days in thawing out approximately 470 feet of frozen water pipes four feet under ground at The Tribune Yorkville farm. A small generator fastened to the back end of a truck did the entire job in six and a half hours, thus saving many days of hard hand labor required to dig up tons of dirt frozen as hard as a rock.

In testing this new method of thawing out pipes, men at the farm were working in a field outside their regular run of experiments conducted on the Tribune experimental farms. But for about two weeks they have been faced with a serious problem in supplying water to more than 400 steers on feed at the farm. Practically all of the water pipes on the farm were frozen during the recent subzero weather, making it necessary daily to haul water to some of the cattle and to drive others to watering holes in the pastures.

"Imagine what a tough proposition we were faced with when we got up the other morning and found practically all of our pipes frozen up and the water supply shut off from the tanks in the feed lots." Clarence Thurow, farm manager, said today in discussing the new scheme of thawing out pipes.

"For days we jumped around here like chickens with their heads cut off, trying to figure out ways and means of watering our cattle. We used every scheme our men could suggest in attempting to thaw out the pipes with fires, hot water and steam, and they all failed.

"With the water tanks dry and hundreds of thirsty steers staring us in the face every time we went into the lots, we continued to scratch our heads for some practical means of thawing out the pipes. Several Tribune readers suggested trying to shoot a current of electricity through the pipes. It worked like a charm."

The test was made with a generator owned by Russell Bowen of Sheridan, Ill. The generator is run by the truck motor. The first test was made by attaching the electric cables to each end of a section of pipe 100 feet long. This pipe was thawed out in thirty minutes. Another pipe, 180 feet in length, was thawed out in an hour and fifty minutes, and a third one, 190 feet long, in two hours and twenty minutes. Mr. Bowen said he used an electric current of 65 volts and 400 amperes.

The work was completed not only in a comparatively few hours but at a cost many times less than would have been required to dig up the pipes and thaw them out with fires built along the line.

The pipes carrying water from the hydraulic ram, which pumps water from a spring to 200 cattle several hundred yards away, is now kept open by running the pump day and night.

The pipe line, 150 feet long, which carries water from a windmill to one of the feed lots, froze up again within a few hours after it was thawed out because of a low place where the water fails to drain out. The men will continue piping the water across on the surface to the tank, draining the pipes each time the tank is filled.

Mr. Thurow says that while his test has demonstrated that frozen pipes can be successfully thawed out with electricity in an emergency, he thinks the surest plan would be to lay the pipes below the extreme frost line. Next summer he plans to bury the water pipes on the farm at least five feet below the surface.

Mary Garden's Recital, Opera Vie for Crowds

Dozens of Dinner Parties to Precede Performances.

BY JUDITH CASS.

I VENTURE to say that there will be one at Mary Garden's Debussy talk and recital tonight in Winnetka who would rather be in town at the Erlanger theater, and that the one is Miss Garden herself, for it is what she terms the first American opera that is having its Chicago première at the Erlanger. And as much as she enjoys talking about Debussy, whom she described as a genius when she spoke at the Tribune's Woman congress dinner last Friday night, she probably wishes her engagement to speak under the auspices of the Winnetka Woman's club were not the same night as the opening of George Gershwin's opera, "Porgy and Bess." Both affairs will attract large and fashionable audiences, of course, and there will be dozens of dinner parties preceding both performances.

Miss Garden will be assisted by Robert Wallenborn, pianist, and after the concert Mrs. Dwight Orcutt is entertaining with a buffet supper for both artists and members of the concert committee and their husbands. The party will be at the Orcutt residence in Glencoe. Mrs. Clarence Burley, Mrs. Laird Bell, Mrs. Chester Dargent, Mrs. Sidney F. Bartlett, Mrs. William D. McKenzie, Mrs. Ryland Wolcott, Mrs. Robert Golding, Mrs. E. V. L. Brown and Mrs. George Everett are some of those who will be dinner hostesses before the concert.

"Porgy and Bess" Benefit for Animal Shelter.

The board of of the North Side Animal shelter took over the opening of "Porgy and Bess" as a benefit; so it will have added social importance because of the fact that this board numbers among its members some of society's best known young matrons. Among those who will entertain at dinner and then take their guests to the Erlanger are the Philip Mahers, the John Alden Carpenters, the John Roots, the Ogden Kettings, the Walter Kirks, the Arthur Meekers, the young John Farwells, the Joseph Ryersons, the young Arthur Farwells, the Henry Babsons, and the Morris L. Johnstons.

After the performance Mrs. Henry Field and Mrs. Thomas Fisher [Ruth Page] will give a supper party in Mrs. Field's Lake Shore drive apartment for Alexander L. Steinert, the orchestra conductor, who is an old friend of Mrs. Field's. His wife, formerly Sylvia Curtis of Boston, and Mrs. Field went to school together. The Steinerts call Paris home. Mrs. Fisher and her company of dancers are giving a program tomorrow evening at the Civic theater.

Le Cercle Francais Reception Tonight.

A third event of interest tonight will be a reception for members of Le Cercle Français at which Mrs. Westover Channon will be hostess in her Astor street home. Herbert E. Bradley will talk on "The French in Africa" and show motion pictures taken during his big game hunting expeditions in the Belgian Congo. Supper will be served after the lecture. Receiving with Mrs. Channon will be Mme. Rene Weiller, Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick and Mrs. Harold Sperling.

An interesting event this afternoon will be a meeting of the American Friends of China at the John Alden Carpenters' residence at Lake Shore drive and Bellevue place. Miss Lucy Driscoll will describe her recent travels through China and Corea and will show slides of paintings in private collections in Peiping and in cities of South China.

And Now Debutantes Take Up Finance.

Debutantes will have something to talk about in the next few months besides the usual discussion of hair, clothes and romances, for a group of them met at luncheon Saturday noon in the Palmer house to hear Miss Cathrine Curtis, national director of Women Investors in America, speak, and to form a Chicago junior auxiliary to the Women Investors. So it is that finance and all its ups and downs will become a topic of interest to the younger generation.

Miss Barbara Soper, a debutante of the past season, whose grandfather, the late Charles A. Stevens, was one of the city's leading merchants and business men, and from whom, perhaps, she inherits an interest in finance, has gathered the nucleus of the Chicago junior organization. Her aunt, Mrs. Anson Cameron, and Mrs. Jacob Baur, are among the many women interested in Women Investors. The organization's headquarters is in New York.

Among those who had luncheon with Miss Soper and Miss Curtis Saturday were Miss Elisabeth Dewes and Miss Geraldine Foster, debutantes of the past season; Miss Frances Jeffery, Mrs. Ralph F. Chatillon and her sister-in-law, Miss Jane Chatillon, who is visiting her; Miss Mardi Burnham, Miss Margery Preston, whose engagement to Harry M. Nacey Jr. was announced recently;

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

A WOMAN went into the south branch of the Evanston Public library in search of a book whose exact title she couldn't remember. Had something to do with cold hands, she told the librarian.

"Perhaps you want Walpole's 'Hans Frost,'" suggested the librarian. That was what she wanted.

Title—
Mr. Walpole—
Visitors—
Announcer.

* *

UPON hearing this my memory reverted to a day many years ago when Hugh Walpole was a visitor in Chicago, and to my own copy of "Hans Frost." During a small cocktail party in Mr. Walpole's honor he took copies of his own books off the shelves of his hostess, autographed them, and gave them to the guests. And she, charming lady, made no objections, and even insisted that her guests keep them by way of souvenirs. My prize was "Hans Frost."

Mr. Walpole said then that the book he disliked most of those he had written was "Fortitude." It was sentimental, he averred, and he had had more letters from women about it than any other of his books. Two lines in it had caused the deluge of letters, he said: "It isn't life that matters. It's the courage you bring to it."

It was "Fortitude," Mr. Walpole's most unfavorite book, that Modern library chose for its list.

IN case you care what celebrities do after their public appearances, Nelson Eddy, after singing Mozart and Brahms before a wildly applauding audience at Orchestra hall, under the sponsorship of the Travelers' Aid society, went to a north side night club and joined a table of friends. The orchestra immediately began to play songs from "Naughty Marietta," in which the baritone made his movie success, and the night club patrons demanded songs, or at least a bow. Mr. Eddy paid no attention to these demands.

He was deep in conversation with Jean Hersholt, motion picture star who recently completed the title rôle, that of Dr. Dafoe, in "The Country Doctor." It was, if I am not mistaken, his 453d picture. Mr. Hersholt, who is of Danish blood, has lived in Hollywood for 23 years. He has been married to the same wife, by the way, for most of the twenty-three years—something of a record for Hollywood, I imagine. In speaking of the Dionne quintuplets, Mr. Hersholt said that they look so much alike Dr. Dafoe himself cannot tell them apart in the picture. They are exceptionally well-behaved babies, he said, as well as pretty.

Mr. Hersholt is a bibliophile, and during his Chicago stay visited the Crerar library, where a book printed in Danish in the sixteenth century aroused his special interest.

St. Louisans' Brahms Rocks Orchestra Hall

BY EDWARD BARRY.

It is theoretically possible to live a happy and useful life without ever seeing Chicago, but such an unnatural existence is, among musicians at least, the exception rather than the rule. Vladimir Golschmann finally submitted his ability as conductor to the verdict of this capital yesterday afternoon and received a judgment less august than enthusiastic.

The scene was Orchestra hall, the occasion the first concert here in twenty years by the St. Louis Symphony orchestra. A program that aimed to cover up nothing, but to display candidly the skill of the organization in several radically differing types of music, kept a fairly large house in a fervor of interest through the long afternoon.

A town that knows the Brahms First Symphony better than it does "Home, Sweet Home" [and that considers itself, by reason of such knowledge, proof against any surprises] was caught off balance by a spectacular performance of the work. Those enormous moments in the last movement, when the fingers of the violinists clutch at the very curtain that hides the secret of the world and all but draw it wide, enslaved the emotions of the audience so completely that the old hall rocked for minutes at the conclusion of the symphony.

If you prefer matter-of-fact prose to such enraptured rant I shall have to admit that Vladimir Golschmann and his orchestra are theatrical, without admitting, however, that such a quality is necessarily and invariably evil. Certainly the Bach Toccata that opened the program could be orchestrated in a more fitting manner than Alexandre Tansman has done it, and a little more of Bach retained.

Whatever a conservative musician may have thought of the arrangement and performance of that work he should be willing to at least argue the fitness of giving a theatrical bent full play in the Brahms Symphony. "Full play" is not a very alarming expression when as thoroughly grounded and reverently careful a man as Golschmann is the arbiter in charge of defining it. Brahms smiled a ghostly smile through his ghostly whiskers yesterday at the thought that he had written anything so stunning.

But what exactly does Golschmann do? His devices are subtle and skilful enough to preclude the possibility of a full and immediate analysis, but two of them are plain enough to permit listing in this review.

One is a fanatical care for the effects of phrasing, with intense vividness as the end in view. This is an objective, of course, of any good orchestra, but the St. Louis outfit carries it to such an extreme of sharpness and bold definition that the total effect is often physically exciting. The rhythmic urge of the music grows in consequence. It takes on strength and inevitability—perhaps a little too much of both in some passages.

Another device that the conductor uses with telling result is a peculiarly searching violin tone, so brilliant as to be the most noticeable color on his palette. Such a brash vermilion is best laid on with a dainty hand lest its companion colors fade and die in its presence.

I think that Golschmann does use these effects [and others less easy to examine] with commendable restraint. The exact proportion of spice in his savory dish would vary through as wide a range as the ideas of that vast band of advisory chefs we know as the musical public. He has hit a nice mean.

The program bade good-by to the German dynasty after the intermission and went adventuring among some not too dangerous princelings of the present and recent past. The first of them was Prokofieff.

The fetching little "Symphonie

Events on the Stage

Two premières are scheduled for tonight—"Porgy and Bess," at the Erlanger, and Cornelia Otis Skinner at the Grand Opera house. The former is George Gershwin's Negro folk opera, based on the play by Dorothy and Du Bose Heyward, and staged by the Theater Guild. The latter begins a week's performances of her character sketches and dramatic sequences, with "Mansion on the Hudson" as her opening bill.

The engagement of "Porgy and Bess" will be marked by a number of organization theater parties. Tomorrow night the Drama League and 300 students from International House will have large group reservations. On Wednesday afternoon the American Opera society will attend in force.

With Ina Claire as star, a new play by S. N. Behrman called "End of Summer" will be staged in New York tonight by the Theater Guild. The work is reported to deal with such questions as Marxism, psychiatry, and the possession of too much money; its locale is a summer resort when the "season" has closed.

Other new plays of the week on the New York stage will be: "Searching for the Sun," a drama by Dan Totheroh, dealing with juvenile vagrancy during the depression; "Come, Angel Band," by Dudley Nichols and Stuart Anthony; "Mainly for Lovers," a comedy from London; "'Hallowe'en," a mystery play on the subject of witchcraft, and "The Devil of Pei-Ling," a dramatization of Herbert Asbury's novel.

A rumor from Hollywood has trickled into the realm of drama to the effect that Katharine Hepburn will take another fling at real life acting next season. Her ambition is nothing less than "Peter Pan." The only actresses who have played Barrie's famous fantasy on Broadway since Maude Adams' time are Eva LeGallienne and Marilyn Miller.

Burton Holmes will begin a series of travel lectures in Orchestra hall next Wednesday night with Mexico as his theme. This will be his 43d annual season in Chicago. C. C.

The Camisole Stages Happy Style Return

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The most sophisticated shopper will experience a shock when she first sees the neat little confections a perspicacious shop has imported for wear with all the supersheer blouses. What with the suit racket going so strong and with the cobwebby thin lingerie blouses to wear with them, something like this was inevitable, but we didn't think the designers were so fast.

Yep, it's the good old camisole returned to favor, and lest you think they aren't just that, a good revival of those old-fashioned concoctions of lace, tucks, and impeccably clean fresh shoulder straps, trot in and examine them when you're feeling skeptical.

We're cheering for them most exuberantly. They're what the feminine contingent needs more than gadgets, new trinkets and other trivia. Nothing ruins the sheer flattery of lingerie blouses like the utilitarian tops, straps and tailored aspect of the regulation slip or any all-together you've been wearing, under slightly opaque wool clothing.

But it does seem queer to find lace banding, quantities of fine tucking, gleaming ribbon shoulder straps, and the very frivolous streamlines of such underlayers after an era of lingerie reduced to the minimum.

The high visibility of all the new suit blouses brought the change, and it's going to be lots of fun to wear these revived necessities again. They come in snowy white and a soft flesh pink and are almost as good to look at as the frilly, lace trimmed blouses that will be worn over them.

So if you are wearing a suit [and who isn't?] and are wearing soft sheer blouses to counteract the masculinity of severe tailored creations, which contrary trick is high fashion in Chicago, you'll be among the first to shop for these new camisoles.

Fashion photograph. . . . Daytime dress of small floral printed silk featuring a flattering new high neckline outlined with fine plaiting and accented with a scarlet grosgrain bow. The sleeves are piquantly short and the hipline of the dress is also trimmed with a band of the fine plaited silk to match the neckline trim. It is available in a Chicago shop.

Good Morning!

That hilarity inspiring quartet, Joan Blondell, Glenda Farrell, Hugh Herbert, and Allen Jenkins again combine forces in the rough and tumble comedy at the Oriental.

The story's all about a couple of marooned blonde ex-chorus girls whose only hope of getting back to Broadway is pinned to the chance that one of them will win a popularity contest.

Well, after a lot of this, that, and the other thing which brings in gogettem clubs, prize fights, and the entire navy—she does.

The scenario is a dud—but the Misses Blondell and Farrell are a sweet boutonniere in its shabby coat and Messrs. Herbert and Jenkins are a kick in its pants.

See you tomorrow!

I'll Never Tell

By Roy Vickers

SYNOPSIS.

Julius Saranack was murdered in his home, Hillfoot, near London. Eight uncut diamonds were missing. Torrance Esdale was there the night he was murdered. She'd entered the house secretly to retrieve a letter she'd written Gerald Saranack, Julius' nephew, her childhood sweetheart. Gerald is expected next day with an English girl he'd married in Spain. Torrance had heard voices and, hiding, watched as a girl secreted jewels behind a brick in the fireplace. Next day Torrance meets the girl—she's Annabelle, Gerald's wife, though the couple arrived that morning from Paris. Gerald still loves Torrance, but has been taken in by Annabelle's apparent naiveness and need of protection. Torrance confides in her American employer, Hartlandt Massiter. Julius Saranack was heir to the wealth of his friend, John Ellister, who had also been murdered on the same day, leaving Gerald next in line. Torrance tries to warn Gerald and shows him where the jewels are hidden; he turns them over to Annabelle. In Vanderlem, Annabelle's former employer, Torrance recognizes the rat-faced man who'd shadowed her. To save him Torrance elopes with Gerald. Annabelle turns over the diamonds to the police. Gerald is arrested. Torrance braves a motor trip with Vanderlem and to capture him gets arrested for speeding, then accuses him of Julius Saranack's murder. Vanderlem escapes after killing a policeman.

INSTALMENT XXXVII.

AN APOLOGY.

Torrance tried to look into those steady eyes and failed.

"He killed a policeman last night in getting away—an innocent man would have stood his ground," she pleaded.

Mr. Massiter looked positively frightened.

"And an innocent man's attorney would have proved that you were committing perjury, Torrance."

"I don't care. I took that risk with my eyes open."

"I reckon you're pretty fond of Gerald. I wonder what he'll do now about that wife of his!"

"She has promised to divorce him—and I suppose she will keep her share of the money."

"Yes, I reckon she'll do that," said Mr. Massiter grimly.

"By the way, she wasn't working with Vanderlem. I was utterly wrong bout her."

"How do you know?"

Torrance told him.

"It hardly amounts to proof," he objected when she had finished.

"It would have amounted to proof if you had been with me in the police station. When I accused him of the murder he didn't mind in the least. But when I said that I was the woman in the house he turned into a wild beast. He didn't know it before. She did. And she'd have been certain to tell him if they'd been working together."

He made all the arrangements about the marriage settlement.

A few minutes later a call came through for Torrance. It was from Annabelle.

"Torrance darling, I must see you. Shall I come to you or will you come to me? I'm at the Gulverbury."

Torrance hesitated.

"O, very well, I'll come to the Gulverbury."

There was something of a moral obligation. For she owed Annabelle an apology.

The Gulverbury was a good second rate hotel, and surprisingly Annabelle had contrived to adapt herself to it. She had shed something of her exquisiteness. She looked a forlorn, if prosperous, young wife from the provinces.

"Torrance! He might have killed you."

"It was good of you to come and see me, because I know you didn't want to," whimpered Annabelle. "I want us to be frank with each other, Torrance. I'll own up that when you told me the other night that you were the woman in the house I didn't believe you. I didn't understand anything you said then, but now—I think I do. You thought I was in some way in league with Vanderlem."

Again Torrance felt Annabelle's queer, compelling force that triumphed over her muddled speech and carried conviction.

"As you've asked for frankness, I'll admit that I did think it. At times I was doubtful, but I more or less went on thinking it until last night. From what passed between Vanderlem and myself I find that I was mistaken and I really came here to apologize."

As she feared, Annabelle took it "magnificently."

"Don't apologize to me, darling!—I simply can't bear it. You see, Torrance, there was a sort of horrid truth in it."

"I don't see how there can have been a 'sort of truth' in it, Annabelle."

"For eighteen months," said Annabelle impressively, "I worked for his family and was his wife's friend. His friend, too. He was nice to me, in a nice way, and I liked him. But I think he began to like me in a horrid way, too—in fact, I know he did. That was why I felt I had to leave. When I read the papers this morning I just quite suddenly knew. He committed the murder to make me a rich woman. I think he meant me to divorce my husband and—and marry him. After he'd made Minnie divorce him."

"Good heavens!" said Torrance. It was preposterous, like everything else about Annabelle. But she felt bound to admit that it was quite possibly true.

"He sort of took charge when I married Gerald. He made all the arrangements about the marriage settlement."

"Did he? I thought——"

"So now you know why I feel so dreadful about you and Mr. Vanderlem."

"Anyhow, you'll never see him again, so you needn't worry!" said Torrance, rising.

"O, no!" Annabelle clasped her hands in fervent thankfulness. "The papers seem to be even more angry about his killing the policeman than poor old Mr. Saranack. He'll never dare to show his face to any one who knows him.

"What about tomorrow?" asked Annabelle, with downcast eyes. As Torrance did not understand Annabelle went on: "We don't want any scandal, do we! And with all the newspaper men that are bound to be about, I thought—if you haven't any objection—it would be better for me to meet him and be with him when they release him."

Torrance found herself agreeing.

"It will only be a formality, of course," continued Annabelle. "I know you believe now that I want to help you in every possible way to your happiness, whatever it costs me. As soon as we are clear of the crowd I will send him back to you. Where will you be, darling?"

"O, you needn't bother about that!" said Torrance. "He will be able to find me. Good-by!"

"I am forty-eight, which is a mature age at which to reach a simple conclusion about the opposite sex."

Torrance was not as quick as she ought to have been at responding to this kind of opening. Her eyes were on the chauffeur, willing him to go faster and faster on his way to Brixton prison.

"I have, in fact, discovered that an intelligent woman can be just as incomprehensible as one of the other kind. And that means you, Torrance. What are we here for? Just to see a young man walk out of a remarkably unesthetic building."

"I suppose it's symbolic," said Torrance dreamily.

"Of all you've done for him?"

"And of all you've done for him, too, Mr. Massiter."

"I didn't do a thing for that young man and you know it." Mr. Massiter was in expansive mood. "This is one of those sentimental moments which you Britishers hate. One of those sentimental moments—ah yes!—when people tell the truth to each other. I fell in love with you, Torrance, when you came to me after poor Uncle Julius had left you that day at Torquay."

"Don't look sorry! There's no strain in my saying it and your hearing it, now everything's all set. Your man's coming out and I'm sailing for the states on Friday."

Reducing Diet Both Effective and Palatable

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Modern labor saving devices, if I may stretch a point, even extend to the reducing business. The effects of these devices upon reducing are quite as pleasing as the manner in which they save time and effort in housework.

Once the family reducer suffered a hermit rôle. She had to eat by herself away from the family group. Hollow stomached and hungry eyed, she felt a victim of an unkind fate. Today she can draw her chair right up to the table along with the heartiest of them and enjoy her food in the bargain. Not with reckless abandon, naturally, but without the old martyred air. After all, substituting milk for cream isn't like being thrown to the lions. You even get to like it and love it if the waist measurement shows a steady decrease. You will find that less butter can be tolerated easily, and these two items alone make a whale of a difference eventually in the silhouette.

Fruits for dessert aren't hard to take once you get the flavor of them in your blood. It might interest you to know that Mussolini attributes his magnificent health at 52 to fruit, fruit, fruit, and milk. You can get to like mineral oil dressing with your plate of fresh greens, or substitute for the mayonnaise a vinegar and lemon dressing. And you don't have to stuff on rolls or bread before the meal begins, or during it. Here's where countless additional pounds pile up in overconsumption of bread.

Furthermore, as good reducing is practiced today, you don't have to look gaunt or feel gone for a single moment. On the good diet you'll get enough of the dietary essentials, including the minerals and vitamins, to survive smilingly. Before I give you a sample day's diet, as our best reducers are practicing their duty today, I would warn about alcohol consumption. Those cocktails, harmless in minimum dosage, may become your particular Frankenstein. When one doesn't satisfy you at the cocktail hour, when you keep munching away on the tidbits served with the cocktails day after day, you can put it down that you are on the road to figure ruin.

Alcohol in itself and in its varied presentations is heavy with caloric weight. Add your peanuts, your popcorn, your nice little fried sausages and other tempters and you roll all over in no time.

Now for the sample meals:

Breakfast: Tall glass of orange juice, one thin slice toast with butter to be tasted but not to be seen, milk or coffee with milk, no cream.

"Lighthouse" is one of the old quilts rescued from oblivion by a shrewd collector of antiques who was traveling through Maine last summer. The old and badly worn coverlet was about to be discarded because it was "no good any more and took up too much room." The original pattern contained blue, blue print material, and white that was yellow with age. The quilt was set together with alternate blocks of white, and the finished block measured 15 inches square. The pieced blocks were quilted in outline.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

If your face looks funny to you these days it's because the usual winter dinginess is upon skins in general—at least the skins of those who're forced to stay here and go their ways whether or not it's zero.

Almost every woman's skin is showing the effects of lack of sun. The only way to cope with this condition is to oil the skin to keep the texture under control and to change your makeup to accord with the change in your skin tone. Take the magnifying mirror and a good light, see what's to be done, and do it.

And give a long searching look to the neck. Dark collars leave their imprint on necks. Not grime, actually, but an almost imperceptible darkening that isn't any treat to behold. A little bleach cream is in order, plus the powder tone that will make the neck look more like the alabaster column poets rave about.

If your skin is dingy looking despite your best efforts, by all means climb on the beauty bandwagon and get next to the two powder trick. Use a shade a couple of degrees lighter than your skin tone for the first coat—and be sure that you follow the first rule of powdering by patting it on rather than rubbing it in. Over this fluff on a powder that matches your skin tone exactly. The result is pleasing and lasting.

And while we're on the subject, we'd like to remind you again that foreheads are important parts of faces. Don't ignore yours when you powder or when you repair your makeup. A shiny forehead is as much of a detriment to the well groomed look as the shiny nose.

BY MARY MEADE.

"By popular request" is the most gratifying term we can recall. We're so eager to give you the sort of food news and suggestions you want that when a number of you write for a repeat on what to do with leftover egg yolks or whites we're tickled silly.

Today the lone yolks get the spot light. We've gathered a number of new suggestions for making use of them, whether you have one or six on hand. Tomorrow the whites get their share of attention.

First, here are a few convenient generalities to remember:

1. Cover uncooked yolks with a little cold water to keep them from drying out in the refrigerator.
2. Cook the lone yolks to sieve over soups or salads as a garnish by dropping them, one at a time, into boiling water. Cover the pan, reduce the heat, and let them simmer for fifteen minutes, then cool.
3. One egg yolk is sufficient for one cup of oil in making mayonnaise.
4. Seven to eight egg yolks measure half cup; fourteen to sixteen, one cup.
5. Two yolks thicken one cup of milk for custard.

One Yolk Orange Cream Icing.

1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 tablespoon orange juice
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 egg yolk
1 cup sifted confectioner's sugar
Few grains salt

Two Yolk Fruit Dressing.

2 egg yolks
¼ cup honey
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon orange juice
⅓ cup whipped cream

To the beaten egg yolks add the honey and fruit juice. Cook until thickened over boiling water. Cool. Add the whipped cream just before serving.

Three Yolk Chocolate Ice Cream.

2 cups milk
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¾ cup sugar
1½ ounces chocolate
3 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup whipping cream

Scald milk in double boiler. Blend cornstarch and sugar. Add to hot milk. Cook ten minutes, stirring constantly. Add melted chocolate. Pour hot mixture over slightly beaten egg yolks, return to double boiler, and cook, stirring until thickened. Cool. Add vanilla, fold in whipped cream, and freeze rapidly in refrigerator tray, stirring when half frozen.

Four Yolk Sliced Butterscotch Cookies.

½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup brown sugar
4 egg yolks
2½ cups sifted pastry flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped nut meats
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and sugar. Add the beaten yolks. Sift dry ingredients and combine with first mixture, nut meats, and vanilla. Work into roll, chill, and slice. Bake at 425 degrees F. for ten minutes. Makes four dozen medium cookies.

Five Yolk Gold Cup Cakes.

½ cup sugar
¼ cup shortening
¼ cup milk
5 egg yolks
1 teaspoon baking powder
⅞ cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon lemon extract

Cream the shortening and sugar until fluffy. Add the well beaten yolks. Sift the flour and baking powder and add alternately with the milk, beating well after each addition. Add the flavoring and bake as one dozen medium cup cakes. Frost with boiled icing and sprinkle with toasted coconut.

According to CULBERTSON

THE FORCING REBID.

It is not only the partner of the opening bidder who can make a "forcing take-out."

When you have opened the bidding and your partner has made some response, a jump rebid in a new suit is forcing to game. In effect you are making a forcing take-out of your partner's response.

The requirements for this bid are about five honor tricks and a second biddable suit. This five honor trick requirement sometimes can be slightly shaded [to four or four and one-half] when your distribution is strong [with two five-card or longer suits] or when you have strong support for your partner's suit.

With the following hands you have opened the bidding with one spade and your partner has bid one no trump. You should now make a forcing rebid of three hearts:

♠ A K 8 5 3 ♥ K Q J 4 ♦ A Q 6 ♣ 2
♠ A K 6 5 ♥ A K 4 2 ♦ K Q 7 ♣ 3 2

If you have opened the bidding with one heart on the following hands, and your partner has bid one spade, you may make a forcing rebid of three diamonds:

♠ 6 ♥ A K Q 7 5 3 ♦ A K J 5 4 ♣ 2
♠ K 10 7 4 ♥ A Q 8 5 ♦ A K 7 2 ♣ 9

It is important not to confuse the game forcing take-out, which is a bid of exactly one more than necessary, with any other jump bids, some of which will be covered in later articles.

When You Signal, Shout!

The play of high cards as signals is much too prevalent in the average game, but unquestionably occasions do arise when it is vital that one defender be guided by the other. In such cases the signaling card or cards must be of as positive a nature as is possible. The difference between a six and a seven may be enormous.

The bidding:

EAST	SOUTH	WEST	NORTH
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 N T	Pass	3 N T*

*Final bid.

South opened the fourth highest spade and East's jack won the trick. The ten of clubs was passed by South and West and won by North's singleton jack. The spade return put declarer back on lead and he played his remaining club, South again ducking in the vain hope that the ace would go up. But the declarer used the finesse-safety play and dummy's nine held the trick. On this trick North discarded the six of hearts, his dainty notion of a signal. On the ace and another club lead North discarded two spades, holding on to his four remaining hearts for dear life.

South found himself on lead with the king of clubs and faced a forbidding prospect. Dummy's two established clubs were in sight and the heart king loomed as a probable entry, considering East's original heart bid. His play of the diamond ace certainly was natural under the circumstances. North's follow suit card of the eight, followed by declarer's deuce, was, it is true, the lowest outstanding diamond, but South correctly concluded that North might have K J 8 and be unable to spare a higher card. The diamond continuation made the contract a lay-down, with a total of four club, three spade, and two diamond tricks.

Instead of "whispering" with the heart six North should have shouted with a heart echo of the seven, followed by the deuce. Under no circumstances could the low hearts have been possible tricks. North could count two club and two heart tricks for his side. Unless his partner held the ace or king of diamonds the case was hopeless.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Can I properly bid one spade, first hand, with ♠ A 9 6 4, ♥ K 8 7 5, ♦ K 10 9 3, ♣ A?

Answer: You should not bid one spade, for the suit is too weak. A biddable suit, if only four cards in length, should contain Q J, K J, or A J. The hand is strong enough to bid, however, and you should bid one diamond. A minor suit may be weaker than a major suit, for your partner is less likely to raise it. He will try first to reach game in a major suit or in no trump.

St. Louisans' Brahms Rocks Orchestra Hall

Classique" profited by the same care for definition that characterized the Brahms, but here, with the colors consistently light, the effectiveness was of an entirely different sort. Even fourth rate thematic material would gain a certain sparkle from such meticulous and incisive tonal and rhythmic treatment, and the themes of the "Classique" are not fourth rate.

Golschmann's cult of the exquisite was suggested in the Prokofieff, revealed in the Debussy "Afternoon of a Faun" that followed. He displayed his pastel shades one after another, and they turned out to be so satisfactory that the audience may have found it hard to believe that the man on the podium before their eyes was the one who had been roaring in the pines with Brahms not an hour before.

Some bits from Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe" were used to close the program and show just how loud the St. Louis Symphony orchestra can play without its intonation suffering. It is very loud indeed.

Golschmann's manner is agreeable. His desire for brilliance and definition leads him into no purely theatrical gestures. The audience liked him personally as well as in his capacity of musician and director.

Miss Curtis, who also was a speaker at the Woman congress, is having a busy time in the middle west, for she is speaking at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the home of Mrs. Walter Strong, in Tower road, in Winnetka, before the Republican Woman's club of Winnetka. The meeting is a morning one so that Miss Curtis can catch a train for New York early this afternoon.

Lake Shore Women Voters Hear Joseph L. Moss Today.

A group of civic minded women is meeting today for luncheon at the Arts club, the Lake Shore League of Women Voters. Joseph L. Moss, director of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, will be the speaker, and he will discuss unemployment insurance legislation.

A large number of members is expected for luncheon, which will be served at 12:30 o'clock. Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee, president, and Mrs. Carroll Sudler, Miss Eleanor Wetten, Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch are among the members who almost never miss a meeting.

A new member will come today as the guest of Miss Elaine Blackman, Mrs. Kendall Ide Lingle, who is a transfer from the Charleston, W. Va., Junior league to the Chicago Junior league. Mrs. Frank S. Sims, who is a representative of the Chicago Junior league at the Lake Shore league's meetings, will be present if she has returned from a trip to St. Louis, and Miss Julia Drake, who is a provisional member of the Junior league, also is on the board of the Women Voters' organization, and will attend the luncheon today.

Chapel Guild of Cenacle to Hear Father Hubbard.

The lecture series that the Chapel Guild of the Cenacle sponsors every year during the Lenten season will begin a week earlier than usual this year because the first speaker, the Rev. Bernard Hubbard, S. J., has been called to Rome and must leave early in March. Father Hubbard will speak on his most recent trip to Alaska at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday, Feb. 25, at the Lake Shore Drive hotel.

Father Hubbard's talk, entitled "The Ice Inferno," will be illustrated with motion pictures, and no one who has tickets for the lecture series would miss his talk, for his is always one of the most interesting on the guild's program. Two other lectures in the series of five will be given at the hotel, one will be given in the home of Edward I. Cudahy, whose late wife founded the guild, and another will be heard in the home of Mrs. Walter J. Cummings.

Mrs. William Stenson is president of the guild, and Miss Gertrude McCarthy will be hostess at the first lecture next Tuesday.

Nursing Education Council to Hold Luncheon Today.

The Central Council for Nursing Education is holding its annual luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today at the Palmer house. Dr. A. C. Bachmeyer, director of university clinics at the University of Chicago, will speak on "Systems of Accreditment for Schools of Nursing."

Mrs. Ernest E. Irons is chairman of the luncheon, and members of the new graduating class of the Grey Ladies, headed by Mrs. Irene Sidley, will assist her as hostesses. Members of the women's boards of the Michael Reese, Children's Memorial, Cook County, Evanston, Grant, Presbyterian, St. Luke's, and Wesley Memorial hospitals, and of the University of Chicago clinics, will be present at the luncheon.

More Chicagoans Join Colony in Palm Beach.

A letter from Palm Beach brings news of the large colony of Chicagoans in that fashionable resort, which this winter is gayer and more populous than ever before. The Francis P. Butlers, whose elder daughter, Deborah, and her husband, Hugh M. Johnston, are honeymooning in Honolulu, are among the latest ones to join the Chicago colony. With them is their younger daughter, Judy. The Gustavus F. Swifts also are there and expect to spend about six weeks in the sunny south.

Because figuratively it lays the golden egg for infant welfare work, the thrift shop of the Kenwood Social Service club at 1461 East 55th street is being rechristened the Golden Goose at a tea this afternoon at Mrs. Henry Cummins' home on Woodlawn avenue.

Mrs. C. M. Macfarland and Mrs. F. W. Howes will entertain board members of the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children at luncheon at the Woman's Athletic club today.

There will be a lecture on "Biographies of the Past and Present" at 2:30 o'clock today at the Vassar House restaurant. Kenneth Horan, a Vassar alumna, will be the lecturer.

ENGAGEMENTS

Word has come from Montclair, N. J., of the engagement of Miss Jean Farleigh to George Osborn Bliss, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Edison Bliss of Highland Park. The engagement was announced by Miss Farleigh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Farleigh, of Warren place, Montclair.

Miss Farleigh is a graduate of the University School for Girls in Chicago, of Wellesley college, class of '34, and of the Montclair Secretarial school. Mr. Bliss was graduated from Dartmouth in 1931 and is a member of the Zeta Psi fraternity. The wedding will take place in the late spring.

At a luncheon Saturday at her home, 1625 Ridge avenue, Evanston, Mrs. Zenobia W. Keller announced the engagement of her daughter, Virginia Bowen Keller, to William Oberne Campbell, son of George Campbell, 5947 Kenmore avenue. Miss Keller was graduated from the Faulkner school and attended Goucher college before graduating from Northwestern university. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. Mr. Campbell was graduated from the Chicago Latin School for Boys and Northwestern university, where he was a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Height of Printed Fashion

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

We know that every woman wants her spring wardrobe to include at least one frock which is paramount in chic, yet simple and distinctive enough for wear on many and varied occasions. Pattern No. 2586 is one of the smartest versions of this indispensable dress. It lends itself to a variety of smart and lightweight fabrics. Its simple lines contribute the greatest portion of its chic and, in addition, facilitate matters for the needleworker.

The dress is cut in one from shoulder to hem. There are no bothersome details requiring painstaking care and worry about results. Bell sleeves are traditionally attractive. The waistline with its smart sunburst effect, and the clever neckline whose points are convertible into pert revers, are other distinguishing notes.

Style No. 2586 is designed for sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 4½ yards of 39 inch material.

Don't Expect Same Things of All Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

I have just been reading a big pile of letters in which there seems to be one recurring theme.

Here is a letter from one mother that sums up the point.

"My 12 year old boy will not help me and will not do any of the little things around the house that he used to do. He was quite ill a few years ago. Now, my dear little 8 year old girl is entirely different. She loves to help me and is so sweet tempered and pretty, and every one loves her."

Can't you see the picture? A boy just turning into adolescence to whom chores are anathema, no matter how much he may have been interested in them in his earlier years—perhaps now at the hobble-de-hoy stage, the "gang" stage, the clumsy stage, the stage at which outside interests are terribly important, perhaps with a disposition neither even nor easy, due to his illness. And in contrast to this the daughter, helpful, home loving, attractive, and approved of by people—perhaps even becoming a little smug.

No child should ever be compared with another child. What you expect of a 12 year old boy cannot be what you expect of an 8 year old girl. And one of the truest sayings is, "Comparisons are odious." They tend to widen the breech, not narrow it. They tend to alienate the one who is disapproved of and make the other smug.

The sense of loneliness that can come to a boy or girl with the consciousness of long continued disapproval and opprobrium is a really serious thing. The differing urges in different children, which often are of compelling force, make this method of dealing with mad conduct futile and disintegrating.

MOVIE STUDIO POSTPONES WORK ON LEWIS NOVEL

Cost of Production Held Cause of Delay.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 16.—(AP)—"It Can't Happen Here" will not happen in Hollywood—at least for the present—but Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio officials today said cost of the filming, rather than a Will Hays bar, was responsible for the postponement.

Sinclair Lewis, author of the novel picturing what would happen in America under a Fascist dictatorship, said in Washington yesterday that Will Hays of the producers' organization had forbidden the picture to proceed.

Report Hays' Approval.

Louis B. Mayer, Metro production chief, said the Hays office had said nothing about the picture, and that it was abandoned for the present "because it would cost too much."

E. J. Mannix, Metro's studio general manager, said Hays approved the script before he left for New York Friday night. Earlier Lucian Hubbard, who was to produce the film, had said he would start it this week unless orders countermanded it.

Germany, Italy Pleased.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Both the German and Italian governments professed themselves pleased today at a report a film based on Sinclair Lewis' book, "It Can't Happen Here," had been barred by Will Hays in fear of "international complications."

A spokesman for the German film chamber in Berlin called Lewis a "full blooded communist," and said the United States avoided a protest from Berlin by the ban.

Nazis Ready to Protest.

"I never heard of the book," the Nazi official added, "but Lewis is a communist. If the film had contained any slurs on national socialism we would have protested immediately."

The news also was received with pleasure in Italy. One government official, who spoke unofficially, explained: "I read the book and found it full of nonsense. We are glad the film industry has seen fit to halt the spread of such propaganda."

TOBACCO, TEA, COFFEE —EVEN ALCOHOL—GET HARVARD MEDIC'S O. K.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Alcohol, tobacco, tea, or coffee may be taken in moderation, Dr. William H. Robey said tonight, without causing any disease of the heart or blood vessels.

Dr. Robey, emeritus clinical professor of medicine at Harvard university, said in a lecture that even when the four factors "are used to excess it is a question whether they add directly to heart trouble.

"If alcohol and tobacco are used to excess the digestion and often the general health of the individual suffer and those defects throw more work upon the heart and blood vessels."

Labor Rule Is Re-elected in Western Australia

PERTH, Western Australia, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Labor administration headed by Premier Philip Collier retained power with a reduced majority, final results of the state election held Saturday showed today. The final standing of parties in the legislature was: Labor, 26; Country party, 13; Nationals, 10; Independents, 1. For the first time in history two women were elected to the legislature.

She might be 24—she might be 42—this clever hat makes you forget to think of her in terms of age. Becomingness is its special province, and it has the knack of extending it to many different types. Frankly IT'S A MATTER OF SIZE

With necklines the "high point" of Fashion, it's discouraging to find that the dresses that really fit you have matronly necks, and that the chic young necklines come only in misses' sizes.

Not so at Carson's. The dresses in our Women's Better Frock Section keep strictly to women's sizes for perfect fit, but they never let size dictate style. Youthful necklines are just as much in evidence as the more dignified types.

Print and plain are used in smart companionship by this jacket frock. The side closing is fastened with rhinestone-studded links, and the jacket revers are faced with the print. 36 to 44. $45.

Ruching forms a vestee neckline on this print frock, and trims the sleeves as well as the pockets of the sleeveless coat. Flag red, heath blue. Sizes 36 to 44. $45.

Chicago's west side Golden Gloves boxers will resume their quest of gold medals and qualifying berths in the Tournament of Champions tonight at the Madison Athletic club. Promptly at 7 o'clock in two rings the west section boys will start the most comprehensive program presented at the Madison Athletic club.

Admission tonight [and for all nights of Chicago's sectional tournaments] is 75 cents; 40 cents for children under 15 years old. More than 100 bouts will be held. This offering is a bargain not only because of the number of contests but because of the caliber of the competition. The novices already have come through last week's eliminations. They have met their tests so far and tonight will bring bout after bout worthy of the attention of Chicago's fight fans.

First Bouts for Open Division.

The open division boys are reporting for the first time. All must check in between 4 and 6 o'clock for physical examinations and to be weighed. Six of the eight weights will go into competition immediately.

Tonight's show is preliminary to tomorrow night's west side finals which will engage all weights in both the open and novice divisions of the tournament. These bouts will be held in one ring. Tomorrow night the south side tournament will resume at White City while the north section opens in three rings at Loyola university gymnasium. Lampkins, Nelson Will Be Seen.

Jacob Lampkins of the C. Y. O., a former novice champion, is one of the open division welterweights who will be seen tonight on the west side. George Nelson of Trafton's gymnasium, is a rival for the welterweight qualifying medal in the weight.

CONSIDER SUNDT AS WISCONSIN'S SPORT DIRECTOR

Three Are Mentioned for Faculty Board.

BY BRUCE DENNIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 16.—Madison relaxed today after a Saturday night celebration of the board of regents' cleanup of the University of Wisconsin athletic department tangle in which Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, director; Dr. Clarence W. Spears, football coach, and Trainer William Fallon were dismissed and after which the faculty athletic board resigned.

While citizens who have been battling among themselves for weeks went over to their neighbors and shook hands, there were four developments today in the effort to create a new Badger sports setup calculated to bring the school back to the winning side of the sports column.

Sundt May Get Meanwell Post.

First in point of interest was the definite indication that Guy Sundt, assistant football coach and an eight letter winner in his school days at Wisconsin, will be the new athletic director.

Secondly, it appeared that President Glenn Frank will have trouble in finding four professors willing to become members of the new faculty athletic board. The fate of the last two faculty boards has been such that prominent members of the faculty are reluctant to assume the thankless duties attached. In 1932 the board, then called the athletic council, was dissolved by the board of regents. Yesterday the faculty suffered another blow when the regents, contrary to the faculty board's recommendations, ousted Meanwell and Fallon in addition to Spears, the particular target of the professors.

Frank Meets Alumni Heads.

Third of the day's happenings was a conference between President Frank and two representatives of the alumni at the Memorial Union building. The graduates were Myron T. Harshaw of Chicago, president of the Wisconsin Alumni association, and Dr. James Dean of Madison, former Badger football captain who is chairman of the athletic committee of the alumni association.

Nothing definite concerning the athletic situation was arrived at in the conference, but the alumni promised support of a vigorous Wisconsin comeback campaign and urged a delay of a few days before any steps were taken toward picking a new coach and athletic director. Mr. Harshaw feels that the uproar of yesterday should be allowed to die out completely before new action comes.

Sees No Big Ten Action.

The fourth development was the expression by a member of the board of regents of his views on possible Western conference interference in

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1936: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PATTY BERG, 17 year old runner-up for the national women's golf title last year and recent winner of the Champion of Champions and Miami Biltmore tournaments, seldom misses a day attending church. . . . Bo McMillin, performing as a cowboy tenor on a faculty club program at Indiana university, got the gong half way through his song. . . . Billy Sullivan, who will leave his job as salesman for a Chicago tailoring firm this week to join the Cleveland Indians at New Orleans, says he has no objection to serving as catcher, despite reports to the contrary. . . . In fact, Sullivan says that is the position he expects to play. . . . When the Purdue basketball team arrived in Minneapolis the other day, twenty-eight hours late, Coach Ward Lambert had 78 cents in his pockets. . . . Whoever coaches the Illinois basketball team next season will have most of this year's regulars and the best group of sophomores in several years. . . . Jack Lipe, coach at Thornton High school, a former Illinois player, is the latest name mentioned as a successor to Craig Ruby. . . . There will be no decision, however, for a month or two. . . .

Herb Graffis, the Squire of Squirrel Square in Northbrook, has recovered from the frozen finger he sustained while trying to mush to Lawson Little's wedding. . . . His lead dog, Skoalie, escaped without a nip, but his son Bill came out of it with his face partly frozen. . . . "The most satisfaction I have had out of a football game," says A. A. Stagg of the College of the Pacific, "was when my two boys, Lonnie, coach at Susquehanna, and Junior, coach at Moravian college, played a 0 to 0 tie last fall. I had written each of them in advance of the contest that I hoped it would result in a tie, and so did their mother." . . . Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy McLarnin are residing on a Beverly Hills estate, and Pop Foster, who has been through the boxing wars with Jimmy, is living with them. . . . If the Davis cup officials want Gene Mako to play this year they will have to wait until summer. . . . Mako is set upon graduation from Southern California and insists he will not play competitive tennis until this semester is over. . . . Phil Collins, a Golden Gloves referee since the inception of the tournament, was born on Oliver street in New York, birthplace of Al Smith. . . .

Friends of the Fighting Irish will be glad to learn that Kevin O'Neil Patrick Kehoe is captain of the Notre Dame fencing team and that George Meagher is leader of the track squad. . . . And George Ireland, who isn't Polish, hasn't been out of the Notre Dame basketball lineup in three years. . . . Frank Hill, Northwestern track coach, inspired his shot putters to greater efforts by placing a dime on the ground for them to shoot at. . . . He says he isn't afraid of going broke from the experiment. . . . The "D" club of De Paul university will give a banquet March 5 in honor of the school's letter winners in football and basketball this year. . . . While the Cubs are assembling in Chicago preparatory to their trip to Catalina Island tomorrow night this department extends the wish that when they return in April they will show the form that thrilled the nation in September, 1935. . . . Lon Warneke, winning pitcher in the two games the Cubs won in the world series, never has been in a dentist's chair. . . . Ernie Smith's teammates on the Green Bay Packers call him Halle Selassie. . . . Santa Clara university and Marquette are discussing a home and home football series to begin in 1937. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—The newly formed American Professional Football league had seven cities in the group. . . . Chicago's basketball team upset Purdue 21 to 19. . . . Charley Hoff of Norway again shattered his own world record in the pole vault when he soared 13 feet 4 inches at New York. . . . Bobby Walthour and Reggie McNamara were leading the six day bike race at the Coliseum.

Victim of Heart Ailment After Long Illness.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Thomas S. Shibe, president of the Philadelphia American League Baseball club, died tonight at St. Agnes' hospital here. He was 70 years old.

Mr. Shibe had suffered for a long time from a heart ailment and this was aggravated by a cold contracted last December.

Despite the effects of the cold he made his annual trip to Florida, but he barely arrived at Mount Plymouth before his cold took a turn for the worse. Late in January he wired for E. E. [Doc] Ebling, veteran trainer for the Athletics, but he did not respond to treatment, and was advised to return home.

He arrived here on Feb. 4 and immediately placed himself in care of his physician, Dr. John J. Fralinger, entering the hospital the next day. He grew steadily worse and for more than a week their had been little hope for his recovery.

Started as Vice President.

Mr. Shibe had been an official of the Athletics since his father, Benjamin F. Shibe, became president of the club in 1901, when the American league was formed, and put a club in Philadelphia, with Connie Mack as manager. Thomas Shibe, always a baseball fan and an active player for years, also purchased stock and was made vice president of the Athletics.

He held this office until the death of his father, Jan. 14, 1922, at the age of 83. The son then succeeded to the presidency of the Athletics and held the office until his death. His brother, John D. Shibe, succeeded him as vice president upon their father's death.

Mr. Shibe had always served the office with distinction. In the councils of the American league his views were always welcomed. He and President William Harridge were warm friends.

Friend of Ban Johnson.

He was a close friend of Ban Johnson, late president of the American league and its founder, and stood by him in all the baseball battles which ended in the founding of the advisory council with Judge Landis at its head in 1921.

During his administration of the Athletics they went from the depths to the heights. In 1922, they were last and were not prominent until 1929, when Mack led them to a pennant. They won again in 1930 and 1931, being world champions in 1929 and 1930.

Supervises Baseball Plant.

As a partner in the firm of A. J. Reach, Wright & Ditson Co, Mr. Shibe was a manufacturer of baseballs and baseball equipment. He had his father's gift of manufacturing, and that part of the great Reach plant was under his supervision.

Mr. Shibe was a member of many clubs and fraternal organizations. He was married but had no children. Besides his widow and his brother, John D. Shibe, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. George Reach, wife of George Reach, another officer and partner at the Reach plant, and Mrs. Franklin MacFarland.

GREAT LOSS, HARRIDGE SAYS

William Harridge, president of the American league, last night declared that the death of Thomas S. Shibe, Athletics' president was a great personal loss and a loss to baseball.

"While I have known for some days that Mr. Shibe was in a very critical condition, his passing is a great shock and personal loss to me," Mr. Harridge said. "His father was one of the organizers of the American league and Tom, with his brother John, had carried on since his death some years ago. Baseball was Mr. Shibe's only interest and his advice and counsel will be greatly missed by the members of the American league."

120,000 See Winter Olympics Close; U. S. Loses in Hocky

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Olympic fire went out today after glowing for eleven days while Norway and Germany took the greater share of the honors in the fourth winter Olympic games.

The fire, symbol of the international competition, was allowed to die after an impressive ceremony in which flags and anthems of the competing nations and blazing torches wove a spell over a crowd estimated at 120,000 which gathered in the ski stadium for the closing rites.

One incident marred the festive air. A long delay at the close of the ski jump, while the spectators milled around the exits, trampling and bruising the weaker visitors, caused a near riot before the gates were thrown open.

Hitler Takes His Time.

The stadium exits were closed by labor service workers, who held the crowd back while Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and other Nazi dignitaries took a leisurely departure.

The closing ceremony started at 4:30 p. m., shortly after Canada had defeated the United States, 1 to 0, in the final of the ice hocky competition to assure England's winning the title. Beginning with the slow gathering of the winners, it rose to a climax with the march into the stadium of the competing nations, with the flags carried at the head of each delegation, and drew to a colorful close with the illumination in white, silver, blue and gold of the Gudiberg and Kochelberg slopes.

Weather Hampers Skiers.

The crowds overflowed the stadium and ranged high on the slopes as the warm sunset—so warm that little snow remained after ten days of fortuitously wintry weather. The weather changed today with an early rain, followed by hot sunshine which melted the snow, hampering the ski jumpers as they made a vain effort to take the title from Norway's Birger Ruud.

It was estimated that during the games a million visitors, including more than 800,000 paying spectators, watched the athletes of 28 nations compete in skiing, skating, hocky, and bobsledding events.

Norway's flying speed skaters and polished performers on skis rolled up 146 points in the unofficial scoring to take all-around honors, followed by Germany with 117 points. The United States, which dominated the games at Lake Placid four years ago, took only one individual title and scored only 35½ points on the basis of ten points for a first place, five for second, etc.

Sledders Avert Shutout.

The lone American victory was scored by Ivan Brown and Alan Washbond of Keene Valley, N. Y., in the two man bobsled event Saturday when they retained the title.

Ivar Ballangrud, Norway's record breaking speed skater, easily took the individual honors of the games as he won three races to lead his team to a clean sweep. Ballangrud finished first at 500, 5,000 and 10,000 meters, while Charlie Mathisen won the other skating race at 1,500 meters.

Great Day for Norway.

Sonja Henie, figure skating champion; Ballangrud, and Germany's Christel Cranz, winner of the women's downhill-slalom ski event, drew the loudest applause as the victors marched into the stadium for the closing ceremony behind their flags and took their places before the rostrum. The American flag was borne by Rolf Monsen of Lake Placid, N. Y., senior member of the ski team, who marched beside the Nazi flag bearer.

As the awards were announced the winners mounted the dais, flanked by those who finished second and third. The flags of their nations were unfurled on the poles in the background, three cannon salutes sounded and the crowd cheered and sang lustily.

Count Latour brought the ceremony to an end with a speech in which he said: "In the name of the international Olympic committee, after having offered to Reichs Chancellor Adolf Hitler and to the Ger-

Cubs Gather Today to Set Out for Camp

Although the actual business of throwing and batting baseballs does not begin on Catalina island until Feb. 21, today will be a very busy day for Manager Charley Grimm of the National league champion Cubs.

Grimm will be at his desk in the Wrigley building today to receive information on the expected assembly of seven pitchers and three catchers who make up the advance party for the long trip to the coast.

Several of the lads will report in person to receive their final instructions today while others are expected to drift in tomorrow until the quota is complete.

The players, accompanied by Grimm, Traveling Secretary Bob Lewis, Coach Jimmy Corriden, as well as other officials of the club and their wives, will set out by special train from the North Western station at 9:30 p. m. tomorrow.

The following diamond laborers will be in the group:

Pitchers Clay Bryant, Hugh Casey, Gene Ford, Roy Henshaw, Clyde Shoun, Kenneth Weafer, and Clyde Hutchings, and Catchers Gabby Hartnett, Walter Stephenson, and Kenneth O'Dea.

Cardinals Send 1936 Contract to Dizzy Dean

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Somewhere in the intricate network of Uncle Sam's postal system a long white envelope from the office of the St. Louis Cardinals moved southward today, stuffed with portentous tidings for Jerome Herman Dean.

There is no mystery in the fact the envelope contains Dizzy's 1936 contract, but the figure inscribed thereon is known only to the Cardinal management.

Anticipating it is substantially under the $40,000 at which he now values his year's services, the Cardinal pitcher, who is reported to have drawn $17,500 last season, has sent up a preliminary squawk, echoing the recent holdout threats of Paul Dean, younger of the famous brothers.

All of which means few gray hairs to Vice President Branch Rickey—so long as he never actually has to pay the $40,000.

The Cardinal ringmaster, who previously has freely traded verbal wallops, changed to a waiting game today and refrained from an interchange of pleasantries with his recalcitrant pitcher.

And that's that—until Dizzy opens that long white envelope, probably tomorrow.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Blackhawks, who had become slightly mixed up in their bookkeeping for the last ten days, last night did a simple and highly satisfactory sum in the presence of 12,000 guests at the Stadium, and thus adjusted their accounts with the Boston Bruins, the final total for the evening being 4 to 2 in favor of our side.

This happy ending terminated a streak of four games in which they had not scored a victory, and also left them with a comfortable grip on second place in the American section of the National Hocky league. They are now a game and a half behind the leading Detroit Red Wings, a game ahead of the New York Rangers, and a game and a half ahead of the same Bruins whom the Hawks last night stamped into last place, thus balancing that 7 to 1 embarrassment at Boston last Tuesday night. It also evened the season series with the Bostonians at three apiece.

Tough Games Are Ahead.

Whether the Hawks can maintain the pace of last night depends on their performances against the Canadiens at Montreal tomorrow night and a battle with the Rangers in the Garden Thursday, after which they return to the Stadium Sunday to meet Toronto.

Every Hawk did his darndest last night, but the front pew in the hero section is reserved for four—Doc Romnes, Mush March, Paul Thompson, and Earl Seibert. Romnes started it by tying the score in the first period, after Doc Clapper had given the Bruins a 1 to 0 lead. March then delivered the second tally for Chicago, only to have Clapper match it in the final minute of the period. Romnes then came through with his second goal of the night in the middle period, with Thompson and March being given assists as on his first.

Mr. Seibert Turns in Real Gem.

The real gem of the evening, however, was contributed by Seibert. The big defense man had been robbed at least a dozen times since coming to the Hawks, but he made up for it last night with a shot the equivalent of which in football would be a 75 yard field goal.

Seibert drove the puck past the amazed Tiny Thompson from midice to make the last score of the game. It was, incidentally, the first goal a Blackhawk defense man has scored all season.

Boys Are Rather Dainty at Start.

As Boston-Chicago arguments go, the opening minutes of the contest carried a slightly pink tea tinge, so dainty were both teams about the business of feeling each other out. This condition endured for only those first minutes, however, for the score was tied at 1 to 1 within the first 3 minutes and 20 seconds of play.

Boston was the first to demonstrate an organized offense, and the Bruin forwards finally clicked on as neat a pass as the Stadium has seen this season. Beattie took charge of the puck just over the blue line, and lobbed a perfect spot pass to a point about ten feet in front of Karakas. It appeared to be an aimless, half-hearted try, but Clapper came tearing in to grab it on the end of his stick and rifle it past the helpless Karakas.

That 1 to 0 lead was enjoyed by the Bruins for exactly 40 seconds. The Hawks came back with a vengeance, and tied it at 3:20. March, Romnes and Thompson went across the blue line as one, with Paul and Mush feeding the puck to Doc along the left boards. The Hawk center's shot was so cleanly put that even Goalie

Three Are Mentioned for Faculty Board.

Prof. George Allen Works of the University of Chicago, chairman of Big Ten faculty athletic representatives, said Saturday that he was making a poll of conference schools on whether or not the Big Ten should investigate affairs at Madison. But a regent interviewed today was firm in his conviction that nothing would be done.

Regents Follow Hypothetical Case.

Works was called before the regents Friday to interpret Big Ten rules. The regents put before him a hypothetical case [which afterward turned out to be their ultimate action] and he said he believed it would be a violation. But the regents gained the impression that the conference would keep its hands off as long as they were making constructive effort to clear up the situation.

President Frank refused today to divulge the names of faculty men under consideration for the four vacant posts on the athletic board. After he makes his appointments they must be approved by the regents, whose next regular meeting will be March 11. However, Dr. Frank said he felt the regents would take earlier action in order that the new board can go ahead with selecting a coach and director. This can be accomplished at a special meeting or by telegraphic or telephonic vote.

Three Mentioned for Posts.

However, three names were mentioned in Madison today as possible appointees. First, and it is said most likely to be chosen, is Prof. John Guy Fowlkes of the school of education. Others are C. D. Cool, associate professor of Spanish, who is extremely popular on the campus, and Kimball Young, professor of social psychology.

Fowlkes has a deep interest in athletics, something that was never manifest by any of the retiring members of the faculty board except Prof. Gus Bohstedt, who won his letter with the Badger crew in undergraduate days.

Sundt, who has been connected with the athletic department since 1924, distinguished himself in the Meanwell-Spears row by refusing to take sides and keeping well out of it. It is felt that if he is appointed, the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association would return its basketball and track tournaments to Madison. Paul F. Neverman, W. I. A. A. secretary, testified before the board of regents that this year's tourneys were shifted to Wisconsin Rapids and Milwaukee because of Meanwell's antagonistic attitude. He also said that Sundt, who has managed the tournaments for the last ten years, was the only friendly member of the Badger athletic staf.

Badger Captain in 1921.

Sundt played full back at Wisconsin in 1918 [the S. A. T. C. year], 1919, 1920, and 1921. He was captain in 1921. He was an outstanding punter and defensive player, but was too light to be a plunger of the Nagurski or Joesting type.

After his graduation Sundt coached at Ripon college until 1924, when he returned to Wisconsin. He has been either freshman football coach or assistant varsity coach in the years since.

Quiet, but with a pleasing personality that has won him countless friends, it is felt that Sundt would be a fortunate choice to lead the Badgers out of the wilderness.

Rippe, Dunn Are Mentioned.

While Sundt appeared leader of the candidates for athletic director, numerous reports, none of them confirmed, were going the rounds on the football coaching position. Among them were Russell Rippe, Badger freshman coach, and Red Dunn, former Marquette star.

Dr. Spears today had made no definite plans for the future. He denied that he has received any definite offers as yet. Dr. Meanwell continued silent, as did Fallon. Their tenure does not expire until July 1, so they have plenty of time to look around.

Burman Faces Treest Friday at Stadium

Billy Treest, 1934 Chicago Golden Gloves middleweight champion, and Red Burman, Baltimore heavyweight protégé of Jack Dempsey, have been matched to meet in a ten round bout at Chicago Stadium Friday night, it was announced yesterday by officials at the west side arena.

The contest was closed after a two day controversy over financial terms for Treest. Handlers of the Batavia boxer were seeking 35 per cent of the net gate receipts, but Stadium representatives pointed out that this percentage was too high. It is believed that a compromise of 25 per cent was agreeable. Burman will be given the same percentage, an amount he was paid for his ten round conquest of Hank Bath at the Stadium last Friday.

Buddy Knox, the Dayton youngster who has scored five victories in a row in Chicago's heavyweight tournament, and Joe Lipps, Charlotte, N. C., will be opponents in a six round return bout in the semi-final. There will be four other bouts.

Chuck Woods, Detroit welterweight boxer, will make his third Chicago appearance tonight in a ten round windup bout against Pat Murphy at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace streets. Woods, recently graduated from the lightweight ranks, lost a ten round decision to Tony Canzoneri, 135 pound champion, at the Stadium in his local debut. He whipped Laddie Tonelli at Marigold a week ago in his start here.

Nango Singh and Gerald Meeker will meet in the main event of the wrestling show tonight at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Promoter Joe Coffey says the winner will be in line for a "title" bout with George Dusette, light heavyweight title claimant. Babe Kasaboski will clash with Gorilla Parker, Ernie Peterson is matched with Jim Landis, Charley Peterson will oppose Ken Fenlon, and Bill Gelz, is paired with Ed Van Herrick.

West Siders Renew Golden Gloves Fights

C. Y. O. and Arthur Oliver of the Savoy A. C. are said to be the best of the sextet. Warren Pumphrey of Franklin Park is a threat in the 175 pound class to the other open division lads.

Tomorrow night's Golden Gloves program will establish a record for boxing activity in Chicago. All three sections will be in action and a total of six rings will be used. The complete eliminations, while they have needed only eight nights, will show a total of 27 rings in operation. More than 4,800 boys entered this year's ninth annual tournament. By Thursday night this field will be reduced to 64 boys. Half of these will be qualified for the Tournament of Champions and will then be numbered in the list which includes the champions of 43 cities from 13 states and the champions of the C. Y. O.

Distribute Instructions to Qualifiers.

Instructions for the Tournament of Champions and the novice semi-finals at the Stadium will be distributed to the boys as they qualify. Tickets for officials for next week's three day tournament at the Stadium will be distributed tonight at the west side sectional.

Ending the first period leading, 3 to 1, the local Shamrocks continued their march to victory with two goals in the second session and five more in the final period. Seven C. Y. O. players scored, while five Windsor men flashed the red light. Tom Patterson for Windsor made the last goal of the game with a penalty shot.

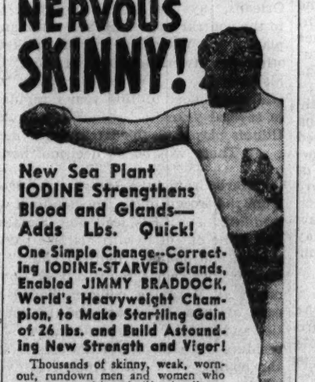
WEAK RUNDOWN NERVOUS SKINNY!



New Sea Plant IODINE Strengthens Blood and Glands—Adds Lbs. Quick!

One Simple Change—Correcting IODINE-STARVED Glands, Enabled JIMMY BRADDOCK, World's Heavyweight Champion, to Make Startling Gain of 26 lbs. and Build Astounding New Strength and Vigor!

Thousands of skinny, weak, worn-out, rundown men and women who are nervous, sick and ailing hardly realize their principal trouble is very frequently iodine starved glands. When these glands, particularly the glands which control weight and strength building, lack natural iodine (do not confuse this with ordinary chemical iodine which oftentimes is toxic), even diets rich in fats and starches fail to add weight and produce strength and energy. That's why skinny, worn-out tired folks often have huge appetites and yet the food they eat does them little good. Only when the system gets an adequate supply of

Michigan at Indiana.
Wisconsin at Iowa.
Illinois at Northwestern.

The game isn't over until the last man is out or the final whistle blown, so we frequently are told, but Indiana university's basketball team, now one step behind Purdue in the Big Ten race, will work a miracle if it snatches the 1936 championship from the Boilermakers.

To Ohio State goes credit for whipping Indiana. It was Indiana's first conference defeat and its second of the year. De Paul university beat the Hoosiers just before they began the Big Ten race with a 33 to 27 victory over the Wolverines.

Buckeyes Get Even.

By their conquest Saturday night at Columbus, 43 to 34, the Buckeyes not only recovered from their current slump, which allegedly was the result of internal dissension, but they squared accounts for the licking Indiana handed them, 40 to 28, in the final game of the 1933 season. That loss forced Ohio State to share the title with Northwestern.

Purdue won from Northwestern Saturday night, 31 to 27, to assume possession of first place. The Wildcats needed victory to stay in the race but couldn't quite get it and now, with three defeats [Purdue, Indiana, and Minnesota] have only a mathematical chance left. However, Northwestern still has games with both Purdue and Indiana, and is in position to tangle up the standings.

These Are Ahead.

PURDUE—At Northwestern; Minnesota at Lafayette; Iowa at Lafayette; at Michigan.

INDIANA—Michigan at Bloomington; Wisconsin at Bloomington; at Northwestern; Ohio State at Bloomington.

Indiana must win four games while Purdue is losing two of its four games to gain undisputed possession of the title. This is a difficult assignment and it is possible that Michigan, which defeated Michigan State Saturday night, 41 to 23, an impressive conquest, will wallop the Hoosiers tonight at Bloomington.

Illinois jumped into a tie for third place with Michigan by beating Wisconsin Saturday night, 36 to 20. The Illini nosed out the Badgers by only two points in the first game of the series, which was played at Madison.

Maroons Lose 9th Straight.

Iowa handed Chicago its ninth consecutive conference licking Saturday night at Iowa City, 33 to 20. Bill Haarlow was held to four points, which almost precludes his winning the individual scoring championship for the second year in succession.

Illinois plays at Patten gymnasium tonight. Northwestern won the first game of the series with the Illini, 40 to 28. Wisconsin meets the Hawkeyes at Iowa City in a game which will help determine the makeup of the second division standings.

A portion of tonight's receipts at the Illinois-Northwestern game will go to the fund to send James A. Naismith, originator of baseball, to the summer Olympic games.

U. S. LOSES HOCKY GAME, 1 TO 0, IN OLYMPICS FINAL

man people, to Garmisch-Partenkirchen authorities and to the games organizers our deepest gratitude, we proclaim the closing of the fourth Olympic winter games. We invite you to come to Berlin this summer in order to celebrate with us the eleventh Olympiad."

Flames Are Extinguished.

Then as seven skiers sailed down the small jump into the arena bearing a white Olympic flag and the battery thundered salutes, Latour turned off the Olympic flames.

Avery Brundage, American Olympic committee president, did not remain for the final day, leaving for Hamburg yesterday. He indicated unshaken faith in Germany's intention to conduct the summer games without friction.

"There were minor complaints about the games here, of course," he said, "but you must remember we had them, too, at Lake Placid. I am completely satisfied with the arrangements to conduct the games here. My only regret is that our four man bobs did not have more chance to practice."

Neville Scores for Canada.

The hocky championship was decided in the third minute of play when Dave Neville, Canadian forward, weaved into the American defense zone after a faceoff and easily beat Goalie Tom Moone of Boston who was partly blinded as he stood facing the hot sun. Thereafter the teams battled through 42½ more minutes without another score.

The American team was sadly handicapped by the absence of its spark plug, Jack Garrison of Boston, who injured his shoulder in last night's game against England. Frank Shaughnessy, defense ace, and Frank Spain, a clever frontline performer, played despite painful Charley horses.

Canada also was handicapped by injuries which kept Walter Kitchen and Ralph St. Germain out, but Raymond Milton and Maxwell Deacon performed creditably in their places.

Coach's Strategy Fails.

In the closing minutes of the game when Francis Moore, Canadian goalie, had the sun in his eyes, the American coach, Walter Brown, withdrew Phil Labatte from the defense and put four forwards on the ice in a desperate effort to score a goal that would have given America second place. It was almost successful when Frank Stubbs broke loose 30 seconds before the finish and fired from ten feet away. But Moore dived out like a football player, making a flying tackle and clutched the rubber.

The Americans leave tomorrow for Prague to play the Czechs, then a hard exhibition tour which includes four games in Switzerland and four in London before they sail for home March 11.

Weather conditions precluded any long jumps in the final ski event and Ruud did not make the longest of the day. His perfect form gave him a score of 232 out of a maximum of 24 points and enabled him to retain the title he won at Lake Placid in 1932. The Norwegian star made jumps of 75 and 74.5 meters [246 feet and 244 feet 5 inches].

Ericksson Takes Second.

Ruud's best leap was surpassed three times, twice by Sven Eriksson of Sweden, who took second place. America's jumpers, pressing for distance and losing points for poor form, could not threaten the leaders. The highest American ranking went to Sverre Fredheim of Minneapolis, who took eleventh place.

Third place went to Alf Andersen of Norway, fourth to Kaare Wahlberg of Norway, fifth to Stanislaw Marusarz of Poland and sixth to Lauri Vaonen of Finland.

Hawks Score 4-2 Victory Over Bruins

Hawks Come Through.

Several minutes later the Hawks were given a scoring chance when Graham was penalized for tripping Wiebe, and they made good on it. After Beattie had been excused for repairs for an injured right eye while trying to stem a Hawk rush, Romnes passed to March. The little wing wound up against the boards, but not until he had scored the Hawks' second goal in 10:10.

The Bruins then hammered at the Hawk defense until the final minute of the period when Clapper lined the puck past Karakas in 19:45. Siebert and Hollett were credited with assists.

After the first ten minutes of the second period, the Hawks were presented with another chance, and again capitalized on it. Beattie set the stage when he was deported for cross checking McFadyen, and the Hawk wings again swept in for a goal. Romnes, March, and Thompson fired shot after shot at the Boston goal, until finally Romnes sent a low, hard shot through Thompson for his second goal to give the Hawks a 3 to 2 lead. The time was 11:26.

Karakas Holds the Fort.

Wieland, Clapper, and Beattie came near connecting on another spot pass at the outset of the third period, but Karakas sent them away. The Bruin line of Cowley, Duguid, and O'Neil then started to irritate Karakas and made a good job of it, finally stretching him on the ice, almost curled around one post of his cage.

Then came Seibert's epic goal, off a shot that connects once in a hundred times. He stole the puck on his own blue line, and was no more than five feet past the center of the ice when Trudell, skating behind him, yelled: "Shoot!" Earl did just that.

Thompson stood almost at ease in the Boston nets, expecting to make a simple stop, but the shot clicked once against his toe top and then into the back of the cage. The time was 9:40.

CANADIENS, RANGERS TIE, 1-1

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens, decimated by injuries and sickness, fought the New York Rangers to a 1 to 1 tie in a National Hocky league match before 12,000 tonight.

Without the services of their star goal keeper, Wilf Cude, who has influenza; Pit Lepine, reserve center; Polly Drouin, reserve forward, and Georgia Mantha, regular wing man, the Canadiens fought hard and completely outplayed their rivals.

Melville [Butch] Keeling, left wingman, scored the Rangers' goal late in the first period on passes from Phil Watson and Frankie Boucher. The Canadiens tied the score when Aurel Joliat drove the puck into the New York cage on a pass out from Joe Blake in the second period. Paul Haynes also earned an assist on the play.

BRADDOCK AND LOUIS.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16.—Joe Gould, dapper little manager of Heavyweight Champion Jim Braddock, is a philosopher. He recognizes that the meteoric rise of Brown Bomber Joe Louis, former Chicago Tribune Golden Glover, deflected much of the public adulation and attention which normally accrues to the title holder. Instead of moaning and protesting, however, Gould accepts the situation as he finds it with the comforting reflection that no one can gain that title without first making terms for a fight with Jersey Jim and his manager.

While here with the champion, Joey was in a reflective mood one night and delivered himself thusly: "Joe Louis, with his sensational rise, had to come along just at a time when we had all the scenery for the most popular public champion of all time, not excepting Jack Dempsey.

"Why, you remember Dempsey was not so popular at first. He was a fighter at heart and he always gave the public a good show, so people liked to see him battle. But actually he was more popular after he lost to Tunney than before.

* *

"Well, Jim Braddock, an underdog, defeated Max Baer in a battle in which many critics did not give him a chance. He had been up before and was down again, many thought headed for the has-been class. He had been on the relief rolls. He won. He was Irish. He had a wife and children.

"First, he had everything to command sympathy. Secondly, he was sound and his ability commanded admiration. It was perfect.

"Then along comes Louis. I take nothing from him—until he meets Braddock in the ring. Your CHICAGO TRIBUNE promotion was great publicity for him. He turned pro and kept on winning. He became a knockerout. He was adroitly handled and there apparently was no resentment because of his race. His TRIBUNE reputation gave him opportunities a colored fighter ordinarily would not get and he made good on them. He is, we admit, a great box office attraction.

"Now then, get my point. If any one wants Jim's title, he's got to come and see Braddock and your Uncle Joey here. We hold the title. Terms must be made with us and they must be satisfactory to us.

* *

"Mind you, I do not admit that Joe is more popular than Jim. He has received more publicity, that's true, but he has fought oftener, for it is customary for a champion not to defend his title more than once a year. But Jim is mighty popular. We've just finished a long exhibition tour. It is the first one financially successful since Dempsey toured. Why, Memphis and some other cities even asked for a return engagement. We'd do it, too, but Jim wants to get ready for Louis in September. Then he'll show what a sound fighter with an Irish heart can do in the ring against Louis."

"You expect to win, then?" we ventured.

"Listen, Harvey," Gould replied, leaning over closer. "As Jim's manager, who has been with him through his ups, then his downs, and then his ups again, I couldn't think anything else for publication. But honestly I think Jim will win. Louis never has met a fighter of Jim's ability and, most important of all, of Jim's courage."

Blocked Punt Rule Changed by Committee

Palm Springs, Cal., Feb. 16.—(AP)—A suggestion to referees that the oft-debated slow whistle be eliminated and a change in the blocked punt rule came late today from the national collegiate football rules committee as it ended a diagnostic clinic.

The slow whistle permits a ball carrier to jerk away, pass, or kick after his progress down the field has been halted momentarily. It has been regarded generally a distinct aid to fast breaking lateral plays.

William Langford of New York, secretary of the committee, said the committee recommended that referees call a play complete more quickly than in the past.

Kicking Team May Run.

The rule changed will permit a kicking team to run with a recovered punt blocked behind the line of scrimmage. For the past several years a blocked punt, recovered by the kicking team, has been ruled dead at the point of recovery.

Another recommendation provides that players not eligible to receive a pass are no longer to be allowed in advance of the spot where the pass is caught. In addition, these ineligible players may not obstruct the right of way or view of opponents.

The committee recommended no penalty be imposed where a player, making a legitimate attempt to block a punt, rushes the kicker. The penalty of five yards and first down for illegal rushing remains the same.

Must Report Promptly.

Opposing teams must be on the field to play at the expiration of the 15 minute half time rest period without notification by the officials. Failure will mean a penalty of 15 yards at the second half kickoff instead of the present 25 yard penalty.

The group recommended players be clearly numbered on both front and back of their jerseys—six inch numerals on the front, eight on the back.

A uniform sized football was urged, and specifications will be forwarded manufacturers.

Biggest Mistake I Ever Made

[Otto Strohmeier, university of Chicago end coach, says that an athlete's chief memories are of the mistakes he made or the times he just missed doing something spectacular or smart. This is the eleventh of a series of articles describing such experiences of famous athletes.]

BY HARRY COOPER.

[Former Canadian and Western Open Champion.]

GOLF records show that the National Open championship of 1927 wasn't decided by the regulation 72 holes, but required extra innings between Tommy Armour and the writer. As far as I am concerned there would have been no playoff necessary had I played the 71st regulation hole properly.

It was on that seventeenth green of the final round that I made what I consider the outstanding mistake of my years in golf, and I have made many errors which have been quite costly.

Has Title in Grasp.

The championship was played at the Oakmont Country club outside of Pittsburgh, and no golfer who was there will have to hark back farther than the 1935 championship to recall how fast Oakmont's greens were.

I had a 74 on the opening round of the tournament to stay close to the leaders, Harry Hampton and Harrison Johnston, and came back with a 76 the next day for a 150 at the 36 hole mark. I bagged a 74 on the third round and then went into that last eighteen. Leaving the sixteenth green I needed a 4-4 finish for a 76, which would have won the tournament for me.

One Putt Too Many.

I placed my second shot to the seventeenth 10 feet beyond the hole. Instead of playing safe and making sure of a four, as the greens were very fast and treacherous, I tried to hole my first putt for a birdie three. As a result the bal skidded on and on, about 5 feet past the cup, and then missed coming back. I finally took a five on the hole. I finished the final round with a 77 and a 72 hole total of 301, which Armour matched by sinking a great putt for a birdie on the seventy-second hole. In the playoff the next day Tommy won the title, 76 to 79, but if I had had the knowledge then which I since have gained through tournament competition there never would have been a playoff.

WILSON TAKES CLASS A TITLE IN SKI TOURNEY

Elverum Second in First Soldiers' Field Meet.

Eugene Wilson, an unemployed road worker from Coleraine, Minn., captured the class A championship of the first annual Chicago Ski tournament at Soldiers' field yesterday. Wilson jumped 68 feet in each of his two attempts and took the title with a point total of 221.4.

Wilson, 22 years old, who two weeks ago won the national class B crown at Red Wing, Minn., was making his first appearance in the Chicago district.

The snowstorm prevented the riders from making attempts on the steel slide, which was erected over the permanent stands in the south end of the arena. The longest leap was made by Sverre Engen of Salt Lake City, Utah, winner of the Norge Ski club meet a month ago, who went 71 feet, but fell after landing.

Engen Jumps 69 Feet.

Sverre, brother of Alf Engen, American distance record holder, jumped 69 feet in his second attempt. Alf, who recently recovered from an attack of pneumonia, leaped 67 feet in his first try, but failed to return for his second jump.

John Elvrum of Los Angeles, Cal., finished second in class A with leaps of 69 and 66 feet. Harry Tregillis, Red Wing, Minn., with 65 and 66 feet, was third, and Joe Maurin, Milwaukee, Wis., took fourth place with 63 and 65 feet.

Paul Bietila, the sensational 17 year old jumper of Ishpeming, Mich., added the class C title to his string of victories. He went 66 feet in each of his two jumps.

Tasson Tops Class B.

Another Ishpeming rider, Bruno Tasson, won the class B crown, jumping 67 and 69 feet. Harvey Nilsen, Norge club, was second with leaps of 67 and 64 feet, while Buddy Engedahl, a clubmate, took third place with identical jumps.

Ingvald Bruseth of Chicago, one of the three national champions in the tournament, jumped 61 and 65 feet to win the senior class championship. Arvid Bakke, Milwaukee, Wis., was second with 63 and 62 feet, while Alf Jansen, also of Chicago, took third prize with leaps of 64 and 61 feet.

Motor Industry Pioneer Ill Less than Week.

Chapin had been ill of pneumonia since last Monday.

A pioneer in the marketing division of the automobile industry, he was a one time general sales manager of the Oldsmobile company and became head of the Hudson company before he was 30 years old. Chapin would have observed his fifty-sixth birthday next Sunday.

Until he was named to President Hoover's cabinet in 1932, to succeed Robert P. Lamont as secretary of commerce, Chapin's career had been devoted to the automobile industry.

Held High Post During War.

Almost from the beginning of his association with the automobile industry Chapin began an ardent advocacy of good roads, and figured largely in the educational work that led to the extension of improved highways throughout the world.

Highway development seemingly was as near to Chapin's heart as was the prosperity of the motor car industry. He saw in the development of international highways not only the extension of markets for motor cars and other products, but the bringing about of a "neighborliness" that could only enhance good will among peoples of the world.

Active in Detroit's Affairs.

Chapin was born in Lansing, Mich., Feb. 23, 1880, his father, a lawyer, being Edward C. Chapin.

Besides his membership in various organizations related to the automobile industry, Chapin was director in several Detroit banks and member of several clubs. At the University of Michigan he was a Phi Delta Theta.

Chapin was married in 1914 to Miss Inez Tideman of Savannah, Ga. He is survived by his widow, three sons, Roy D. Chapin Jr., John C. Chapin, and Daniel Chapin; three daughters, Joan, Sarah Ann, and Marian, and a brother, Cornelius K. Chapin, and a sister, Mrs. James O. Murfon.

DR. ROBINSON, 73, HISTORY WRITER, IS DEAD IN N. Y.

Heart Attack Is Fatal to Teacher.

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Dr. James Harvey Robinson, credited by biographers with revolutionizing the teaching of history in America, died unexpectedly of a heart attack in his home today. He was 73 years old.

Author of several works on history and its teaching, Dr. Robinson was professor of European history at Columbia university from 1895 to 1919. It was during his occupancy of that chair that he wrote his "Introduction to the History of Western Europe," considered by educators to be his greatest achievement.

They also produced "The Human Adventure," of which Dr. Breasted wrote the first part, "The Ordeal of Civilization," and Dr. Robinson concluded with "The Conquest of Civilization."

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

With the blessing of Parent-Teacher associations, child study groups, and various club and cultural leaders already bestowed, the Junior Nurse corps, a new type of inspirational program for children, is to be launched over WBBM-CBS from 5:15 to 5:30 today. The program, to be heard Wednesdays and Fridays also, will dramatize during its first episodes the life story of Florence Nightingale, the inspiring English nurse.

Featuring Sunda Love, Lucy Gilman, who at 10 has had five years of radio experience; Donald Weeks, a veteran at 12; Helen Ray, Jack Daly, and Ray Appleby, the program in a prehearing demonstrated that it had real merit. Like Ireene Wicker's "Singing Lady" episodes, it is completely above reproach—as so few juvenile shows are. It seems likely to appeal particularly to mothers—and after all the sponsor is selling a cleanser which will probably not intrigue little Johnny or his sister so much. The story of Florence Nightingale ought to interest Junior—but if it doesn't it will be because to him broccoli still bears a certain resemblance to spinach.

This being leap year, Lucy Monroe, the singing star of "Lavender and Old Lace," has picked out the ten "most charming men in radio." And she has picked one adjective to describe the dominant attribute of each one. Only one Chicagoan makes her list. He is Actor Don Ameche [suave]. The others: John Barclay [sophisticated], Phil Duey [enthusiastic], Gus Haenschen, her conductor [good natured], Frank Munn [sincere], Frank Parker [effervescent], Deems Taylor [amusing], Wilfred Pelletier [wise], and Alexander Woollcott [urbane]. A gentleman who has all these attributes would be her ideal, Miss Monroe explained.

Announcer Frank Baker will replace Leo Rosencrans in NBC's local continuity department. Rosencrans is leaving for Washington and a WPA post. . . . Violent magnetic disturbances blotted out trans-Atlantic relays over CBS on Friday evening . . . NBC had no difficulty, they explained, because they chart out these disturbances in advance and schedule no trans-oceanic broadcasts during periods of intense sun spot activity. Next disturbance, according to NBC, will be from noon next Thursday through all of Friday.

Leap year babies—persons born on Feb. 29—are invited to send in requests to NBC to be special guests at the Jamboree to be broadcast over WENR-NBC at 5:45 p. m. Saturday, Feb. 29. Chicago and suburban applicants to be considered first.

Blair Walliser, W-G-N production chief, revealed an unusual coincidence in casting the other day. In W-G-N's show "Lucky Girl" the heroine, Iris Carlyle, wins the title Miss America at Atlantic City. Iris Carlyle is played by Catherine Campbell. And in 1922 and 1923 the Atlantic City Miss America winner was a girl named Katherine Campbell. Different girls, of course.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Emile Green Burgard, 28, heiress to a timber fortune, was found shot to death in her home in the fashionable Highlands district here today.

Mrs. Burgard, a graduate of Foxcroft college in Middleburg, Va., was prominent socially. Her husband and two children survive.

PRAISE NEW DIAL RADIO AS FOREST FIRE WEAPON

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 16.—(AP)—A radio set that works like a dial telephone and may revolutionize forest fire fighting tactics was praised as a success here today.

The portable device weighs 35 pounds. When an operator on the fire line wants to communicate with headquarters he has only to turn a dial. A resulting radio impulse rings a bell at the central station. The central station may call any subordinate point merely by dialing.

The dial eliminates the necessity of having an operator always at the ear phones.

Exhibited here for the first time yesterday, the instrument made instantaneous two way communication between a ground set and an airplane 4,000 feet above Spokane. The plane's pilot quickly found and reported the location of an obscure bridge 25 miles away without loss of radio contact.

MISS ELIZABETH FREWEN RISSER IS DEAD IN ITALY

Miss Elizabeth Frewen Risser, who conducted a finishing school for American girls at Rome, Italy, until her retirement a year ago, died there Friday of pneumonia, according to word received here yesterday by her nephew, Albert E. Butler of the Seneca hotel. Miss Risser was 76 years old. A native of Chicago, she once taught history at the University School for Girls, 1106 Lake Shore drive. In 1910 she left Chicago and established her school at Rome. Many socially prominent Chicagoans attended her school. She was to be buried in the Protestant cemetery in Rome.

JOHN C. ELLIOTT, VETERAN BANK EMPLOYE, DIES

John C. Elliott, 60 years old, an employé for many years in the vault of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company, 815 West 63d street, died yesterday in his home, 7530 Stewart avenue. Mr. Elliott, born in Joliet, lived in Chicago about 30 years and was known to many south side residents. He was survived by his widow, Frances; two sons, William, 25 years old, and John, 17 years old, and a sister, Florence, all of whom live at the Stewart avenue address. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Tuesday at the Auburn Park Methodist Episcopal church. Interment will be in Mount Hope cemetery.

FOREIGN MARTS NEEDED FOR U. S. SURPLUS GRAIN

Farmers' Prosperity Hinges on Exports.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Since the Agricultural Adjustment act was swept away by the Supreme court's discussion of agricultural recovery, outside of congress, has reemphasized the need and permanent advantage of reopening foreign markets to surplus American farm products.

Even some of the individuals who were associated with the administration during the attempt to create prosperity through scarcity are now voicing this belief. There appears to be a growing conviction that the only permanent recovery for American agriculture lies in exploitation of foreign markets. Nor does the prospect of recovery of such markets appear as remote as it did some months ago.

The substantial inroads made in the last twelve months on the world's swollen wheat surplus give some promise that America may again become a world supplier of wheat instead of an importer, as was the case during the AAA régime.

Nationalistic Spirit Waning.

International trade is still retarded by many barriers. What recently appeared to be insurmountable obstacles, however, do not appear so formidable now. Some observers believe the nationalist trend toward agricultural self-sufficiency is slowing up and may soon reverse itself.

The attempt of nations that normally import foodstuffs to fill their needs through home production has played an important part in the "farm problem" of exporting countries. If and when such countries return to their traditional policy of buying abroad the solution of the farmer's problem in exporting countries will be near.

Typical of the present approach to the farm problem were the remarks here last week of Frank A. Theis, Kansas City grain man and former chief of the marketing section of the AAA.

Holds Grain Exports Essential.

"Resumption of wheat and flour exports is highly essential for the continued progress of the southwest as a surplus producer," the former AAA official said. "As an example of the general participation in such trade and the benefits derived, let us consider the crop year 1924-'25. We then exported 70 million bushels of wheat through the gulf at an average price of $1.25 a bushel, f. o. b. steamer, meaning a revenue of approximately $70,000,000 to the farmers of the southwest who sold this wheat.

"The railroads carrying this wheat to tidewater earned approximately $14,000,000; country elevators about $1,750,000; export elevators, $875,000; exporters about $500,000; forwarding brokers and chartering agents' charges, fees, inspections, weighing, etc., aggregated about $300,500. This does not include the additional revenue earned by steamship companies after the grain was placed in their boats. This is building wealth for our farmers and industry generally."

National Distillers' 1935 Profit Equals $3.44 Share

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—National Distillers Products corporation, New York, whisky distilling concern, reports 1935 net profit of $7,009,237, equivalent to $3.44 a share of capital stock. For 1934 the profit was $11,134,768, or $5.51 a share.

Cold Weather Boosts Rail Travel South

Railroads serving the resort districts in Florida and other parts of the south, the Pacific coast, and the southwest, reported yesterday that the record breaking cold weather in Chicago and the middle west has stimulated their business. All reported substantial increases in travel over the same period of last year, with passenger volume particularly heavy when the temperature fell below zero.

The stormy weather has increased the number of automobiles which vacationists have sent by train to the south.

The New York Central said its business to Florida has been the heaviest in several years, with volume of travel at least 30 per cent ahead of 1935.

Reports 22 Per Cent Gain.

In the period from Jan. 1 to Feb. 5 the Pennsylvania said it had a 22 per cent gain over last year in Florida travel, while for the week ended Feb. 5, when the cold here was especially bitter, the gain was 35 per cent.

The Rock Island said that the unprecedented cold has caused a record exodus from eastern and middle western states to Arizona and California over this line. Since Dec. 1, the road reported, more than 15,000 passengers have gone to these winter resorts on the Golden State and Apache trains. During February it has been necessary to add 40 overflow cars to these trains to handle the persons seeking to escape the cold.

The Santa Fe in the period from Dec. 1 to Feb. 10 transported 34,168 passengers to California and Arizona, the total running close to the volume for 1930. Both the Chief and the Grand Canyon Limited have left Chicago in two sections on several occasions.

Others' Trafic Rises.

Busines of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois to the Florida resort country increased 57 per cent in January over January, 1935, that road reported. On one day this week passengers shipped 15 automobiles.

The Illinois Central reported that from Jan. 15 to the present there has been a 33 per cent increase in the number of passengers moving to Florida, while travel to New Orleans by persons taking cruises to Latin America has increased sharply. Passenger shipments of automobiles have increased 100 per cent, it was said.

The National Railways of Mexico estimated travel to Mexico twice as heavy as last year. It had 800 passengers from Chicago during January.

BONDHOLDERS GET AQUITANIA FLATS CONTROL

Bondholders will have complete control of the Aquitania apartments, owning all the stock of a new corporation being organized as a result of confirmation by Federal Judge John P. Barnes of a reorganization plan under section 77B of the bankruptcy law. Ten shares of stock in the new corporation will be issued for each $1,000 of bonds outstanding.

The building, a 14 story structure at Lake Shore drive and Argyle street, is earning substantially more than current taxes, it was said yesterday. A $245,000 tax settlement with Cook county made under the reorganization will be met through a new mortgage of $150,000 and funds on hand.

The reorganization winds up a successful four year fight of bondholders to save the property after the county sought to foreclose and take possession for delinquent taxes dating back to 1924. Foreclosure proceedings were begun in 1931, and the property was saved for bondholders shortly before expiration of the redemption period in 1934 by the filing of a reorganization petition. The building was financed originally by a first mortgage bond issue of $1,200,000 underwritten by S. W. Straus & Co., of which $975,000 was outstanding at the date of default.

INFLATION FEAR IS CHIEF FACTOR IN STOCK MART

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Senator Patman's new drive for the payment of the soldiers' bonus with "printing press" money, former President Hoover's public warning that all round higher prices are on the way, and the continued influx of foreign money, most of it reputedly seeking investment in American securities, were forthcoming among other developments during the week to stimulate speculative activity on the share as well as on other exchanges. The result was another gently ascending series of "average" price highs and a new net weekly gain for the growing record.

Gains During Year.

The market has been on the uptrend for nearly a year now without a serious break, and in spite of the great help it admittedly has received from business recovery it is a matter of common agreement that a very large proportion of the buying has been of an outright inflationary character. Brokers think that almost all the great activity in the cheaper stocks of the list recently—the socalled "penny" shares, many of them admittedly all but worthless on the face of corporation earnings back of them—can be set down under this heading.

However, the trade statistics continue to support the bullish viewpoint even though they are not as rosy on the whole as they have been in some weeks of the last few months.

Last week brought another sharp gain in the operating rate of the steel industry and steel scrap prices were higher. Railroad freight car loadings showed an improvement. The cotton textile industry improved last month.

Evidence of Caution.

Against this bullish summary may be set the increasing caution evidenced by large investment interests and professional speculators, many of whom are said to feel that prices are beginning to reach too far into the unknown. Talk of an "overdue" technical correction is also growing around the board rooms. The market itself affords plenty of evidence that the urge to take profits after the prolonged advance from last spring's price levels is growing apace, in spite of the deterrent of income tax reports now nearly due.

A feature of the week's exchange dealings was a gain of more than 7 points in United States Steel common, which resumed market leadership after an extended period of playing second fiddle to its industrial rival, Bethlehem. The fresh upturn in "big steel" was put down to the corporation's improved position.

Railroad shares were active and strong on several days of the week.

MANUFACTURERS RAP TEXTILE INDUSTRY'S 'LITTLE NRA' PLAN

Opposition to the national textile bill "proposing creation of a little NRA for all branches of the textile industry" was voiced last night by the Illinois Manufacturers association. The bill is characterized as "an ill-advised attempt to delegate to the U. S. government undue authority over conduct of private business."

"It puts the government in the textile business," the association statement asserted. "All the abuses, restrictions and tyranny which hampered business under the NRA until industry in this country was slowly being strangled are imposed.

"It would intensify maladjustment between industries. It would make more difficult the problem of natural adjustment and balance so necessary to functioning of our competitive system. It would give to the federal government power to regulate purely local matters through control of contractors and subcontractors. It would impose restrictive conditions upon bidders, narrowing the field of competition, increasing cost of goods, and tending toward monopoly."

REPORT BRITISH WILL MAKE BIG LOAN TO FRANCE

Paris, Feb. 17.—[Monday.]—(AP)—The usually well informed newspaper Echo de Paris said today that a British loan of approximately 3,000,000,000 francs [about $200,400,000] will be granted to France this week.

The loan, the paper stated, would be the largest international transaction negotiated at London since the world war.

Echo de Paris said the British government was ready to approve the loan by a banking syndicate headed by Lazard Brothers.

It would run nine months or a year, the newspaper reported, at 3 per cent, with an option of repaying at the end of each quarter.

CONGOLEUM 1935 PROFIT AT RATE OF $1.82 A SHARE

Net profit of Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., manufacturer of floor coverings, for the year ended Dec. 31, 1935, amounted to $2,242,908, compared with $2,102,058 in 1934, A. W. Hawkes, president, informed stockholders in his annual report yesterday. This was equal to $1.82 a share on 1,390,000 common shares outstanding, compared with $1.71 a share in the preceding year. Current assets on Dec. 31, last, amounted to $15,058,819, including cash of $1,545,231 and marketable securities of $5,403,545, compared with current liabilities of $834,260.

BUSINESS IN CHICAGO AGAIN IS HAMPERED BY FRIGID WEATHER

Business activities in Chicago declined further last week as the result of continued cold weather, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce. Country-wide difficulties in making freight deliveries piled up undelivered orders, while new arrivals of merchants and shoppers were seriously curtailed.

"That buyers were behind in their commitments," the association said yesterday, "was evidenced last Thursday, when with a temporary rise in the temperature department stores and other retail outlets were well patronized by buyers of winter commodities. Cold days showed shopping contingents noticeably smaller than the same period last year.

"Wholesalers also felt the effects of adverse weather. Registrations at trade shows held during the week were subjected to material last minute cancelations, with business turnover lessened in proportion.

"While these conditions have sobered the attitude of retailers and wholesalers, all are unanimous in believing the delayed purchases will only mean much heavier buying with the first real break in weather."

Industrially, Chicago carried on in satisfactory fashion, the association said. The percentage of employment and production remained ahead of 1935. Talk of inflation and a more buoyant spirit is being reflected in heavier advance orders for capital goods.

Reports Cities as Collecting More of Taxes

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The average American city of more than 50,000 population collected general property taxes in 1935 equal to 101 per cent of the year's levy, the municipal service department of Dun & Bradstreet reports in a study made public today on the trend of tax delinquency during the last six years.

Dr. Frederick L. Bird, author of the survey, points out that this encouraging trend was due not so much to increasing promptness in the payment of current taxes as to the influx from the huge accumulation of delinquent taxes which had piled up for several years past.

Collections Improve.

For the second straight year, the study reveals, collections on the current year's levies for the 190 cities surveyed continued to improve. The peak delinquency average for 150 comparable cities was 26.35 per cent of the current levy in 1933. It dropped to 23.05 per cent in 1934 and to 18 per cent in 1935.

There has been a recovery, on the average, of half the ground lost since 1930, when delinquency stood at only 10.15 per cent.

Real Estate Still Lags.

Dr. Bird suggests that the improvement in tax collections of the last two years has not, on the whole, kept pace with business recovery and attributed this to the fact that real estate, in income and activity, has failed as yet to show any healthy degree of recovery.

"Even without further improvement in tax collections, the great majority of cities should be able to maintain balanced operations, some with ease and most without serious difficulty," the survey concludes. "It cannot be done, however, on the basis of perfunctory, visionary, or politically determined revenue estimates. This important aspect of the budget needs more serious attention than it has received in the past."

FLEXIBLE SHAFT PROFITS ADVANCE SHARPLY IN 1935

Combined net earnings of the Chicago Felxible Shaft company and its wholly owned subsidiaries in Canada and Australia for the year ended Dec. 28, 1935, were $732,535 as compared with $368,040 for 1934, President H. C. Wright reported yesterday. The 1935 earnings were at the rate of $4.07 a share as compared with $2.05 a share for 1934. Sales of the parent company showed a substantial increase, resulting in a gain of $378,956 in net profit over the 1934 profit. Current assets as of Dec. 31, 1934, including $1,027,506 cash, totaled $2,351,932, while current liabilities totaled $464,879.

STEEL OUTPUT RISES IN SPITE OF HINDRANCES

Rate Reaches 54½%; Rail Buying Helps.

Steel mill operations moved upward last week against such adverse influences as the weather, suspended outdoor construction, and reduced automobile sales, the magazine Steel says in placing the rate at 54½ per cent of production capacity, up 1½ points, railroad purchasing accounted for most of the rise.

A steady demand for steel from the farm equipment industry and broadening manufacturing requirements also are serving to offset the lighter orders from the automotive and construction industries.

Still larger tonnages are accumulating, the journal says, and an appreciable improvement in specifications soon, combined with advancing production costs, may serve to stabilize prices. The industry is expected to announce prices on Feb. 20 and open books for the second quarter on March 1.

Some Price Concessions.

Despite efforts to strengthen the market at Detroit, the $3 a ton concession on sheets and strip, which had been limited to automobile tonnage, has become general and in some instances there has been further reduction of $2 a ton. Carbon bars in the Detroit area have been cut $2 a ton and cold finished steel prices are being shaded. In other districts a $1 a ton quantity extra on carbon bars has been waived.

Although the price of heavy melting steel scrap has been advanced 50 cents to $15-$15.50 a ton at Youngstown because of slow deliveries brought on by weather conditions, it is believed scrap prices have generally reached a peak.

Several Districts Show Gains.

District operating gains last week included 1½ points to 59½ per cent at Chicago, 3 points to 84 per cent at Wheeling, 5 points to 66½ per cent at Cleveland, 2 points to 34 per cent at Buffalo, 6 points to 94 per cent at Detroit, ½ point to 37 per cent in eastern Pennsylvania, and 1 point to 62 per cent at Youngstown, which is scheduled to open this week at 63 per cent. Other areas were unchanged.

Rail orders included 38,000 tons, with 3,500 tons of fastenings for the New York Central and 10,000 tons for the Denver and Rio Grande Western, while the Rock Island is planning to close on 38,000 tons. The Kansas City, Oklahoma and Gulf was authorized to buy 5,700 tons.

RAILROAD GROUP LEADS ADVANCE IN BOND MARKET

CarriersReachNewHighs; Other Divisions Firmer.

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—A strong demand for railroad securities dominated the bond market last week.

Carrying through without a hitch the upward movement that first began to take definite shape around Feb. 1, all types of railroad obligations were bid up day after day with many issues attaining the highest levels since the middle of 1931. Other groups displayed uniform steadiness, but advances were less pronounced and there was some profit taking in the utilities and industrials.

Federal Bonds Firmer.

Government bonds followed the general pattern of the corporate divisions. Renewed demand from institutional investors kept the list as a whole in a rising curve, and for the first time in several weeks there were no unsettling influences to overcome. The guaranteed Home Owners' Loan and Federal Farm Mortgage issues were especially active and firm.

A long list of favorable developments whetted trading interest in railroad bonds. Carloadings held up remarkably well in the face of adverse weather conditions; preliminary estimates of net operating incomes in January tended to confirm earlier predictions that several lines made the best showing in many months, and marked progress was reported in straightening out the tangled financial affairs of some roads undergoing reorganization.

New High Marks Attained.

The rail group ventured into new high territory repeatedly during the week and drew up for the week-end recess without showing signs of fatigue. Industrials, utilities, and the low yield group also reached for new high levels, while foreign bonds levelled off slightly under the influence of fresh nervousness in international dollar rates.

The market for state and municipal bonds was featured by the sale of New York City of a new issue of $19,500,000.

Berghoff Brewing Corporation.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me information on Berghoff Brewing? —M. C. E.

Answer: Berghoff Brewing corporation was incorporated in January, 1933, the outgrowth of an organization established in 1887. Its plant in Fort Wayne, Ind., has a capacity of about 250,000 barrels of beer a year. Storage capacity is about 45,500 barrels.

Shrinkage of cash during 1934 weakened the company's current position and it was necessary to obtain extension of accounts payable from creditors. This was done, enabling the company to continue operations.

A substantial improvement in earnings took place during 1935. For the first 11 months the company earned $248,000, or 91 cents a share. Loss in 1934 was $89,000. Net income from Jan. 18 to Dec. 31, 1933, was $415,000, or $1.54 per share.

Working capital likewise improved. It was $141,000 on Nov. 30, 1935, against a working capital deficit of $43,000 on Dec. 31, 1934.

Capitalization consists of 270,000 shares of $1 par stock on which nothing is currently being paid. The stock is a speculation.

Keokuk Electric Company.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me a line on Keokuk Electric first 6s, due 1945? —E. A. F.

Answer: Keokuk Electric company, an operating unit of the North American system, is a small utility company supplying electricity and gas to Keokuk, Ia., and electricity to four additional small communities in Illinois and Iowa, serving a population of 22,500.

Fixed charges have been covered by ample margins. They were earned 2.44 times in 1934, 3.51 times in 1933, 3.73 times in 1932, and 3.90 times in 1931. Current position on Dec. 31, 1934, appeared satisfactory.

The $700,000 of first 6s, due 1945, are secured by a first mortgage on all assets of the company. They are currently callable at 104½. The bonds are considered sound.

MOST NATIONS' BUSINESS GAINED IN LAST YEAR

Holland, Switzerland Lag, Says British Review.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Holland and Switzerland are now practically the only remaining pools of unrelieved depression in the era of world business recovery which got well on its way during 1935, according to the annual review of last year's commercial history, published yesterday by the Economist. The revival which began in 1933 slackened in 1934, and then gained increased momentum last year, the review said.

"Fairly steady increase in production, consumption, and employment occurred last year under the influence of cheap money and, in some cases, public works. In the United States business expansion has been rapid since last summer.

Situation in Britain.

"In Britain low interest rates were maintained and the housing boom continued to cause general increase of production, consumption and employment. Foreign trade gained further."

But while recovery under these impulses was marked over the whole of last year, this rate not started off so well. Preliminary trade returns for January are decidedly disappointing. For the first time since 1933 exports were lower than they were in the corresponding month of the preceding year. Imports, too, have fallen sharply below the high level recorded in the closing months of 1935, but they are well above those of January, 1935. Reëxports declined sharply.

January exports were £34,460,000 [the pound is currently quoted at $4.99¾] compared with £34,917,000 in December and £35,481,000 in January, 1935. Imports were £70,024,000, or £4,457,000 lower than in December, but £8,108,000 higher than in January, 1935.

Pacts Aid Dominions.

With the Ottawa trade agreements coming up for revision next year, the Federation of British Industries—which has recently been showing increasing anxiety over the relative slackness of British foreign trade—has discovered that the agreements have brought the least benefit to this country and the most of the dominions.

The federation makes two demands: first, that the dominions should adjust protective duties to such a level as "will give the United Kingdom producers full opportunity of reasonable competition"; second, that United Kingdom manufacturers should be protected from dominion manufactures which now, by reason of lower costs of under valued currencies, are forcing their way into this country without, it is alleged, any trade in the shape of increased British exports to the dominions.

WAHL COMPANY EARNINGS SHOW GAIN DURING 1935

The Wahl company yesterday reported 1935 net income of $113,014, or 21⅛ cents a share on the common stock after allowance for preferred dividend requirements. This compares with $23,207 net for 1934, which was less than requirements on the 11,593 preferred shares.

Net sales of $2,236,394 were $383,239, or approximately 20 per cent larger than in 1934. Total assets rose from $2,506,378 to $2,805,011 during the year. Current assets, including cash of $274,034, were $1,635,041 last Dec. 31, compared with $1,359,143 a year earlier, including $199,823 cash. Current liabilities rose from $100,691 to $209,401 during the year.
